Ration Authority Requested On Principal Foods, Gas, Oil; Moves to Cripple Relief Beaten

Farm Bloc Plans Defeated But House Fails to Reach Final Vote

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The House yesterday for the second straight day fought down crippling changes in the foreign relief bill but failed to reach a final vote on the emergency measure.

Warnings from both sides of the aisle against "gutting amendments helped stem a new flood of farm bloc limitations on shipments abroad.

Only committee-approved changes, banning Government purchases of aid items here at above market levels, and seeking to cushion the impact on prices, were adopted.

Approved by Voice Vote

The latter, approved by a voice vote, required the President to issue aid procurement regulations to minimize as far as possible:

1. The drain on commodities in short supply here.

2. The domestic price-lifting effect of foreign purchases.

In more than six hours of voting the House drove only half way through the bill before adjourning overnight.

Leaders predicted final passage late today but some of the program's tallest hurdles still lay ahead.

These include a threatened cut in the 590-million-dollar House aid figure, a fight on the projected 150-million-dollar RFC aid advance, and an effort to shift food distribution under the program to the Red Cross.

Shortly after the House convened, farm members resumed their drive to prevent shipment to western Europe of such vital aid items as fertilizer, farm machinery parts and petroleum, all in short supply.

Appeals by Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) and Representative John W. Flannagan, jr. (D., Va.) helped turn back their attack.

Dirksen told the House the thinking of the country "is ahead of us on this program." He said admittedly there will be some scarcities here.

He declared some of the proposed limitations were tantamount to "telling the world we are willing to share so long as it requires no sacrifices on our part."

Shipment Ban Beaten

"I implore you, let's not gut this bill," said the soft-spoken Illinoisan, himself from a farm section.

"Peace, freedom is involved. For God's sake, let's not take steps here short of peace."

Talking more bluntly, Flannagan said it is "time we quit this demagoguing and did some straight thinking."

He said those who want fertilizer and other short supply items withheld from the aid program "have not spoken the sentiment of my farmers."

After more than two hours of debate, an amendment by Representative H. Carl Anderson (R., Minn.), banning shipment of farm machinery and petroleum was defeated 145 to 107 on a standing vote.

Power to Control Key Industrial Items Also Asked By Administration

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The Administration yesterday presented Congress with a bill granting it power to control the distribution of principal foods and key industrial materials.

The authority would permit across-the-board allocations, including direct consumer rationing of meat, milk, poultry products, cereals, fats and gas and oil. It provides similarly full control over tin and railroad equipment.

A lesser degree of control, involving priority orders, inventory controls and set-asides, was requested for iron and steel and—after public hearings and findings of national necessity by the President—of any other commodity.

Harriman Presents Bill

The bill was presented to a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee by Secretary of Commerce Harriman. Although few Senators commented directly on the draft legislation, its methods are generally disapproved by Republican congressional leaders. In both House and Senate, they prefer a system of voluntary controls and are working on legislation to this purpose.

The Harriman bill also contained a section to encourage voluntary agreements (by freeing cooperating businessmen from jeopardy of anti-trust law prosecution) and contemplated that Federal powers would be invoked only where voluntary agreements for allocations failed.

But the preamble to the proposed law clearly stated that "voluntary efforts alone" are insufficient a[illegible] "the continued exercise of c[illegible] limited emergency powers is [illegible]quired."

In addition to granting al[illegible] tion powers, the bill would e[illegible] present authority, expiring February 29, to control exports.

Indirect Controls Provided

The measure does not provi[illegible] for any direct price controls, except in the case of exports, where the Department of Comm[illegible] would be given an indirect lever. It could refuse to grant export licenses for too highly priced goods, or could discriminate in favor of exporters selling at lower rates by awarding them the permission to ship.

In another way, also indirect, the bill would appear to permit some price-fixing for goods consumed at home. Testifying on the measure, Commerce Department Solicitor Adrian S. Fisher admitted that it gave the Government the right to buy up entire farm crops.

"And fix the price?" asked Senator Cooper (R., Ky.).

"That is correct," Fisher said.

The bill came to Capitol Hill after repeated congressional criticism that the Administration had failed to specify in concrete terms what powers it wanted and to prescribe the limits to those powers.

Wide Authority Possible

As stressed in the draft measure, and as explained by Fisher and Undersecretary of Commerce William C. Foster, the powers would be exerted mainly through the issuance of priority orders and setasides, to insure fulfillment of essential contracts and the most important foreign and domestic needs.

But the bill itself clearly called for authority of a much wider sort, to be invoked if necessary. Full allocation, including rationing, could be applied to these commodities:

Tin and tin products, chichona bark and quinidine, nitrigenous fertilizers, grain and grain products, rice and rice products, dried beans and peas, fats and oils (including fatty acids, margarine, soap and soap powder), livestock and poultry and their products, milk and its products and freight cars

Choice Steers Bring $39 for New High

Chicago, Dec. 9 (AP).—Choice steers sold at a new all-time record price for the regular market today at $39 a hundred pounds. The lot included some prime grade material, the average weight running to 1150 pounds.

The previous record was set a week ago today at $38.50, while on this date a year ago the market top was $34 a hundredweight.

Check on Speculating

Senate Group Demands Probe Of Army's Grain Purchases

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Army was called upon yesterday to report if any of its "officials or employes who might have access to information as to Army purchases" have been speculating in grain or other commodities.

Secretary of the Army Royall immediately promised Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, that such a check of who "are or have been speculating" will be made at once, and the result reported to the committee.

"It would be so grossly improper," Royall declared, "that I want to know about it." He will require, he said "a statement from all who directly or indirectly have anything to do with Army purchases."

"That is a very fine position for you to take," Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) remarked.

Because of constant rumors that Government officials have been speculating in food, Bridges said, a similar request will be made of the State and Agriculture Departments.

Rumors that Government officials have been active in speculation have been current since October 9, when Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared in Chicago:

"I can call names—some of them public figures—who are speculating in large quantities of grain."

Anderson's remark came shortly after the Commodity Exchange Authority of the Department of Agriculture had called for a statement of all speculative accounts in wheat as of September 18, 19 and 20. Every account involving more than 1000 bushels of wheat was reported to CEA. A similar statement as to speculation in corn was called for July 1.

Bridges' request came at the close of an afternoon marked by a heated exchange between Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) and Royall and other Army officials over recent Army sugar purchases.

McCarthy said the Army by "subterfuge" had violated the law by paying more than the world market price for sugar. He said the Army paid $1.01 a hundred pounds more for 500,000 tons of sugar last October than the New York market price.

Tracy S. Voorhees, special assistant to Secretary Royall, told McCarthy the Army bought the sugar

Wyatt Group Fully Indorses Marshall Plan

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Full and prompt support of the Marshall Plan was urged yesterday by Americans for Democratic Action as the best hope of keeping western Europe from Communist or Fascist rule.

"The Marshall Plan represents the climax of our foreign policy," said a 43-page report outlining what it called "a liberal foreign policy for the United States" and differing sharply from many ideas of the Henry A. Wallace wing of the Democratic Party.

"It is a conception of which every American has an honest right to be proud," the report said. "It answers the demands of those critics who have called so long and so correctly for an affirmative American foreign policy. It aims straight toward the essential goal of a unified and productive Europe."

The report was signed by the ADA's national chairman, former Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt, and by former Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis and Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.

Indorsed by Mrs. Roosevelt

It was indorsed in its "direction and general purpose" by a group of 19 prominent citizens, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Paul A. Porter, Herbert H. Lehman, Sumner Welles, Mark Ethridge and Elmer Davis.

It was the product of many weeks of discussion and drafting under the direction of Arthur S. Schlesinger, jr., associate professor of history at Harvard and winner of last year's Pulitzer Prize for "The Age of Jackson."

The report warned against a "penny-wise and pound-foolish" attitude in meeting the cost of European recovery.

"Our experience with the British loan shows again the folly of too little and too late," it said. "We must not make this mistake

'Huge Gains' Laid To 'Intermediaries' Of Britain and U. S.

By Ned Russell

London, Dec. 9 (NYHT).—Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister, accused Anglo-American "intermediaries" today of making huge profits out of the Ruhr coal mines at the expense of the German budget and German "industrialists."

The Soviet charge, which was interesting mainly because of Molotov's expressed concern for German "industrialists," was made at today's meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers.

It came at the end of a weary, three-hour session devoted mainly to discussion of problems affecting the economic unification of Germany.

It was the second day of debate on a British paper, first submitted last spring, outlining proposed "supplementary principles" regarding the treatment of Germany.

One Agreement Reached

The four ministers reached one agreement today. They agreed on the desirability of drawing up a common export-import program for Germany and of increasing production of various peacetime German industries to a maximum within whatever level of industry they decide to fix. But even this agreement had to be sent to a drafting committee for a final text.

Today's meeting was marked by persistent hints that none of the ministers is prepared to relax his stand on any of the fundamental problems affecting Germany.

These include:

1. Soviet Russia's demand for ten billion dollars in reparations from Germany. This is particularly opposed by the United States and Britain.

2. France's demand for the integration of the Saar into the French economy. The United States and Britain favor this claim, but Russia remains noncommital.

3. Soviet Russia's demand for four-power control of the Ruhr and France's demand for "special

Sofia, Bulgaria, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—The Communist-dominated government of Bulgaria submitted a routine resignation today as the nation reorganized under the terms of the recently adopted constitution.

Communist Premier Georgi Dimitrov announced the resignation of his cabinet at a parliamentary session which had earlier rejected a new presidium—the 19-man committee which takes the place of a chief of state in the Bulgarian government—and its President.

Dimitrov's resignation was regarded as a routine gesture. He will probably be renamed Premier by Parliament tomorrow or Thursday.

It was reported the executive committees of the parties forming the Fatherland Front government coalition had agreed on some cabinet changes at a series of conferences over last weekend.

The Communist Party was dominant in the Presidium chosen by Parliament. Former Communist Minister of Education Mintcho Neychev was elected president of the Presidium and 10 other Communists were chosen for the 19-man organization.

As president of the Presidium, Neychev occupies the position in Bulgarian politics most closely approximating the President or the King in a nation organized accord-

Unions Bow To French Ultimatum To Strikers

Federation Orders All Workers Back On Jobs to Meet Today's Deadline

Paris, Dec. 9 (AP).—The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGT) accepted tonight the government's terms for ending the month-long strike wave which has paralyzed the French economy. It directed idle workers to return to their jobs tomorrow.

The CGT claimed a "victory" in its wage demands on the government of Premier Robert Schuman and bitterly attacked his regime for "stopping at no methods" to break the strike and ordering the police "to fire on the strikers."

The government ultimatum, however, had directed all workers to return to their jobs tomorrow or face loss of a cost-of-living bonus which would be granted to all men and women on the job.

CGT Reverses Stand

At first the CGT expressed dissatisfaction with the government's ultimatum but reversed its stand a few hours before expiration of the deadline.

[The back-to-work order was contained in a bitter statement issued jointly by the CGT executive and the national strike committee, the United Press said. It admitted that the strike had failed and said it was because unions' funds were running low.

[News of the CGT order was made public as the cabinet reportedly was considering taking over the northern coal fields, where Communist "flying commando" squads beat up anti-Communist miners who joined a general movement back to the pits.

Rioting in South

[Ten thousand troops, supported by tanks, took over the mines from Communist strikers yesterday, but they reported today that thousands of miners still were being intimidated by the "commandos."

[Rioting broke out in southern France and police reported scattered incidents between strikers and security forces in many areas. The worst fight was at Arles, in the south, where troops clashed with strikers attempting to seize the town hall. The strikers were

Russia, France Expel Each Other's Missions

Paris, Dec. 9 (AP).—Russia and France expelled each other's repatriation commissions today and Moscow broke off trade negotiations, ruining France's chances for 300,000 tons of badly needed Soviet wheat. A sharp Russian note broadcast by the Moscow radio also contained a threat to terminate the 1944 French-Russian alliance.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the 12 members of the Soviet repatriation commission, engaged in returning Russian citizens in France to the Soviet Union, were put on a train for Berlin last night because they had trafficked in "subversive activities."

The Moscow radio, accusing the French government of "unilaterally annulling" a 2-year-old repatriation pact, said the four-man French mission also was expelled from Russia.

Visas Withdrawn

The Moscow broadcast, further accusing the French government of acts "hostile and contrary to the spirit of alliance and mutual assistance" between the countries, said the Soviet Foreign Ministry had "resolved to terminate the trade talks with France" and withdraw visas issued for the French negotiators. The negotiators were waiting in Paris for their papers when the announcement came.

The threat to the French-Russian mutual assistance pact, which Gen. Charles de Gaulle negotiated in 1944, was contained in the following words in a Soviet note as broadcast from Moscow:

"The Soviet government regards such action on the French government's part as hostile and contrary to the spirit of the alliance and mutual assistance between the U. S. S. R. and France and it holds the

Secrecy Surrounds Parley

Pennsylvania GOP Leaders Meet Eisenhower Privately

By Carl Levin

General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower has projected his name deeper into the 1948 Republican presidential race, it was learned here last night, by privately meeting with Pennsylvania's top Republican leaders.

He met with them last Friday night at an unpublicized "social" dinner here which was designed to afford the Pennsylvania leaders an opportunity to "look over the field" for the 1948 nomination.

General Eisenhower accepted the Republican invitation and attended the dinner, it was learned, as one of three out-of-Pennsylvania guests of the State leadership. The others were Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, avowed candidate for the nomination, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who, like General Eisenhower, has been mentioned as a possible candidate.

The private dinner, it was learned, was held in the 1925 F Street Club here. Pennsylvania Republicans who attended made clear yesterday that "We are not doing much talking about it."

General Eisenhower said "no comment" when asked to confirm his presence and to confirm or deny a radio report of alleged statements by him at a gathering which fit the description of Friday night's affair.

From others it was learned that Pennsylvanians present included former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, State Republican leader; Gov. James H. Duff, who will be chairman of the State's delegation to the 1948 convention; G. Mason Owlet, national committeeman for the State and president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association; Senator Edward Martin, former Governor, who is expected to go into the convention as the State's first ballot "favorite son"; Mrs. Worthington Scranton, national committeewoman; Representative Richard M. Simpson and Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, and several women high in State Republican councils.

Disclosure of General Eisenhower's "social evening," along with avowed candidate Taft and possible candidate Vandenberg, as a guest of the Pennsylvania Republican leaders, coincided with reports from Pennsylvania—such as one which appeared in the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin this week—that the popularity of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, is at its lowest ebb among the party leaders in the State.

Observers here considered the meeting also an interesting prelude to next Saturday night's 49th annual Pennsylvania Society dinner in New York, where the General is scheduled to receive the Society's Gold Medal for Distinguished Achievement. The presentation at the dinner, which will be

Dusk-to-Dawn Curfew

Jerusalem, Dec. 9 (AP).—British troops with "shoot to kill" orders were moved into the blood-stained border area between Tel Aviv and Jaffa tonight in a move to end aggression on the battlefield where Arabs and Jews have waged their fiercest fighting in 10 days of Palestine communal warfare.

Acting desperately to stamp out the disorders that have claimed 112 lives, injured approximately 600 persons and destroyed property with an estimated worth of 10 million dollars, British authorities placed a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the Tel Aviv-Jaffa "no man's land" and sealed it off with British troops.

Palestine police were being used for patrols inside the area, where four Jews were killed today, and soldiers formed lines along the border. The order put 20,000 Jews and Arabs under house arrest from 5 p. m. to 6 a. m. until further notice.

Toll Mounts to 240

The nightly curfew continued in the mixed areas of Haifa, where a British soldier, three Jews and three Arabs were killed today, and in the riot-wrecked sections of Jerusalem.

Counting at least 124 killed in Aden and 4 in Syria, the Associated Press tally of dead throughout the Middle East since the United Nations decision to partition Palestine mounted to 240.

A Hagana officer asserted "between 80 and 85" Arabs were slain in repelling an Arab attack last night on the battered Hatikvah quarter of Tel Aviv, but police and civil government officials discounted the claim as "bunk."

The Hagana officer, who claimed to have led the Jewish defense army forces, said "between 80 and 85 Arabs were killed and about 145 were wounded." He said the County Trucks Move Garbage At Fairlington

Maintenance Strike Continues With No Agreement in Sight

The Arlington County government moved yesterday to prevent a collapse of certain essential services at the strikebound Fairlington housing project, mammoth development in nearby Virginia.

As a strike of AFL maintenance crews moved into its second day —with no break in view—Sanitary Engineer R. M. Wirt ordered two trucks into the project to remove mounting piles of trash and garbage.

Normal Service Assured

He emphasized, however, that the measure, ordered to avert a "health menace" to the more than 14,000 residents, was "purely temporary." Wirt said the county could not "continue" the cleanup job for more than another day or two at the "maximum" because "we've stripped our forces right down to do that."

Charles Prins, public relations representative for the Fairmac Corp., owners of the 3500-unit project, gave his assurance that tenants will "continue to receive normal service." He said "replacement of employes who fail to report continues satisfactorily" and held that the management would be fully capable of maintaining all services when the Arlington sanitary units depart.

There were no reports of failure of heat and hot water supplies and only scattered reports of uncollected trash and garbage in a spot survey at the development yesterday. An estimated 170 workers, according to the union, are involved in the walkout.

The management and the union, Building Service Employes Local 82, remained deadlocked in their dispute, meantime.

Picketing Continues

A spokesman for the corporation, which also runs the McLean Gardens development here, reiterated that the firm "has no intention" of meeting with the union.

Michael Lucas, secretary treasurer of Local 82, emphasized:

"We definitely intend to continue the strike until management recognizes the workers' bargaining agent, which is Local 82, and sits down and bargains in good faith."

He accused the Arlington government of "supporting strike breaking" by sending trash and garbage collectors into the development and contended that,

Montgomery Judge Sentences W.E. Morrow, Warns All Gamblers

Wilburn E. Morrow, 52, of Hanover, Md., was fined $1000 and sentenced to one year in jail by Montgomery County Circuit Court Judge Charles W. Woodward for accepting racing bets.

Morrow, a former Silver Spring, Md., resident, threw $2100 in a gutter just before his arrest, police told the court. He was convicted last Wednesday, but sentence was deferred.

"I will not tolerate gambling in Montgomery County," the judge declared yesterday, as he imposed the maximum sentence.

"Gambling leads to crookedness, evilness and corruption. You're not the only gambler. There are others. The police know who they are and are trying to pick them up."

At the trial, Detective Corpl. Edward Barber testified he placed bets on horses with Morrow on at least two occasions.

Last Thursday when he sentenced Peter H. Hill, 33, of 8010 Eastern ave., Silver Spring, to nine months in jail with a $1000 fine on a similar charge, Judge Woodward remarked:

"All professional gamblers in this county must realize that if they get convicted in my court, they are going to serve time."

Driver's Permit Suspension Ends For Judge Raedy

Municipal Court Judge Ellen K. Raedy who forfeited $200 collateral in September after her car had been involved in a hit-and-run accident, was free to resume driving again yesterday.

Her driver's permit was returned to her Monday by Traffic Director George E. Keneipp after she had passed a special test on traffic regulations in his office.

Judge Raedy did not take her test with the general public, Keneipp explained, because her court duties made it difficult for her to appear during the examiners' regular hours.

Judge Raedy's car struck a parked automobile last September and police recorded it as a hit-and-run accident. She denied driving the car, but elected to forfeit collateral when her case came up. Subsequently she surrendered her driver's permit when the Board of Revocation and Restoration ordered it suspended for 30 days.

House Passes $2,000,000 Aid For U.S. Indians

By The Associated Press

The House interrupted its debate on foreign aid for a few minutes yesterday to rush to the Senate a two-million-dollar aid bill for the Navajo and Hopi Indians.

The vote was unanimous. The bill may reach the Senate floor tomorrow. It simply authorizes the expenditure. Separate legislation actually appropriating the money must also be passed.

(The American Red Cross announced meantime that it has allotted $100,000 for "immediate stopgap aid" until Congress provides the authorized fund.)

Chairman Butler (R., Nebr.) of the Senate Public Lands Committee promised speedy action. He said the bill, designed to provide relief, medical assistance and employment to the Navajos and Hopis in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, will reach his committee tomorrow.

Action of Representative Welch (R., Calif.), chairman of the House Public Lands Committee, in bringing the bill to a vote yesterday came as a surprise.

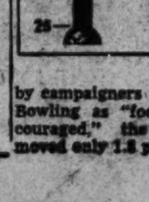
Note of Desperation Heard As Chest Flags on Last Lap

"For the sake of the people you serve, and we serve we cannot fail."

That was the plea yesterday of Miss Gertrude Bowling as Community Chest workers gathered at the next to last report meeting of the 1947 campaign.



There was desperation in the plea. Despite last minute efforts made by campaigners described by Miss Bowling as "foot-weary and discouraged," the campaign goal moved only 1.8 per cent nearer the goal of $3,900,000. There are only two days left.

Totals reported yesterday were 9284 new pledges for $80,163.14, bringing totals to 302,481 pledges for $3,087,722.48, or 79.17 per cent of the total.

Milton W. King, campaign vice chairman, told workers: "It is not you people who are failures, if we do not reach our goal. The failures are the citizens of Washington who do not realize their responsibility to make this city a better place to live in.

"These are the people who will take a taxi if they are in a hurry, or 'give up' a movie to go to a show—but who fail to think of their fellow men who are needy."

O'Boyle Consecration to Take Place Jan. 14 in St. Patrick's

New York, N. Y., Dec. 9 (Spl.).—The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, executive director of the New York National Charities, will be consecrated Archbishop of Washington in St. Patrick's Cathedral here on Wednesday, January 14, it was announced at the chancery office of the New York Diocese here today.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York will consecrate the new archbishop and the assistant consecrators will be Coadjutor Archbishop J. Francis A. McIntyre of this city and Auxiliary Bishop John M. McNamara, pastor of St. Gabriel's Church of Washington, D. C. Bishop Bryan J. McEntegart of Ogdensburg, N. Y., will preach the sermon.

The consecration ceremony will begin at 10 a. m., and will be preceded by a pontifical procession at 9:30 a. m.

Archbishop-designate O'Boyle will be installed at St. Matthew's Cathedral, Washington, on Wednesday, January 21, by Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate, who will celebrate the mass. Bishop McNamara will give the address of welcome at the installation, which will start at 10 a. m.

Archbishop McIntyre was a classmate of Msgr. O'Boyle at St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, where they were both ordained. Bishop McEntegart, also a classmate, served with Msgr. O'Boyle in the child care division of the New York Catholic Charities.

Creation of the separate archdiocese of Washington was authorized last week by Pope Pius XII. It takes in the Capital and five Maryland counties, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys Counties.

Bishop Francis P. McKeough, Bishop of Providence, R. I., was named archbishop of Baltimore. Bishop McNamara has served as administrator of the former overall archdiocese of Baltimore and Washington since the death last May 16 of Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington.

'Red' War Shipment Blocked, Rizley Says

Lend-Lease Goods Were Turned Over To WAA, Aide Says

By the United Press

Chairman Ross Rizley asserted yesterday that his House subcommittee had blocked a 20-million-dollar shipment of war surplus material to Russia, but the War Assets Administration promptly denied that such a plan exists.

The Oklahoma Republican said that committee investigators found the equipment, already crated and addressed to the Soviet Union, in surplus property depots in New York and Ohio.

He said the subcommittee, advised of a similar shipment at the Chicago depot, has assigned investigators to a "dozen or more" other warehouses and may hold public hearings on the problem.

A War Assets spokesman said the material originally was consigned to Russia under Lend-Lease and had been crated and tagged by manufacturers during the war. When the Lend-Lease agreement was ended, he said, it was turned over to War Assets for disposal and began arriving at warehouses last August.

He said the material would be offered for sale in this country as soon as it could be classified and priced.

When informed of this explanation, Rizley said he was still convinced that his subcommittee "blocked the shipment of this machinery to Russia." But whatever the reason, he said, he was "satisfied" so long as it remains in this country.

"If we've reached the place where this machinery—which well might be used in another war—is not going to Russia," he said, "we should all be mighty happy about it."

According to Rizley, the material included diesel engines, mine locomotives, 3 or 4 miles of pipe, lumbering cranes and sawmill equipment. All of it is "desperately needed" at home, he said.

Rizley said the shipments first were called to the subcommittee's attention by the office of Representative Frances P. Bolton (R., Ohio).

Investigators sent to Marion, Warren and Newcastle, Ohio, confirmed the reports and took photographs of the shipments in case evidence were needed. Subsequent investigations disclosed similar shipments at depots in New York City, Rizley said.

Meat Curbs By Congress A Possibility

Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 9 (AP).—A "possibility" that Congress may approve the meat rationing powers sought by President Truman was seen today by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Exports of wheat to Europe's hungry would not cause any grain shortages in this country, he told a press conference in commenting on a prediction by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) last night in New York that rationing might come by May 1.

Anderson, here to address the National Production and Marketing Administration Conference, said other members of Congress might become convinced that a limited rationing program is necessary. Last month Anderson told Congress meat "is going to be distressingly short" by February.

In his speech the Secretary struck back sharply at critics of the foreign aid program, saying he had "heard much about the wheat export program recently with the inference we're exporting too much to have an adequate carryover."

"You men know the size of our wheat crop—1,407,000,000 bushels," he told farm representatives from the 48 States.

"We're planning to export 450 million bushels. That leaves 957 million bushels and we never have used that much."

Anderson estimated the United States would use 500 million to 510 million bushels for food, 85 million for seed and 250 million for feed this year.

Proposal Immediately Attacked

In addition, there was the proviso that fuels, including gas and oil, could be so allocated and rationed after a public hearing.

The proposal was immediately attacked yesterday by the American Meat Institute. It said restoration of meat rationing would produce "super-black markets."

That organization was prominent in the battle to remove OPA controls, which it charged resulted in black markets a year ago.

It said at that time that removal of price ceilings and rationing would permit meat prices to adjust to reasonable levels.

Other Developments

Other developments yesterday on inflation control:

1. Senator Taft (R., Ohio) announced that GOP Senate and House leaders would meet today to seek agreement on anti-inflation legislation. He said they would decide on "two or three" measures to push for passage this session, mentioning export controls, regulation of commodity exchange trading and consumer credit controls.

2. The Senate Banking and Currency Committee will vote today on a bill to accomplish the last-named objective, curbing installment buying.

3. Edward E. Brown, Chicago banker, told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee that "the expansion of bank lending has not been a material factor" in causing high prices. Speaking as chairman of the Federal Advisory Council, he strongly opposed the proposals of Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner S. Eccles for a sharp increase in the amount of reserves banks must hold to back up their operations.

4. An Administration official told the House Banking Committee that no raise in the present margin requirements on grain trading probably would be necessary even if Congress granted the President's request for "stand-by" authority to impose higher margins to prevent speculation.

from the Department of Agriculture because "there was no other place we could get this quantity of sugar" with comparable delivery dates.

When McCarthy asked if the Army did not buy sugar at a higher price than the law permitted, Vorhees replied, heatedly:

"You are making so many statements that I think are not in accordance with the facts that I do not think I should answer."

McCarthy, who is not a member of the Appropriations Committee, agreed to present his charges more fully tomorrow, when officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the sugar branch of the Agriculture Department also will be present.

Earlier, Royall told the committee that because of its increased financial contributions to civilian relief in the British zone of Germany, this country will have a greater voice in governing the combined American and British zones.

Royall said a tentative agreement with the British covers economic and political decisions, and provides that "voting power is in proportion to future contributions, which would mean that we would have the controlling powers." The plan is subject to approval of the two governments.

Rapid Recovery Seen in Poland; UNRRA Helped

By the United Press

Poland is making rapid strides toward economic recovery, largely with the help of supplies from the now defunct United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the Foreign Policy Association reported yesterday.

The report said Poland's recovery is so rapid that she may be able to get on her feet without a requested 600-million-dollar loan from the International Bank.. If additional help is needed, it said, Russia probably would give it.

It said the UNRRA sent Poland in two years, more than two million tons of food, clothing, livestock, medical supplies, grains, tractors, trucks, and farm and industrial machinery worth more than 480 million dollars.

House Again Saves Aid Bill

Thomas G. Abernethy (D., Miss.), was rejected 135 to 107.

Later a move by Representative T. Millet Hand (R., N. J.), to prohibit exports of gasoline and fuel oil unless the Secretary of Commerce certified such shipments would not impair national security or normal domestic needs, was voted down, 95 to 88.

Other changes sidetracked in a yesterday's voting:

By Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D., S. C.) to require transportation of relief commodities in American ships unless none were obtainable at reasonable rates. Defeated 61 to 50.

By Repreesntative E. C. Gathings (D., Ark.) to require reimbursement either in dollars, strategic materials or in military bases made available to the United States. Defeated, voice vote.

By Representative Kenneth B. Keating (R., N. Y.), three amendments requiring recipient countries to release prisoners of war before they could receive aid. All three were ruled out on points of order.

By Representative Fred L. Crawford (R., Mich.), permitting purchase of up to 25 per cent of relief supplies outside this country only if they did not exceed prevailing prices here. Rejected, 85 to 40.

By Representative Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.), duplicating the Senate bill provision that countries receiving aid purchase the supplies in their own currency. These payments would go into a trust account to buy more aid. Rejected, voice vote.

Withdraws Amendment

Representative Francis Case (R., S. Dak.) first offered the amendment banning Government purchases at above market prices. He later withdrew it in favor of a more flexible committee amendment. The committee change, adopted instead, requires the Government to pay prevailing levels for any relief supplies bought in this country, except for goods acquired at higher prices by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Representative John M. Vorys (R., Ohio), in charge of the bill, presented the broader committee statement virtually putting it up to the President to ease the impact on domestic prices and short items in special regulations.

This comprehensive aid price policy amendment, approved by voice vote, did these other things:

1. Put no limit on purchases outside the United States where delivered cost abroad was less than the cost delivered from the United States.

2. Permitted up to 25 per cent of relief supplies to be purchased outside the United States even if the delivered cost was up to 10 per cent more than the cost here.

3. Freed petroleum from the limitation by requiring foreign purchase of that commodity "to the maximum extent practicable."

Democrats Change Strategy

Democratic strategists have about decided not to attempt floor amendments restoring the committee's 67 million dollars cut in western Europe aid. By not putting it to a vote, they believe they stand a better chance to restore the full amount in conference.

A Republican, however—Representative Chester E. Merrow (N. H.)—said last night he will move to restore the full amount on the floor, regardless of the Democratic course. Merrow will try to raise the figure to 661 million dollars. He said that amount was made necessary by the committee's addition of China to the initial western Europe program.

Odds are that the House, instead, will cut the amount. The two chief GOP proponents of a reduction are Representative Lawrence H. Smith (R., Wis.), who would cut the aid by 90 million dollars, and Representative Bartel J. Jonkman (R., Mich.), who wants to slash it 290 million dollars.

700 From New York Lobby For Price, Rent Control Laws

More than 700 delegates from trade union, veteran, consumer and tenant organizations descended on Congress yesterday to urge immediate price and rent control legislation.

Sponsored by the Emergency Committee on Rent and Housing of New York City, the delegation was led by Alfred K. Stern, chairman of the National Rent and Housing Committee, Progressive Citizens of America.

The group included representatives of the American Labor Party, Congress of American Women, Bronx and Brooklyn Councils on Rents and Housing, Queens Consumer Coordinating Council, Newspaper Guild, and others.

A special train brought 683 members of the group here from New York City. Members from several other cities met them here.

The delegates convened at the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church to get their orders. In small groups they then called on Tighe Woods, acting housing expediter; representatives of the National Democratic Committee and the Republican National Committee, and many of their Congressmen.

They urged:

1. Passage of price-control legislation on all necessities, with price rollback to June, 1946.

2. Passage of rent-control legislation in this special session.

3. Passage of Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill.

4. Pressure on the office of the Housing Expediter for stricter enforcement of regulations and a stronger rent control bill.

5. Pressure by the Democratic National Committee on the Truman Administration for action on the above program.

Food Waste to Boost Rents

Palmetto, Fla., Dec. 9 (AP).—A Palmetto landlord threatened today to raise the rent of any apartment tenant he catches wasting food.

T. F. Taylor, owner of a four-unit apartment building, advised the Bradenton Herald in a letter if "tenants can afford to buy good food and throw it away they can afford to pay more rent."

His letter said in part:

"In view of the appalling waste of good food in our garbage cans, while the rest of the world is half-starved, I would suggest that the garbage collectors report food wasters to the City Council for some action and that apartment managers keep a close watch on the contents of their tenants' garbage cans."

Of course, Taylor still has to overcome the obstacle of getting approval of his rent control board for any raise before he can make good his threat.

Decision on ITO Vote Blocked

Havana, Dec. 9 (AP).—Erik Colban of Norway, chairman of the committee on organization, blocked an Argentine attempt today for a vote on the disputed question of a voting system to be used in the proposed International Trade Organization after two thirds of the delegations favored a principle of one nation one vote.

Colban asked the delegations to await the second or third reading of the voting article before making a decision. Colban said that 35 of the 58 nations favored equal voting with three of these still with "tentatively open minds" — France, Netherlands and New Zealand.

Five favored lightly weighted voting giving nations with the most economic strength more votes —Britain, Canada, southern Rhodesia, Norway and Sweden. One nation wanted heavy weighted voting giving a substantial vote to bigger countries—United States.

Tanker Splits at Dock

Boston, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—The four million dollar former Navy tanker Ponaganset split in half at an East Boston repair slip today, injuring 14 workmen. Officials believed the 18,000-ton vessel would have to be scrapped.

Senators Ask Data On Greek Troops

Some Protest Refusal to Give Figures on Army

By The Associated Press

Some Senators complained yesterday that the Greek government has refused to furnish lists of the Greek army's losses in fighting guerilla raiders.

Noting that the Greek army has about 125,000 men compared with some 15,000 guerillas, they questioned whether there has been much real fighting.

The men who raised the question are members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, who toured Europe before the special session opened. That committee will handle legislation providing funds for any long-range European aid program.

This was only one phase of America's postwar overseas operations on which they want further information, a member said. They also want to know about reports that:

Two thousand American four-engine bombers were blown up by our forces on German airfields at a time when Greece was buying smaller British warplanes with American dollars.

American fishing boats which were turned over to Greece are lying idle in Greek ports.

Russia has refused to return 8000 freight cars used to haul dismantled German industrial equipment from Anglo-American occupation zones of Germany into Russia and its satellites.

Seventy-five million dollars worth of UNRRA supplies, including more than 300 tractors, have been standing undistributed in European depots for many months.

One of the biggest German soap factories was dismantled and shipped to Russia, with a result that German civilians are short of soap.

One of the committee members, Senator Young (R., N. D.), told a reporter he had visited one of the German flying fields where the Air Force had blown up B-17 bombers after their engines were removed. He said the destruction was begun about a year ago but completed only recently.

Young said he understood that the Russians had objected to the presence of so many American bombers on German flying fields.

He said the committee had received an explanation that the bombers were surplus to American needs, and that the Greeks wanted smaller warplanes.

Cominform Says
Russia Plans To End Food Rationing

Moscow, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—The second issue of the magazine of the new Communist Bureau of Information disclosed today the Russian Communist Party faces sweeping changes and the government definitely intends to end food rationing by December 31.

The magazine, published in Belgrade December 1, contains two reports made to the "Cominform" in Poland last September by Georgi N. Malenkov, a power in the political bureau of the Russian Party.

In one, Malenkov told the Cominform the Russian Party was drawing new rules to tighten entrance requirements and discipline and accent education in the party line.

In the other, Malenkov said successes in agriculture were "creating conditions for the abolition of the card (ration) system in Russia in the course of this year."

Malenkov said that during the war party membership in Russia grew from 3,800,000 to 6,300,000.

Malenkov said the party had to make a "decisive struggle against admiration and slavishness toward western bourgeois culture among some layers of our intellectuals."

"Such persons," he continued, "can become a prey to foreign secret services seeking to crack the Soviet armor."

However, Malenkov said the class struggle in Russia had been concluded successfully. Now, he said, the struggle was an international one in which the party must "test its proved weapons in battle against the businessmen of bourgeois politics."

Group Urges Aid to Europe

in handling the Marshall Plan. The important thing is to vote enough to underwrite a plan of recovery for a reasonable period in the future.

"We can always maintain such controls of the funds, once voted, as are necessary to prevent waste and extravagance."

To allocate purchases in this country, the report called for "something very close to the mechanism of the combined boards, which controlled and allocated the resources of half the world during the war." It suggested "an international emergency body" to screen the demands and requirements of each country and a United States Government agency to control purchases here.

The United States can easily afford the dollar expense, the report went on, but will have to institute some controls at home.

"At a time of clearly foreseeable world shortages, particularly in food," it said, "we engaged in the spectacular folly of abandoning controls. It is unthinkable that w should now slash food exports as a measure of price relief at home. This would mean throwing our foreign policy overboard simply because we are afraid to face the question of domestic controls. No nation which expects to remain a world power can afford such nonsense.

"Bad as the present situation is, we can bring it under a measure of control. Allocations can cut down the grain going into beverages, reduce our waste of bread, raise the extraction rate. Regulations can cut out speculation. Rationing of meat can save our grain from our animals and make it available to the hungry humans of Europe. Price control can ease the inequities visited on those with low or fixed incomes."

Warns Aid Must Be Given

Rejection of the Marshall Plan by Congress, the report warned, "would cause more widespread misery in western Europe than the Nazi occupation," and rapid moves by Soviet Communism to exploit the situation. The only course for the United States, the report declared, is to provide "adequate dollar aid over a period of years" and to insist on cooperation among the European countries themselves.

Among its other recommendations were these:

Germany—"Firm safeguards" must accompany any revival of German industry;

The British Empire—The United States should consider the need of maintaining armed forces abroad "to secure undefended places from aggression" and to step into the breach caused by the decline of British military power.

Social Change in Europe—A democratic socialist Europe on the British model "might well supply the best means of revitalizing and stabilizing Europe and of checking the aggressiveness of the USSR."

Soviet Expansion—It should be counteracted by strengthening the U. N. and by the economic reconstruction of western Europe. It cannot be countered just by military containment, or by setting up "a chain of Francos across the continent," or by trying to impose American private capitalism on Europe.

French government responsible for the consequences."

Russian Camp Raided

Today's developments followed a raid by French mobile guardsmen upon Camp Beauregard, operated by the Russians as a repatriation camp, on November 14 when a woman, being sued for divorce by a naturalized Frenchman, and three children were removed from the camp and a small quantity of arms seized. The French government subsequently decided to take control of the camp.

Eleven days later, the French rounded up and deported 19 Soviet citizens, including the officers of the "Soviet Patriotic Union" for "interference in French affairs" during the wave of strikes and disorders.

On November 27, the French spokesman said, France asked the Russians to withdraw their repatriation mission, and when no answer was received, the government ordered the 12 members to leave the country.

He declined to give the names of the members or to elaborate upon their "subversive" activity. He suggested, however, that the Soviet action was a reprisal.

Numbers "One Sided"

The spokesman said operations of the two missions were "one sided," the Russians originally having 16 members on their mission and being allowed to move freely about France, while the French were never permitted to send to Russia more than four representatives who were "strictly limited" in their movements.

He estimated that there still were several hundred Alsatians in Russia, and several thousand Soviet citizens in France.

French officials betrayed plainly that the rupture in trade talks was a blow. France asked Russia on August 24 for 1,500,000 tons of wheat. Finally, on October 8, the Russians agreed to negotiate for French machinery in return for 300,000 tons.

The spokesman said two Soviet notes received last night protesting the Camp Beauregard raid and the expulsion of the 19 Russians were "inadmissable."

Slander, Says Moscow

The Moscow broadcast of a note dated December 6 to the French government declared the accusations of subversive activities against two members of the Soviet repatriation commission named Filatov and Sorokin were a "foul slander devoid of any foundations and fabricated by the French government in order to justify its arbitrary action to Soviet citizens in Beauregard and to members of the Union of Soviet citizens in France."

The note then said these actions were "hostile" and contrary to the spirit of the two countries' alliance.

(Dispatches from London said diplomats noted there that these developments coincided with the trend of French foreign policy at the Foreign Ministers Council where French Foreign Minister Bidault has tended more and more to align himself with Britain and the United States.)

dispersed by police tear gas grenades. The strikers re-formed and charged again. They were battling police when troop reinforcements arrived and restored order.]

At the peak of the French strike wave the idle were estimated at nearly three million. The figure had dwindled to less than one million.

Government Terms

In addition to granting all workers a cost of-living indemnity of 1500 francs (about $12) a month retroactive to November 24, the government terms provide:

1. Raising the minimum monthly salary from 7000 francs (about ($58) to 10,000 francs (about $87). The strikers had demanded 10,800 francs ($90).

2. Increasing indemnities for large families.

3. Nonpayment of wages to strikers for the period they were idle.

4. Establishment of an over-all economic policy with the help of representatives of labor and employer to balance wages and prices.

5. No reprisals against strikers except those found guilty of sabotage or restricting the rights of nonstrikers to work.

The CGT asked for a provisional cost of living indemnity of 25 per cent and an automatic linking of salaries to prices so that an increase in prices would be followed by an increase in wages.

In effect, the CGT got almost all it asked for except the linking of wages to prices, pay for the strikers for time not worked, and an amnesty for all strikers arrested for any reason.

ing to the western European system.

Parliament Reorganizes

Parliament also elected new officers for its own organization. Rajko Damjanov, Communist, was elected speaker.

Although there was no official comment from any source concerning the resignation of the government, it had been predicted for several days by the Sofia newspapers.

It was announced that Parliament would sit again tomorrow "to study the cabinent's resignation" and continue the work of reorganization.

The new constitution was drawn up as a part of Bulgaria's conversion from a monarchy to a "people's republic."

Political Maneuver, U. S. Officials Say

By The Associated Press

United States officials said last night they had expected Dimitrov's resignation and that it was probably a political maneuver by the Communist boss to reshuffle members of his cabinet.

These government officials explained that a new constitution in Bulgaria has changed the number of cabinet ministers. The easiest way to effect this change, plus possibly removing some members, would be to have Dimitrov submit his resignation along with that of the entire old cabinet.

Later, he would be given authority to form a new government, it was predicted here.

international regimes" for the Ruhr and Rhineland. The United States and Britain definitely oppose Russian participation in control of the Ruhr and they are not sure about what France's demands mean.

Press for Assurance

Throughout the discussion today, both George C. Marshall, United States Secretary of State, and Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Secretary, pressed Molotov for an assurance he does not insist upon settlement of the reparations question and establishment of central German administrative departments as having priority over the problem of economic unity.

Molotov insisted only that the questions must be decided "simultaneously." Marshall and Bevin believe he wants to settle the reparations problem first as a condition to economic unity.

Marshall and Bevin will fight this to the end. They will block it by refusing to agree to the Soviet reparations demand. Georges Bidault, French foreign minister, wonders whether Molotov wants the proposed central departments to have any authority over the Saar. He asked Molotov about that today, but got only this evasive reply: "We will have time to discuss the Saar later."

In the end, the problem was "passed over." The ministers also passed over a British proposal involving arrangements for economic unification of Germany and the sharing of expenses incurred by the four powers controlling Germany.

Threat of General Strike Eased in Rome and Province

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP).—Rome's Communist-led Chamber of Labor lifted its midnight deadline for government acquiescence to its ultimatum today and the threat of a general strike in the capital and province lessened.

But fresh disorders broke out in Sicily where police reinforcements, hurling tear gas, scattered Communist marchers at Vittoria, and at Bologna. Several were reported injured at Vittoria.

While the United States aircraft carrier Midway and three destroyers paid a call at Naples, the Rome Province Chamber of Labor displayed a restraint new in the leftists' month-old campaign against the government. It announced it had deferred a decision on a general strike until Wednesday night. The government had ignored the ultimatum.

This was a step-down from the belligerent announcement of Saturday that an "ultimatum" expiring at midnight tonight had been served on the government to: (1) provide ten billion lire (about 16 million dollars) to absorb 80,000 unemployed on public works, and (2) punish those police responsible for killing of Giuseppe Tanas, young unemployed Communist during a disorder last week.

Alcide de Gasperi's revamping of the Italian government was virtually completed today. After a four-hour conference with Republican and right-wing Socialist leaders, Republican Rondolfo Pacciardi said agreement had been reached on every ministry.

[The cabinet reshuffle will give Gasperi another 76 votes in the assembly and a clearcut majority.]

Americans Leave Pipeline Stations

Engineers Withdrawn From Lebanon Desert to Avoid Possible Clashes

Beiut, Lebanon, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—American engineers working on the transdesert oil pipeline now under construction have been called in from their desert stations as a precautionary measure, an American spokesman said today. He denied work had been halted permanently.

"We have withdrawn our engineers from the desert, leaving our material at a Trans-Jordan camp south of Deraa, Syria, guarded by the Trans-Jordan army. Our Damascus (Syria) liaison officer remains in his office, however," the spokesman said.

He explained the decision merely meant that "we are avoiding unnecessary clashes in a hysterical time."

This spokesman said if Syria withholds permission for the line to pass through that country it will detour and exit through Palestine provided Saudi Arabia continued to cooperate.

William S. Rodgers, chairman of the board of the Texas Oil Co. and chairman of the Arabian-American Oil Co., left here today for Saudi Arabia. He said he is studying the political situation as well as progress of the pipeline.

Arabs May Form 'People's Army

Cairo, Dec. 9 (AP).—An Arab informant predicted today that pending the departure of British troops from the Holy Land the Arab nations would concentrate on forming a volunteer "People's Army" to aid the Palestine Arabs in the fight against creation of a Jewish state.

He said some of the Arab league states meeting here favor an immediate march into Palestine by regular troops, but this is opposed by the majority.

Sheik Abdel Latif Draz, director of Al Azhar University, whose council of teachers is organizing a Jihad (Holy War) against partition, said that "whenever Islam is attacked in any of its countries Jihad becomes the obligation of every Moslem in the world."

He said there was enough arms abandoned in the western deserts during the war to equip 30,000 Arab fighters.

Abd el Krim, Riff warrior chieftain who led Moroccan Arabs in battle against French and Spanish domination two decades ago, said today North African Arabs' contribution in the fight against partition would be revealed in the near future.

He conferred with Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League today.

Abd el Krim escaped from French custody in Egypt last spring after 21 years of exile on Reunion Island.

(The Mufti of the Lebanese republic proclaimed in Beirut a sacred war for "liberation" of Palestine, thus supporting the "Holy War" proclamation of religious leaders of Al Azhar University in Cairo.)

British May Halt Arms Shipments

London, Dec. 9 (AP).—Authoritative sources said today that Britain, principal supplier of arms and ammunition to several Middle East countries, is considering a suspension of such shipments in view of the threats of an Arab war on the projected Jewish state in Palestine.

The informants said the status of British nationals serving with Arab armies also was under consideration. Brig. G. B. Glubb is the commander of Trans-Jordan's Arab legion.

100 Jews Reported Burned to Death

Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Dec. 9 (AP).—A letter received today from J. Kent, an Aden business man, said more than 100 Jewish women and children were burned to death in one building in that British colony last week in anti-Jewish riots.

Kent said Arabs shot down other Jews trying to escape. He said mortuaries and hospitals overflowed during the six days of arson pillage and murder which started December 2. British naval forces finally quelled the riots.

U. N. Council Won't Discuss Palestine Now

Lake Success, Dec. 9 (AP).—The United States and Russia, which fought together in the United Nations Assembly for partition of Palestine, joined hands again today and defeated an attempt by the Arab nations to reopen the partition question now in the Security Council.

Over the repeated protests of white-haired Faris el Khoury of Syria, the only Arab country delegate on the Council, the other 10 Council countries postponed indefinitely all discussion of the Holy Land problem.

No vote was taken. The Council simply "accepted" official notice of the Assembly's resolution, then adjourned.

No date was set for the next meeting.

El Khoury left his sickbed to demand "free debate" on the partition resolution. He also championed requests by Egypt and Lebanon to be heard in the Council, and the delegates agreed without objection.

Herschel V. Johnson, U. S. delegate, repeatedly opposed debate now, saying it would not have a "pacifying effect."

The effect of today's Council action is that the partition resolution may be called up for discussion at any time. The resolution asks specifically that the Council take all necessary measures for making the partition plan effective by next October 1.

The U. N. administration meanwhile decided that neither Jews nor Arabs would be barred from serving on the U. N. staff which will go to Palestine with the five-nation commission. Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, chief of the U. S. secretariat, said personnel would be selected "without regard to race or religion."

number of attackers was "at least 1000."

[Joseph Teitelbaum, intelligence officer of the Jewish Hagana, was shot dead Tuesday in an Arab ambush, the United Press said.]

The first outburst of Arab fury appeared to be subsiding gradually in Palestine, but Hussein Khalidi, chairman of the higher executive, delivered a scorching attack upon the United Nations at a news conference.

Corruption Charged

He charged that handling of the Palestine problem in the United Nations was characterized by "political blackmail, power politics, economic pressure, yes and even by corruption and bribery," and added:

"The sooner the U. N. disappears, the better."

Thousands of Jews, men and women 17 to 25, crowded registration offices for the Jewish agency "manpower census." Officials estimated 70,000 to 80,000 would sign up for security forces and posts in the proposed Jewish state.

British May Increase Holy Land Quota

London, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—Britain will probably admit at least 30,000 Jewish immigrants to Palestine during the five months remaining before she reportedly will surrender the Holy Land mandate, an authoritative source said today.

Unconfirmed reports said the quota may be increased from 1500 to 10,000 a month between now and May 15.

The authoritative source said the 16,000 illegal immigrants now detained on the Island of Cyprus almost certainly would be allowed entry.

The cabinet will decide the immigration question sometime this week, he said.

Dutch Reject U. N. Java Peace Plan

Aboard USS Renville, Batavia Bay, Java, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—The Dutch delegation to the United Nations Peace Commission today tentatively rejected the United Nations plan for ending strife in Java, while the Indonesians announced acceptance.

Many Causes Cited For Fuel Shortage

Lack of Tankers, Cars and Steel Listed As Bottlenecks at Senate Investigation

By The Associated Press

Senators investigating reported fuel shortages in various parts of the Nation yesterday heard a parade of witnesses blame assorted "bottlenecks." There was no general agreement, however, on which one was principally responsible.

Oil and coal spokesmen said the tight spots were occasioned by a lack of tankers, tank cars and coal cars to move their fuel. A lack of steel was termed another bottleneck. And one oil industry spokesman put the responsibility on a shortage of coal.

But John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, told a Senate Commerce Subcommittee investigating coal and oil shortage reports that the country "has no problem" in coal production. The problems, he said, are oil and transportation.

The mine chief said plenty of coal can be produced to supply domestic needs, and export tonnage as well. He added, however, that in recent months the coal industry has been suffering from coal car shortages ranging from 20,000 to 40,000 cars a week.

Walter S. Hallanan, chairman of the National Petroleum Council, declared that the oil industry is in a position to take care of its requirements if it gets enough steel to drill the necessary additional wells.

He testified that a shortage of steel has been "an impairment" to the drilling of more wells and blamed a coal shortage as one of the "biggest contributing factors" in the ability to get steel.

He also said, in answer to a question from Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.) that shipments of steel abroad have had a "serious effect" on the domestic oil industry.

Howard W. Page, assistant to the president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, said there is enough fuel oil in the United States to meet demands, but insufficient tankers to move it.

M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, agreed that "at the moment transportation is the bottleneck." But he also told the committee that if that problem were solved, "we might have trouble" with the crude oil supply.

held at the Waldorf-Astoria and which Pennsylvanians have always considered a sort of unofficial opening of political campaigns in the State, will be made by Senator Martin.

Word of the private dinner leaked out despite careful efforts to keep it on the plane of a social gathering regarding which nothing was to be said publicly.

However, from persons present this reporter was able to piece together the picture. The hostesses were Mrs. John M. Gross, president of the 1925 F Street Club, and Mrs. J. Edward Durham, both prominent political figures of Pennsylvania.

They gathered in the club's private dining room, and broke up after dinner into two groups. Most of the women and some of the men not in the very top rung of party councils went off into another room and General Eisenhower, Senators Taft and Vandenberk and the party's Pennsylvania bigwigs remained in the dining room.

A fourth out-of-state guest whose presence was reported, but not confirmed, was former Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, of Vermont, United States representative with the United Nations. If he was there, it was an indication that there was some sentiment among the Pennsylvania delegation that Senator Austin should be looked over for a posible place on the 1948 ticket.

First hint that the gathering was held came last night when a radio commentator, (Fulton Lewis Jr.) reported sentiments allegedly expressed by General Eisenhower to the Pennsylvania leaders.

The commentator, stating that the general was "guest of honor at a dinner last week at which various top political leaders were present," alleged that the general stated his cure for the Nation's present economic ills.

The general, this report continued, said the government should call in the big industrial leaders of the nation and put the pressure on them to agree to reduce all prices for a period of two or three years so as to "eliminate all profits whatsoever."

The retiring Army Chief of Staff allegedly explained that they could well afford to do this in order to get the Nation back on its feet economically and that if business refused he would suggest enactment by Congress of a 100 per cent tax on corporation profits. The proceeds, according to the report of the General's reputed statement, would be used for a program of subsidies to bring prices down by force.

Political observers here were startled by this report, which they considered obvious political suicide if true. However, careful inquiry by this reporter brought from some of the most prominent men present a definite statement that they heard the general say nothing like that. None of the guests would permit his name to be used.

Eisenhower to Take Columbia Post in June

By The Associated Press

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made a move toward shedding his Army uniform for the toga of a university president yesterday, with indications that he will have plenty of time to look over the political field in the transition period.

Eisenhower will take over the presidency of Columbia University on June 7, Frederick Coykendall, chairman of the university's trustees, announced in New York. He said the five-star general would go to New York about May 1 to take up residence in the university president's home there.

Green Tells of AFL Plans To 'House-Clean' Congress

By The Associated Press

A "house cleaning in Congress" was announced last night as the immediate aim of the AFL-sponsored Labor's Educational and Political League.

Chairman William Green, who also is president of the AFL, said in a broadcast that the laegue hopes to defeat all of "those false representatives of the people whose only loyalty is to big business and great wealth."

Green said that while contributions to the league's war fund will be on a voluntary basis, "we expect our call for contributions of not less than $1 per member will be answered affirmatively and enthusiasically by all of the six million members of the American Federation of Labor."

"Millions" Held Needed

He said that because millions of eligible Americans did not vote last year, Congress was captured by "the forces of greed and reaction."

He said it takes millions of dollars these days to carry on an effective educational and political campaign. The Natoinal Association of Manufacturers, he said, "spends millions for newspaper advertising, radio programs and other propaganda."

"Remember," he said, "that big business almost monopolizes the air waves, since it sponsors most of the big and expensive radio programs, which are paid for eventually by the American people, since they are charged up to advertisers and the cost of the product.

Newspapers Criticized

'If labor hopes to combat these powerful forces arrayed against it, we, too, will have to engage in newspaper advertising and radio presentations in roder to expose the propaganda of our opponents and to bring home the truth to the American people."

Green said the league will make public the voting records of congressmen seeking re-election, and he added that no member who voted for the Taft-Hartley bill can hope to get the league's indorsement.

Premier of Tasmania Faces Graft Count

Hobart, Tasmania, Dec. 9 (AP).—A royal commission investigating charges of graft against Premier Robert Cosgrove decided tonight to allow Cosgrove to be indicted.

The premier is accused of having received £5000 ($17,388) from four road transport service operators in exchange for assurance that their industry would not be nationalized in this Australian state. Cosgrove has denied the charge and refused to resign.

The Gallup Poll

Democrats Given Slight Lead For '48 in Ohio, Pennsylvania

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 9.—Although recent Institute polls have shown the Democratic Party running considerably ahead of the GOP in Nation-wide popularity, two of the largest States in the Union exhibit all the elements of a political see-saw.

In Ohio and Pennsylvania the major parties are in a state of virtual deadlock so far as presidential preference is concerned, with the Democrats holding a very slight advantage.

Those polled were asked:

"If a presidential election were held today, which party would you vote for—the Republican or Democratic?"

The result:

PENNSYLVANIA
Democratic	51%
Republican	49
OHIO
Democratic	51%
Republican	49

Pennsylvania has a long Republican tradition.

Ohio, on the other hand, has shown a greater tendency to jump baek and forth.

	% Dem.	% Rep.
1932	47%	53%
1936	58	42
1940	53½	46½
1944	51	49
Today's poll	51	49

OHIO

	% Dem.	% Rep.
1932	51½%	48½%
1936	61	39
1940	52	48
1944	49	51
Today's poll	51	49

Pennsylvania and Ohio are key States in any presidential election race because of their large number of electoral votes. Pennsylvania has 35, Ohio 25.

NLRB Examiner Halts Printers Case

Hearing Adjourned to December 19 As Part of Complaint Is Thrown Out

Indianapolis, Dec. 9 (AP).—The Taft-Hartley Act case of the American Newspaper Publishers Association versus the International Typographical Union was adjourned suddenly today until December 19, in Washington.

Arthur Leff, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, took this action on the opening day of a hearing that may last several months, once it really gets under way.

This is the reason for the adjournment:

Leff, on motion of the union, threw out three paragraphs from the official complaint in which the general counsel of the NLRB had charged the union with unfair labor practices under the Taft-Hartley law.

Two of these paragraphs stated that the union has refused to bargain in good faith with newspaper publishers.

The office of the NLRB general counsel immediately addressed an appeal to the NLRB itself to restore those two paragraphs. In view of this and other legal points involving subpenas and other matters, all the lawyers agreed that the actual presentation of evidence should not begin until the complaint is in the final form.

Leff also struck from the document a paragraph charging the union with "slowdowns," and Allen Sinsheimer of the NLRB said he would move to amend and restore such a paragraph spelling out the alleged offense.

The ground on which Leff struck the three paragraphs was that the offenses described did not appear to be violations of the particular Taft-Hartley provision referred to in connection with them.

That provision was the one which makes it an unfair labor practice to restrain employes in the exercise of their rights under the law.

Earlier in the day, Leff, after a lively argument, had granted the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association and the Inland Daily Press Association permission to take part in the case.

Free Press Seeks To Block Strike Vote

Detroit, Dec. 9 (AP).—The Detroit Free Press appealed in Circuit Court today in an effort to block a scheduled strike vote of AFL printers and mailers.

The vote, approved by the State Labor Mediation Board, had been scheduled for Saturday.

GW Will Honor President Marvin

Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University for 20 years, will be honored at a formal reception next Tuesday in Lisner Auditorium.

Dr. Marvin

The board of trustees, faculty and alumni will pay him tribute on his 20th anniversary celebration, which will open at 8:45 p. m.

Dr. Marvin was president of the University of Arizona before coming to George Washington in 1927.

Cub Fliers Delay Homecoming

Homecoming plans of Washington's round-the-world fliers yesterday appeared as hard to schedule as their 24,500-mile, leisurely jaunt around the globe.

The pair, George Truman, 39, and Clifford Evans, 27, landed yesterday afternoon at Harrisburg, Pa., just one lap short of their world - encircling trip. They promptly decided to sample the hospitality of that city before taking off again at 9 a. m. today for Teterboro, N. J., from whence they started on August 9.

"We're going to stay there for two whole days before going on to Washington," Evans declared.

Reception plans here for the two fliers who are carrying out their world hedgehopping odyssey in lightweight Piper Supercruisers originally called for their arrival home today.

The Washington Board of Trade, arranging appropriate fanfare, yesterday said the ceremonies would be delayed until "perhaps the end of this week, or even early next week, depending on the fliers' pleasure."

Truman, who lives at 4804 V st. se., said yesterday the global trip was undertaken to "prove what can be done with light planes."

County Trucks Move Garbage

despite its actions, "service is deteriorating."

Picketing continued yesterday at about 40 locations at Fairlington, according to the union. The walkout was called about 6:30 a. m. Monday to protest management's refusal to meet with the union.

Arlington Police Capt. H. C. Jones reported about half a dozen special details were assigned to patrol the porject but reported "no incidents" of any kind.

Here are some comments of Fairlington housewives:

Mrs. George J. Finney of 4609 36th st., South Arlington, said she had noted no deterioration in service but held that "it isn't fair play" for the corporation to hire other employes when their workers are on strike.

Mrs. Raymond W. Baker of 4624 36th st., South, said the walkout "hasn't bothered me yet," but reported "garbage is starting to pile up."

Mrs. William VonSeggern of 4659 36th st., South, said, "we haven't had any interruption in services" and announced that "they emptied our garbage again."

Mrs. George Harmon of 3081 South Abingdon st., Arlington, said "we still have heat and hot water, thank goodness, but they just haven't emptied our garbage since Saturday."

One tenant said her garbage had not been removed since Friday and was "beginning to smell" but she declined to permit use of her name.

In addition to recognition, the union is seeking a 20-cents hourly wage boost, two weeks vacation with pay and other benefits.

State Employes To Learn Charges

Department to Grant Security Hearings But Retain Right to Decide on Firings

The State Department, after 18 days of "careful study," supplied the answers yesterday to questions concerning "the right of appeal of men dismissed in the future for security reasons."

The sum and substance of the replies was:

That any individual hereafter facing such accusations will have the right to learn the nature of the charges against him, the right to representation by counsel and the right to "establish affirmatively his loyalty" to the United States.

But that the department will nevertheless retain the right to dismiss an individual and refuse him reinstatement in the department if, despite the outcome of his hearing, it still believes him a bad "security" risk as far as the department is concerned.

The letter containing the questions was submitted November 21 by Bert Andrews, New York Herald-Tribune reporter, to Hamilton Robinson, director of the office of controls of the State Department.

It was sent as a result of the controversy over the earlier cases of seven men.

These men were dimissed as "potential security risks" without being informed of the charges against them or being allowed to submit a defense. Subsequently, after protests that their civil rights had been violated, they were allowed to resign without prejudice.

One of the questions and the answer are as follows:

"Should the Loyalty Review Board reverse the decision of the State Department in a security case, will the State Department restore the employe to his or her old job?"

Answer: "The State Department will accept the recommendation of the Loyalty Review Board insofar as the employe's loyalty is concerned, but reserves the right to determine for itself whether or not, for security reasons, the employe is to continue in his old job."

Hearings Requested For Blacklisted Groups

The American Civil Liberties Union yesterday asked President Truman to arrange hearings for 78 organizations blacklisted "as subversive by Attorney General Tom Clark "to determine whether they are fairly classified."

It also urged that groups still consdiered subversive after a "fair hearing" be given a chance to purge themselves of the condition and demonstrate theri reform at a later hearing.

In addition the Civil Liberties Union asked the President to give the right of appeal to the Federal Loyalty Review Board to employes discharged by the State, Army and Navy Departments and the Atomic Energy Commission on Security grounds.

Shimada Asserts U. S. Forced Jap Attack

Tokyo, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—Admiral Shigetaro Shimada, Japanese navy minister at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, today blamed the late United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull for "forcing Japan to start the Pacific war.

Testifying in his own defense in the trial of Japanese war leaders, Shimada said a note from Hull on November 26, 1941—less than two weeks before the Hawaii attack—created a feeling among Japanese leaders that the United States might attack Japan "at any moment."

He said Hull's note "demonstrated" the United States intended to reject any compromise with Japan.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
JOHN S. HAYES
Gets new post

Hayes Named To WINX Post

John S. Hayes, station manager of the New York Times radio stations, WQXR and WQXQ, was yesterday named station manager of WINX and WINX-FM, properties of The Washington Post.

Hayes, who was commanding officer of the American Forces Network in the European Theater during the last war, will take over his new post December 29, Wayne Coy, executive vice president of the local stations, said yesterday.

For his work with the American Forces Network, as well as subsequent duty as associate director of Troop Broadcasting Service on General Eisenhower's staff, he was awarded the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star, the French Croix de Guerre and the Order of the British Empire.

Hayes, 37, is a native of Philadelphia, where he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. For several years he served as coordinator of sales and programming at WIP in Philadelphia, and from 1936 until 1941, when he entered the Army, he was assistant program director of WOR in New York. At the war's end he was a lieutenant colonel.

Hayes is married to the former Miss Evelyn Herrmann of New York. They have an 8-year-old son, Jonathan.

He is the author of a radio textbook, "Both Sides of the Microphone."

Lo, The Poor Americans!

The spectacle of Communist newspapers in the Soviet zone of Germany lamenting the loss of liberty in America reminds us of Alice in Wonderland swimming about in the sea created by her own tears. The editors behind the iron curtain have pretended to scan the American horizon with impartial eyes. But what do they see? Freedom of the press in tatters; freedom of speech suppressed; the right of assembly denied; the right to a free trial twisted into an ironical mockery; the whole Bill of Rights trampled under the rude heel of anti-Communist tyrants. In short, America, according to the latest twist of the party line, is held to have become a police state in contrast to the great Soviet Union which observes its bill of rights and therefore remains the shining example of democracy!

Our people should have realized how the hearts of the liberated masses under Soviet rule would bleed for the deplorable state of due process in these United States. Our statesmen should have realized that a regime which makes a practice of shooting dissenters would be sensitive about the release of Americans from Government jobs on suspicion of disloyalty. With another heroic stretch of the imagination, our country should have been able to see the chagrin of Soviet "freemen" who are snatched away from their homes and thrown into slave-labor camps when they think of tyrannous America turning the spotlight of publicity upon Communists masquerading as loyal citizens. It is all too evident that we shall never please our Soviet friends until we abandon these horrible police state methods and let them teach us the glories of genuine democratic terror!

Freedom Of The Air

The unfortunate breakup of the International Civil Aviation Conference at Geneva must be chalked up as another victory for that old devil, economic nationalism. The culprits this time were not the big powers but the smaller countries—jealous of their sovereignty and for the most part lacking any experience in the problem with which they were dealing. The actual breakup came over the failure to agree to the broad treaty the United States was promoting and the adoption instead of a substitute Mexican resolution which eliminated all reference to the basic point in the American proposal, namely, the so-called "fifth freedom" of the air. This concept, which is analogous to the freedom of the seas, recognizes the right of aircraft of one country to pick up passengers in a second country en route to a third.

Assistant Secretary of State Garrison Norton was quite right, we think, in refusing to sign the Mexican resolution. Acquiescence would have meant the abandonment of a principle the United States has championed since the inception of the International Civil Aviation Organization in 1944, a principle to which the British were converted, after considerable dalliance, at the Bermuda conference a year and a half ago. An international treaty without the "fifth freedom" would be virtually academic, since the other four points are now generally recognized in practice. It is noteworthy that the American position was supported by practically all the countries whose airlines are now active in international traffic.

Basically the opposition of the smaller nations stems from their desire to build up their own airlines without foreign competition. There would be some validity to this objection if the development of national airlines were to be considered an end in itself. If the air age is to be realized in peace, they are, of course, merely links in a chain. Think of the traffic and better service that could be promoted by free intercourse!

Probably the failure at Geneva will have little effect on the operation of American companies, though of course future expansion will be thrown back to bilateral negotiations. Our power and prestige are such that we probably can obtain whatever bilateral agreements we want. The countries to suffer will be the smaller nations with well-established airlines, such as the Netherlands and Belgium. Ultimately, of course, the failure to agree on a multilateral policy will also react against the airlines of the very nations that oppose it.

There is some indication that the nations voting for the Mexican resolution did not understand its implications fully. We hope that this is true and that, moreover, the United States will not relax its efforts to obtain genuine freedom of the air. In any event, the rejection of the American proposal cannot be considered a final answer. It is a proposal which is, in a sense, a limited relinquishment of national sovereignty and which represents a considerable concession on the part of our own airlines to the cause of international commerce. If this is too forward-looking for some nations to swallow now, it is at the same time an idea which they ultimately must accept in their own self-interest if the bonds that now fetter world commerce are ever to be untied.

Planners Vs. Wreckers

Americans, we believe, are anything but quitters. But they require to remind themselves that the pacification of the world is a continuous process and a complex task—to be measured only by the depth and breadth of the convulsion through which the world has passed. The thing to do in the present dilemma is to recognize the new situation for what Acting Secretary Lovett says it is, viz, Soviet sabotage, and act upon it. How? By political action to counter the wreckers while the policy-makers and legislators go on planning and talking. It should take the form of a reaffirmation by the President of the Truman Doctrine in its western European context as he did in its Mediterranean context. In other words, it must be shown that the plan did not supercede the Doctrine, but was a corollary of it; that, as Mr. Truman once put it, they are two halves of the same walnut; that, if conditions make it impossible for the Marshall Plan to operate, there is no option but to fall back on the Truman Doctrine.

The Truman Doctrine was not an anti-Communist crusade per se; it was a warning to the aggressor that this country would not stand idly by in the event of aggression upon free peoples. Americans for Democratic Action make the point that the Doctrine wasn't any more revolutionary than the Roosevelt quarantine speech in 1937. But this died aborning because of Mr. Roosevelt's fear that he lacked popular backing. The President, we feel, has a more sophisticated public today for a vigorous follow-up of his antiaggressor policy. Application of it, of course, must be guided by our resources, by the strategy of American security, and by our obligations under the U. N. Charter. In our view, the security of France and Italy, being situated on the accesses to this continent, are inescapably an American responsibility which can be ducked only at America's immediate peril, not to say the world's.

The French and the Italians are now in the position that Greece and Turkey were in when the Doctrine was enunciated. In France a heroic struggle is in progress for the maintenance of the national independence. The courage of the people whom the Schuman administration has marshaled in the fight is the more meritorious because the French (and the Italians) are perhaps in some doubt as to the American intention to resist their attempted subjugation by the Soviet Union. They deserve active encouragement. They should be left in no doubt that the United States will come to their rescue. Some of them say, rightly or wrongly, that if there ever is an American beachhead in Europe, it would be Spain, not France or Italy. Can we criticize them as misguided or fainthearted? Would we not have qualms in their place? Has it been shown to them of late that what "X"—the State Department exponent of our current foreign policy—called "vigilant containment" would be exercized to protect them?

This last question needs some pondering. Diplomatic passivity cannot be the reaction to the present dilemma arising out of Soviet rampaging in western Europe. How can America count on courage in these beleaguered countries if she doesn't show courage herself? Cleveland and Olney believed in, and triumphantly acted upon, the principle that in certain circumstances a diplomatic 20-inch gun, as Cleveland called it, could be a preservative of peace no less than of the American interest. Such a situation has arrived in France. The Soviet Union should be put on warning that any upset in France and Italy will meet with the implacable resistance of the United States.

Taft's Meat

In admitting that meat rationing may be necessary next April, Senator Taft is only stating the obvious. Apparently he has taken to heart the reports as to what the shortage of feed grain is doing to our meat supply. The Department of Agriculture predicts, for example, that there will be approximately 10 pounds less meat per person next year than was available this year. That probability lies at the root of the Administration's formal proposal for meat rationing and price-control powers presented to Congress yesterday.

The significance of Senator Taft's observation at New York's Town Hall lies in its concession to reality. Less than a month ago Mr. Taft indicted President Truman's price-control and rationing proposals as "police state methods." It is apparent from his remarks that the Senator has relaxed none of his opposition to price control. But his willingness to face the fact of the meat shortage does suggest a more reasonable attitude on the part of himself and some of his Republican colleagues than was indicated by his original adamant stand. Such a willingness to be guided by the facts is absolutely necessary if the country is to be prepared to deal sanely with any critical shortages that may arise.

If meat rationing is reimposed, Senator Taft believes that we should adopt the British system. "It has been proposed," he says, "that we ration on the English system, that is, to give a card which allows the purchase of, say, $2 a week instead of on a point basis. We may do it. If we do it at all, I think that is certainly the way to do it." Here the Senator overlooks a salient point. The British system of rationing by money rather than by points is tied to price controls which make the ration virtually constant while allowing selection as to specific types of meat. Thus, without price control, what Mr. Taft proposes is not strictly comparable to the British system.

It may be that an arrangement for rationing by price could be worked out without either a point system or price control as such. The net effect of limiting purchases by this method would, of course, be to control demand. In a sense this also would result in stabilizing prices, though not of specific cuts of meat. There is some possibility, for instance, that purchase limitations would increase consumption of the lower-priced cuts, thus forcing up prices and militating against low-income consumers. This, however, may be an academic consideration since low-income consumers in many instances already are priced out of the meat market. Whatever method of rationing were adopted, there would still be an impetus to black market operations. In other words, under Senator Taft's suggestion or the Administration proposal, the workability of the program would be determined by the degree of enforcement.

Disability Retirements

It does not follow that because Army physical disability retirement provisions have been abused in the case of Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers the whole retired list is shot through with moochers. That is a dangerous inference which, it seems to us, might readily be made after all the finger-pointing at the Meyers case. It could be extremely harmful to the prestige of the armed forces and could operate as a strong deterrent to efforts to recruit and hold able young career officers. We can think of few things more harmful in these crucial days.

Nevertheless, the Meyers case does raise a question which demands an answer. Are disability retirement facilities being abused in order to set up little sinecures for a favored few? Chairman Charles H. Edson of a House Armed Services Subcommittee says, for example, that 80 per cent of recent retirements of high ranking Army and Navy officers have been for disability. The only way to find out whether this is an unusually high percentage is to review the circumstances of the retirements. That, we believe, is a wholly legitimate function of Congress, if done soberly and with a constant eye on the danger we have mentioned. Moreover, there is merit in the recommendation of the Army-Navy Personnel Board that all service personnel retired for disability be required to undergo periodical reexaminations to determine whether the disability still exists. Certainly no one whose disability is genuine can object to a probe of the 30,000-odd disability retirements of Army and Navy officers since VJ-Day.

Retirement boards, we think, ought to be impressed with their responsibility for careful scrutiny because of the manifest advantages accruing to an officer who can retire for disability. A retirement for disability entitles the officer to 75 per cent of his base and longevity pay. The same amount is attainable on ordinary retirement only after 30 years' service. Moreover, disability retirements are in the highest temporary grade held at the time of disability, whereas career retirements are based upon permanent rank. Since the law requires that an officer technically shall be able to do field service in his grade, the term "physical disability" often is broadly interpreted. Frequently it is used to rid the services of unwanted officers.

The advantage to temporary officers—Reserve and National Guard—is even more apparent, and it is here that the greatest possibility of abuse enters. A man who can obtain a disability retirement while on active duty obtains a lifetime income of no mean proportions. We can call to mind several instances in which retired temporary officers drawing three-fourths pay are holding down good civilian jobs with little impairment of their functions. Doubtless there has been more talk than actual action in obtaining such benefits. The fact remains, however, that disability retirements were regarded as a soft touch during the war and there was considerable scrambling among some officers to conjure up disabilities.

Too many high-ranking Regular officers have died within a few months of retirement to permit any blanket indictment of disability retirements. Disability benefits are a part of the whole armed forces pay system and are necessary to attract good career officers. Nevertheless, no one whose case is genuine should suffer from an investigation of possible abuses of the system. What the probers must do, in arriving at their conclusion, is to balance the instances of abuse against the need of the armed forces to retire unsuitable officers, and, above all, their need to compete in emoluments with the civilian jobs that are a constant attraction to their best personnel.

Six Delicious Flavors

The ingenious California gentleman who, according to the news accounts, has perfected a method of producing honey in six different flavors and colors may not immediately recognize the immense portent of his discovery. The process, we gather, has to do with the substances fed to the bees. Apparently they do not object to this sort of channelizing of their talents. That may be because they are less perspicacious than other members of the insect kingdom; nevertheless, we have always thought of bees as among the more intelligent and useful creatures. Imagine the opportunities, for example, if our food-producing animals and plants can be similarly induced to diversify.

The beneficiary that comes immediately to mind is the struggling mother trying to induce junior to eat his beets. Think of the boom if, presto! the beets tasted like peppermint. Cauliflower, for instance, could be delicately camouflaged as welsh rarebit. Were this procedure to receive general approval, it probably would not be long before dairymen could devise a one-shot method of producing chocolate milk or eggnog.

"School Picketing"

This is a letter about an unfortunate parent of a Browne Junior High School pupil—unfortunate in that I have to walk a picket line for my children to have equal rights.

I went to a meeting of the Board of Education a few weeks ago, and the discussion concerned part-time students. The decision of the board was to use elementary schools as space for the overcrowded conditions at Browne.

After inspecting the "gift schools," I found they were located 9 to 15 blocks from Browne. I am not in favor of accepting these schools. First, the students are not escorted to the schools by teachers or policemen. Second, they have to cross one of the busiest streets in that section of the city, and thereby endanger themselves in traffic, and last, they have to be out in all sorts of weather.

The Board of Education said that it would take two or more years to alleviate the crowded conditions in the schools. During the war, right here in Washington, in a short time, buildings ranging in size from one to three blocks were built. They were a necessity. Isn't it just as necessary to have schools with adequate facilities and equipment to produce good citizens of tomorrow as it was to have buildings to house their mothers and fathers to go all out to fight a war?

To the parents of the white children, I say, please don't feel that we are envious or hold a grudge against you for the schools you have. We think you, as citizens of the Capital of the greatest Nation on earth, deserve the best. On the other hand, we think we, too, deserve the best for our children. To the people of Washington, I say, please give us your support in this fight. We will not use or condone the use of force of any kind.

I am greatly disappointed in your editorial of December 5, "School Picketing." If you do not have all the facts you should be careful in stating that "the Board of Education had no alternative" and implying that the poor parents are misguided.

There are other alternatives. The best—abolish segregation. Then no students would have to walk 15 blocks between classes. Incidentally taxpayers would save thousands of dollars. The board and officials are pretty poor if they cannot work out something better than what they are attempting to force on the Negroes.

Louis-Walcott Fight

In its December 6 report of the Louis-Walcott fight, the sports department of The Washington Post was most unsportsmanlike in its ridicule of the decision without analyzing each round. The fact that Louis was knocked down in both the first and fourth rounds and was outboxed for the first four rounds does not permit anyone to conclude that Louis was beaten for the entire fight. It was Louis who made the fight interesting after the fourth round by his continual aggressiveness.

Had the writers given an analysis of each and every round they would have found that Louis deserved the decision. Because Walcott was such an underdog and because he surprised everyone including Louis for the first four rounds, too many people failed to realize that Louis did fight better than Walcott did in most of the subsequent rounds.

The decision of the judges was based on the fighting that took place in each round, whereas the sports writers for The Washington Post based their opinions on the fight as a whole. Surely, the method of the judges is the logical way to form a decision of such an important fight.

Congressional Fiddling

Nero fiddled while Rome burned and the beautiful city was destroyed. Now centuries later members of our Congress are fiddling and faddling while the fires of communism are threatening to destroy the few remaining countries in Europe where there is still true democracy. One by one former free states have been engulfed by the Red tide and the peoples and governments thereof have become mere puppets to dance only to the Russian tune.

We are the sole hope of the still independent countries. The Nazi forces swept over them and their lands were devastated, their animals killed, or taken away, railroads and factories destroyed or their equipment appropriated by the enemy, and the people tortured, imprisoned or slain. Suppose these things had happened to us. What would we think if aid were refused?

Our own beloved land stands unmarred and prosperous, and the surest way to keep it so is to help keep those other countries free. So stop haggling over dollars, you members of Congress, and vote the full amount of money needed in Europe, or many, many more dollars may be needed to save our own country and even the lives of our people.

High School Fliers

We, the Aviation Club of Western High School and Woodrow Wilson High School, take this opportunity to make a statement condemning the action of the three boys who stole an airplane for a joy ride last week. We feel that this is an unusual case and we do not wish it to reflect on our own good records.

Many of us have flown hundreds of hours to date without mishap and we have worked hard to pay for this flying. Western High School and Woodrow Wilson High School contributed many superior fliers, mechanics, and ground men to the Air Forces during World War II. We believe there is no place for "hoodlumism" in aviation. Flying calls for the highest code of ethics and we wish our parents, the District of Columbia school officials, and the general public to know that we high school teen-agers are capable of living up to these high ideals.

Gold Standard

This country buys and hoards gold at an inflated price. It does not put it to any good use. It does not allow people to have their own gold. We are not on any gold or any other hard money standard.

A return of gold to the world commodity price of $20.37 per ounce and an immediate return of the United States to the gold standard would halt inflation here overnight. Then it would not be difficult to help our friends in Europe to stabilize their money, also on a gold standard.

Dr. Paul's Flight

Early in September the Prime Minister of Thuringia, Dr. Rudolf Paul, disappeared from Weimar. Shortly thereafter the mayor of the Thuringian town of Jena, Mr. Heinrich Mertens, vanished. The disappearance of both men gave rise to much guesswork in the Russian and the western occupation zones of Germany as well as all the world over.

Now the mystery of Dr. Paul's flight seems to be solved. According to an article appearing in the Schweizer Illustrierte Zeitung of October 15, 1947, the Thuringian Prime Minister was taken into custody by the Americans, who questioned him for almost three weeks in a camp near Frankfurt. Then Dr. Paul left the camp and went to Karlsruhe and later to Stuttgart. According to the article, the correspondent of the Swiss paper met Dr. Paul at Bad Schlangenbad. In answer to the correspondent's question why he fled, Dr. Paul made the following statement:

"You are asking me why I fled? The Communists in the eastern zone say because of my expensive mode of living, because of unscrupulous enrichment and because of some charges concerning my behavior during the time the Nazis were in power. What else could they say? But the world shall know why I had to protect myself by fleeing the Russian zone.

"The party headquarters of the SED (Socialist Unity Party, completely dominated by Communists) demanded that I make a special declaration after the expected failure of the London Conference of Foreign Ministers in November 1947. I should then proclaim, at a great public meeting at Weimar, the independent republic of Eastern Germany. At the same time I should demand its entering into the USSR. In that case I should become the Premier Minister of the new Soviet Republic. The refusal of this offer would most certainly have meant my deportation to the Urals. Therefore, I preferred to escape."

This is the statement Dr. Rudolf Paul made to the reporter of the Schweizer Illustrierte Zeitung just a few days ago. As this periodical of excellent reputation states, Dr. Paul not only supported his statement with authenic documents but produced the exact Soviet plans for the Sovietization of Germany and later on of all of Europe. Elaborating on these plans, Dr Paul said: "The principal means by which the Communists hope to achieve this goal are their fifth columns. These fifth columns have been much better developed than one would suspect them to be."

The facts disclosed by Dr. Paul fit in well with other reports from the Russian zone of Germany, according to which the SED has already launched a new propaganda campaign for nothing less than the anschluss of all Russian-occupied zones of Germany with the USSR.

The same article of the Schweizer Illustrierte Zeitung carries a declaration by the Mayor of Jena, Heinrich Mertens, about the reasons for his flight. Said Mr. Mertens: "No mayor can justifiably hold office if his personal freedom and security are not guaranteed. There is no freedom in the eastern zone. There is not even a Germany in this zone but only a territory ruled by Moscow and just inhabited by Germans. Everything happening here could, in the same way, happen in Russia. It is true that people are being removed and children kidnaped in the streets. When I told the Russian authorities: 'You have condemned to death the gauleiter of this country because of the deportation of foreign workers and now you are asking me that I allow exactly the same,' I knew that my security was done for. There was left no other remedy but flight."

The statements of Dr. Paul and Heinrich Mertens do not surprise us. What does surprise us is the fact that they could be made and published in a great European paper more than six weeks ago without being noticed and cabled to this country by one of the many American correspondents now roving all over Europe.

Riding Up On A Boom

By Malvina Lindsay

Memo For Tomorrow

THESE ARE days—and prices—to remember. Some day we will be reminiscing about them thus:

"Yes, I know how it feels to ride a boom. I rode the big one of 1947-48. Up to then we thought we'd seen high prices, but we hadn't seen anything. We had talked bug-eyed about how prices jumped after the first World War, milk from 9 to 15 cents a quart in the first six months; sirloin steak from 27 to 42 cents a pound; butter from 32 to 61 cents; eggs from 34 to 62 cents a dozen. People told how in 1920 they'd paid $18 for a pair of shoes!

"We told ourselves we'd never let it happen again. Then just before Christmas, 1947, we were reading that butter and eggs were racing toward the dollar mark. Every day it was something else. Rayon prices were running away—spring dresses would cost 10 to 20 per cent more. There would be fewer budget dresses, costs were too high and higher priced lines paid better. Cotton was soaring—$3 men's shirts were on the way out. Good quality men's suits would cost at least $65. Shoes would be 20 per cent higher—already we'd seen them priced $25. Coffee was so high some restaurants were using one third more water per pound. Even the scrawniest little Christmas tree would be at least a dollar.

"Every time we went to the store something had jumped a few cents—soap powder, cosmetics, medicine; pepper was 13 times prewar price. Would this, we asked each other, keep on forever?

"WE TALKED wistfully of the days when a woman got a really good handbag for $5, when a good shirt could be bought for $1.95, quality make shoes for $10. When $3 wheat was mentioned, someone would remember how it was 76 cents a bushel in 1930, around a dollar at the beginning of the war. Soon people were even recalling how much less things cost last year, or even last month.

"Why did they keep on buying? . . . Well of course they had to eat, and a lot had to buy clothes because they had held off so long they couldn't wait any longer. Then with prices jumping by the minute they didn't dare wait.

"Besides, most families had more members working even if the money didn't buy much. Other people were getting good profits and dividends. And everybody else was doing it and you didn't feel so guilty yourself spending so much. When money got too scarce you could cash your savings bonds or buy on installments. Of course a lot of people were doing without, were eating and wearing less, but you didn't hear much about them.

"WHY DIDN'T we do something? . . . Well there was a lot of talk in Congress, but the truth is there weren't enough people who really wanted to do anything. It was election year and Congressmen had to be careful and the rest of us were too busy to bother.

"Oh, yes, there was some price resistance, and for awhile it looked as if it might slow up the boom, maybe even level off prices. But people weren't in an austerity mood. They'd been without things so long they were going to have 'em or else.

"Cut prices? Well the dealers wanted theirs too. And each one could always prove that someone else was to blame for high costs, and that profits weren't what they seemed and—anyway it's too involved to go into . . . Price controls? Well frankly I doubt if the people were in the mood for them either. They didn't want to be bothered.

"Think of the future? . . . Oh, yes, a few did. They kept talking about what another bust would do to the country and how Stalin was licking his chops waiting for it . . . Yes, it would have been a big chance for business, labor and consumers to have all gotten together and said, 'We are going to lick this boom and bust the way we did Hitler. We're going to sacrifice and discipline ourselves as we did in the war so we can have a peace that will stick' . . . But—I suppose . . . There just weren't enough people who were willing to think about tomorrow."

Increased Production

Those who clamor for a renewal of price controls and rationing ignore one indisputable fact: namely, that the solution to rising prices lies in increased production. Price control, which is contrary to the American tradition of free enterprise, can only result in decreased production. Decreased production is ultimately reflected in increased demand and, if artificial price barriers are established, the produced goods are siphoned off via the "black market" to those who can best afford to pay.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the war's end to afford ample proof of the foregoing. The radio industry, now producing two million units per month, can meet public demand; and wholesome competition will reduce the prices to the consumers. On the other hand, production in the automotive industry lags far behind demand. An artificial price control established by the industry itself, coupled with ever-increasing demand, has resulted in a vicious "black market" in which so-called legitimate dealers by various subterfuges reap a profit sometimes as high as $1000 per car.

Do the American people want to return to the days of "no butter" and "no meat"? Let us then enact constructive legislation designed to stimulate production. Let us legislate according to the proven economic law of supply and demand.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Root Of All Evil

LONDON.—The 400 million-dollar remainder of the American loan to Britain, frozen last August, has at last been released for British use. The news got remarkable little attention, either here or in the United States. Yet the preludes to this news were a series of solemn meetings of Britain's inner cabinet, a barrage of anxious telegrams from our London embassy to the State Department, and a special journey to Washington by Ambassador Lewis Douglas. Among the small circle of men who understand the facts, this news was received as a condemned man might receive the news of a reprieve.

Money matters— even the finances of a great empire—are always a boring topic. Yet these facts, which have been communicated to so small a circle, are almost as important to the United States as to Great Britain. They mean something that even Representatives Taber, Knutson, Andersen and Martin ought to be able to understand. If the Marshall Plan is not quickly passed, without crippling amendments, the whole world-wide structure of resistance to Soviet aggression will come crashing down in ruins. But since their meaning is so far-reaching, the facts themselves are worth the trouble of some study. They are as follows:

1. Even after the suspension of sterling convertibility in last summer's desperate crisis, the British have continued to lose gold and dollars at a rate of more than 250 million dollars a month. Their basic reserve of hard assets is now only two billion. If Britain is to eat and work, the monthly drain on this reserve cannot be greatly reduced.

2. WORSE STILL, this basic British reserve of hard assets cannot be expended, as the French and Italians have expended theirs, until the last dollar is gone. London is the bank of the sterling area—Australia, New Zealand, Malaya, Burma, India, Ceylon, South Africa, and all the many colonies and dependencies. The two billion dollars of hard assets in the vaults of the Bank of England are not only the operating reserve of the United Kingdom. They are also the operating reserve of the entire sterling area. The war has sent the liabilities of the bank in London to its sterling-area customers skyrocketing upward to over 16 billions. If the bank's reserves fall below a certain point its customers in South Africa or elsewhere will take fright and start a run. Britain will then be entirely depleted of hard assets and the sterling area will fall to pieces.

3. In the 1920s and 1930s, when the bank's liabilities were immeasurably less, $2,500,000,000 was regarded as the absolute minimum safe reserve. American and British experts have now been forced, by the remorseless pressure of events, to revise their estimate of a safe reserve downward to two billions. But Americans and British alike agree that this is a real minimum, and that the danger will be acute if the reserves in London go much below two billion—the present amount.

The significance of the 400 million just released to Britain by our Treasury must now be more apparent. In November, when there was no assurance that this sum would be available, something close to despair prevailed among those brave enough or intelligent enough to face up to the facts. (Among these, to be sure, certain persons of very high responsibility, such as the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, Dr. Dalton, cannot be numbered.)

The situation was regarded as so grave that discussions of the full facts was confined to the inner cabinet, comprising Attlee, Bevin, Cripps, Dalton and Morrison. Besides these men, only Ambassador Douglas was acquainted with all the details. The main object of Douglas' November trip to Washington was to persuade the Administration to release the 400 million loan balance without a moment's delay. This money will now tide the British over until about the end of January.

UNFORTUNATELY, the Marshall Plan cannot be passed and provide fresh dollars, to British or anyone else, until the end of February or the middle of March. To bridge this intervening gap, efforts are being made to raise further funds for the British treasury by other means. The expedients being explored are still thickly cloaked in secrecy. Most probably they involved mortgaging the few remaining dollar-value securities which Britain holds. In any case, it can be stated on the highest authority that the same dire emergency which sent Douglas flying to Washington in November will recur again, with even greater force, no later than mid-March. There is appallingly little time.

What will happen, then, if the Tabers and Knutsons, Tafts and Wherrys succeed in obstructing the Marshall Plan decision, or passing a bill festooned with crippling amendments? The answer to that can be given in four words: "Quite probably, general ruin."

If the opposition to the Marshall Plan is successful, the risk of another and this time final run on the British treasury will become acute. If there is such a run, not Britain only, but all the countries of the sterling area except perhaps gold-rich South Africa, will be mortally hit. All will be forced to trade exclusively by barter, since their own currencies will have no value on the world market. Normal world trade, constantly constricted in the past year, will simply cease altogether. The economy of the whole non-Soviet world will collapse with a crash, no doubt bringing us down at the same time. Simultaneously, a bankrupt Britain will be compelled to resign her innumerable costly commitments overseas, in key areas from north Germany to southeast Asia. In this event, which the Kremlin has long believed was prophesied by its holy books, it will be ridiculous to talk of resisting Soviet aggression by any means but one. And that means will be war.

These are grim and sobering considerations. They must be described, and they must be weighed carefully, because they are the real bases of American policy. But they need occasion no hysteria. As reported previously in this space, the British will turn the corner this winter if, in our own interests, we give them the needed help. It only remains for us to act in our own interests, decisively, wisely, and above all, promptly.

U. S. Lagging in Discoveries, President of MIT Warns

New York, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said tonight that American scientists feel increasing concern because the United States lags behind Europe in promoting new discoeries.

Compton said that despite a greater number of students and superior laboratory facilities, American science has been getting most of its new ideas from Europe, including those in the field of atomic power.

"The field of nuclear science and atomic power is a good illustration, where, out of , say a dozen of the fundamental ideas, some 9 or 10 have come from Europe, including the original discoveries of radioactivity, or artificial transformation of chemical elements and of nuclear fission," he said.

Speaking before the MIT Alumni Club, Compton said that even in the field of invention, a surprising number which Americans believe to be the work of U. S. science are actually the work of Europeans.

"The one thing which we in America accomplish to a superlative degree," he said, "is to develop the new ideas, from whatever source, into useful applications engineered in superior manner for production and use."

Compton said that concern over the lack of new U. S. discoveries is particularly acute in this "post-war era when the European countries are severely handicapped by the aftermath of war."

He said one explanation which has been offered is that graduate work and advanced scientific research are relatively new in this country.

Compton said another explanation might be that schools are failing to encourage their most gifted students to look beyond the formality of passing courses with high grades.

America and Russia Disagree Also on Love and Marriage

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 9 (U.P.). The United States and Soviet Russia clashed today in a new field—love and marriage.

Although the main contestants—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Russia's A. E. Bogomolov — fought politely and amid chuckles from delegates to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, neither budged an inch on the underlying issue of marriage and the state.

Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that an article in the human rights declaration should state that women and men have equal freedom to marry.

Bogomolov retorted such a proposal would have been "revolutionary back in the 17th century" when marriages usually were arranged by families.

Today, Bogomolov said, what was needed was an article such as proposed by the White Russian delegate, A. S. Stepanenko—that marriage and the family should be protected by the state and that persons should be free to marry without regard to race, religion or origin.

No agreement was reached.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

New Look In The South

NEW ORLEANS.—The new look of the New South is evident in this old city. What is happening in New Orleans is typical of the change that is transforming a whole region. The melody lingers on, but the magnolias and the crinolines are today strictly a tourist attraction.

Childs

The goal is to make New Orleans the focus of the commerce and industry of the whole Lower Mississippi Valley. The city is to become again the great port that it was a century ago. Some big strides have been made already. Although the accent is unmistakably Southern, the boosters talk with the fine ardor of a Midwestern chamber of commerce.

They are justifiably proud of their International House. Several floors of a downtown office building have been converted into a handsome club which is a center for trade with Latin America. Special emphasis has been put on the link with New Orleans' next-door neighbors in Central America.

Representatives of the Port of New Orleans, including the city's aggressive young Mayor De Lesseps S. Morrison, have made good-will tours to Central America to stir up business. International House has 1500 members instead of the anticipated 500. It is headquarters for Central American visitors, who are received with flattering cordiality. The target is not Latin America alone. The boosters point to a new steamship line linking Manila and New Orleans. There is no limit on their ambition.

The changes occurring throughout the South are less obvious but no less significant. They were speeded up by World War II and the vast upheaval in the pattern of living that came with it. The rural South lost population to the North and to new industry in the South. Former sharecroppers and tenant farmers are on the assembly line, and it is not likely they will ever go back to the farm.

As a result of this population movement, Southern agriculture is being mechanized at an unprecedented rate. For example, rice in Louisiana and Arkansas is now largely harvested by combines and is dried artificially by dryers installed in recent years.

This is bringing changes in the status of the sharecropper. With attractive employment available in the cities, he cannot be persuaded to stay on the farm without some real inducements. It means a general rise in the level of living. What is more, the Jeeter Lesters of "Tobacco Road" are not up to operating the costly machines of modern agriculture.

Most significant of all, industry is locating plants in small communities throughout the South—close to raw materials. Often these are small branch plants of Northern firms, but many are new ventures financed in the South.

THESE CHANGES are inevitably reflected in the politics of the South. Compared region by region, the South has some of the ablest Representatives in Congress. It was no accident that Bilboism was defeated in Mississippi.

John C. Stennis—who defeated Representative John E. Rankin for the late Bilbo's Senate seat—is an able citizen who believes that the South will move forward in its own way. That does not mean he is a flaming radical. Far from it. It does mean, however, that change is possible and that the South is not forever condemned to sowbelly and to moonlight on the crepe myrtles.

In the new South such relics as Tennessee's ancient Senator Kenneth McKellar seem out of place. Again, it was not accident that McKellar was one of the half dozen Senators to vote against the European stopgap aid program. The leaders of the new South know that America cannot slam the door on the rest of the world. They know that world trade is essential to the future development of their region.

In the past, great men and great statesmen came out of the South. There are potentialities of greatness in the new currents that are now stirring this region.

1000 Guerillas Beaten At Greek Frontier

Athens, Greece, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—A guerilla force of more than 1000 men was beaten after an all-night battle Sunday at Soufli, on the Turkish frontier, press dispatches from Salonika reported today. The guerillas killed six soldiers and wounded 13, while losing eight dead and 13 captured.

Food, Not Politics, Termed Principal Interest of Chinese

"The average Chinese doesn't think about anything but food—he doesn't care who governs him as long as he has a full rice bowl."

That was the grim summation yesterday of Anthony J. Hankey, 47-year-old UNRRA inspector, newly returned from two years in the Orient, most of the which was spent in China.

Hankey explained that the Communist infiltration in large cities had been extensive.

"But there is such a high percentage of illiteracy among the Chinese that about 9 out of every 10 doesn't even know who Chiang-Kai-shek is," he pointed out.

Sees Aid Impracticable

The UNRRA official said that in his opinion the Marshall Plan is more feasible in Europe than in China. He said that Chinese are "for themselves—for each individual family," and will not aid each other on a community basis.

The Chinese situation is complicated, Hankey said, by the fact that the soil is worn out from centuries of use, and cannot support crops sufficient to care for the population.

"Assuming we could save every life that can be saved, and improve sanitary conditions, we are just following a vicious circle. For the more people who are saved the more people who need food, and the country simply can't raise it."

Evidences of a growing anti-American sentiment in China were noted by Hankey. Working out of headquarters in Formosa, Fuchow and Hankow, Hankey said that a single incident where an American Marine had been involved in a rape case was used by Communist forces in violent propaganda against Americans. He said the Marine incident had been followed by public demonstrations, where students had called for eviction of all Americans from China.

Tells of China Inflation

Hankey said that shortly before he left China, it took 137,000 dollars in Chinese national currency to equal $1 American. He said that he had a canvas bag to carry his currency in, and that when he made a purchase in a Chinese store, the storekeeper immediately sent some one out to buy something with the purchase money—either durable goods or something which could be immediately resold. This, he explained, was because of public uncertainty on the rate at which the inflation there is advancing.

Before joining UNRRA in 1945, Hankey served with the War Production Board here, and was in the finance business before World War II. He is a native of Germantown, Pa.

Roosevelt Forbade Him to Criticize Soviet, Earle Says

New York, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—George H. Earle, former Governor of Pennsylvania and former special American envoy to the Balkans, said today the late President Roosevelt, 19 days before his death, forbade Earle to criticize Russia.

Earle made public a letter the late President wrote him shortly after Roosevelt's return from the Yalta conference.

Earle said the letter was delivered to him by two naval intelligence officers while he was on a fishing trip at Seaford, Del., and that three days later the Navy ordered him to Samoa as assistant commandant.

". . . I specificaly forbid you to publish any information or opinion about an ally that you have acquired while in office or in the service of the United States Navy," Roosevelt wrote.

Several House Members To Dine With Dewey

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will meet "several" members of the House of Representatives at a private dinner party here Thursday night, it was disclosed yesterday.

Representative Frederick Coudert, jr. (R., N. Y.), host at the affair said it would be a "purely personal, social occasion with no political significance."

Hen in Germany Earns 2½ Times Owner's Salary

By The Associated Press

In Germany it's possible for a hen to earn more than twice as much as her owner, Senator Knowland (R., Calif.), said yesterday.

He told his colleagues on the Appropriations Committee that while in Germany this summer he heard this story uncovered in a study of absenteeism:

One coal miner worked in the mines only two days a week, just enough to qualify for a heavy worker's ration. If he worked a full week, he would earn 60 marks.

But he had a hen which laid five eggs a week. He ate one of the eggs, bartered the other four for five cigarettes each. Then he sold the cigarettes in the black market for eight marks apiece, or 160 marks.

"So his hen was earning two and a half times as much as he could working six days a week in a coal mine," Knowland said.

32-page book of "Portraits" poems . . . only 25c

HERE'S an ideal low-cost remembrance for many outside of the family. Elderly friends, relatives, neighbors—they'll all get many moments of pleasure from this attractive pocket-size book of 79 selected "Portraits."

James J. Metcalfe's "Portraits" prose poems, one of which appears daily in The Washington Post, are entertaining bits of philosophy-in-verse. They have a down-to-earth human appeal that speaks direct to your heart . . . that skillfully phrases your own sentimental feelings.

The "Portraits" in this second book cover a variety of subjects—love, friendship, home, religion, nature, church, and work. The 32 pages include three blank pages at the back for pasting in your own favorite "Portraits." An interesting biography of Author James J. Metcalfe—lawyer, journalist, and FBI man—is in the preface.

Give this "Portraits" book as an individual gift . . . or include it as an added touch to a more elaborate present. Get several copies now. Buy them, 25c each, at the counter in The Washington Post building, 1337 E St. N. W., or send your request, enclosing the money in coin, to The Washintgon Post, Washington 4, D. C.

German Denazifiers Protest U. S. Verdict

Stuttgart, Germany, Dec. 9 (U.P.). The denazification minister of Wurttemberg-Baden resigned and his entire denazification court struck today in protest against acquittal by a U. S. war crimes court of Hermann Cuhorst, one-time Nazi special court judge here. Denazification Minister Gottlob Kamm said he could not "go on trying little block leiters (Nazi cell leaders) while the man who was responsible for hundreds of death sentences against anti-Nazis was being sent to safety in another zone."

D. C. Engineers To Investigate Cafe Complaint

The Commissioners yesterday asked the District Engineering Department to determine what can be done to make the unlicensed, rent-free lunchroom at Municipal Center comply with health regulations.

They referred the matter to Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young after Commissioner Guy Mason submitted a Health Department report listing 14 violations at the lunchroom.

Young said the investigation would be assigned to Assistant Engineer Commissioner L. E. Cox, who will be assisted by Municipal Architect Merrel A. Coe and Director of Construction Archie Hutson.

Durant Begins Sentence In Atlanta Penitentiary

Atlanta, Dec. 9 (AP).—Jack Durant, former colonel convicted of the Hesse crown jewel theft, entered the United States Penitentiary here today to begin serving a 14-year sentence. Durant was convicted by a court-martial.

Durant's wife, a former Wac captain, was also convicted but later released. The Federal Court held her court-martial was illegal since she previously had been separated from the service.

Hyattsville Firm Is Named To Draw New School Plans

Ross & Walton, Hyattsville architects, were named yesterday to prepare plans for the proposed new Prince Georges County High School buildings at Baldensburg and for three four-room additions to existing schools.

The three additions are for Douglass High and Elementary School at Upper Marlboro, Lakeland High and Oxon Hill combined elementary and junior.

The Prince Georges County Board of Education, meeting yesterday also gave a commission to Paul H. Kea Associates of Hyattsville to prepare plans for the proposed new Fairmount Heights Negro Junior and Senior School building. Funds for all the buildings will come from an authorized four million dollars county bond issue and from a State building incentive fund.

The board announced that the county schools will be closed from 1 p. m. December 23 to January 5 for the Christmas holidays. New teachers were appointed as follows: Rebecca Lewis and Helen Holman, Greenbelt High; Neita Barrison, Bladensburg High; Virginia Hooley, Mt. Rainier High; Eden Sullivan, Suitland Elementary, and Margaret Darlington, Oxon Hill Elementary.

Prince Georges Ousts Trailers

Prince Georges County Commissioners, sitting as a board of health, yesterday directed Sanitary Engineer Charles L. Wood to serve formal orders on 24 remaining occupants of the Hillside Trailer Camp, 6200 Marlboro Pike, that they must vacate the camp by January 26.

The order, as directed, will inform the occupants that the trailer camp has been closed officially by the Prince Georges County Board of Health for sanitary reasons and that "the camp itself does not have a license to operate and under the terms of the law you are occupying space with a trailer coach without the permission of the owner."

Charles Hoile, owner of the land, has denied giving permision for occupancy of the land and has threatened legal action if the trailer residents fail to move.

The commissioners fixed 11 a. m. January 6 as the time for a public hearing on a petition from residents of Bradbury Heights, Special Improvement District 29, for establishment of a trash and garbage collection service.

HIGH PRICES

NOBODY WANTS HIGH PRICES, neither you nor any other right-thinking person in America.

But the only way to get rid of high prices is to go after their cause—inflation. For, high prices do not cause inflation. It's just the other way around. Inflation causes high prices.

Then what does cause inflation? Inflation comes when the flow of money into the markets is far greater than the flow of goods into the markets.

So, in order to stop inflation, a way must be found to bring the flow of money (demand) into better balance with the flow of goods (supply). That is the only way to reduce the inflationary pressures which drive prices up.

At the same time we all want to maintain the standard of living of the American people, and provide the necessary amount of aid to foreign nations.

To accomplish all three of these high purposes, this 12-point program is offered by the National Association of Manufacturers —in the public interest.

Twelve Forward Steps to Halt Inflation

1. Reduce government spending by maximum efficiency in administration; eliminating excessive government personnel and activities; and postponing all government expenditures not immediately necessary.

2. Provide funds for further capital investment by making an immediate and substantial reduction of individual income tax rates.

3. Adopt a systematic plan for paying off the public debt, with provision for a minimum annual debt retirement of $2½ billion.

4. Offer, and vigorously promote, a new long-term government bond issue having an interest-bearing rate attractive to individual investors; the proceeds to be used to retire government bonds held by banks.

5. Discourage inflationary expansion of bank credit by permitting interest rates to seek their own levels free of government domination.

6. Redoubling, by management, of its efforts to increase production, to lower unit costs, and to pass on the benefits of such increased productivity to the public.

7. Encourage management to plow back earnings and increase output, by eliminating present U.S. Treasury pressure on business to distribute at least 70 per cent of its profits as dividends.

8. Encourage labor leaders to forego demands for further general increases in wages without a corresponding increase in productivity, except in cases of gross inequity.

9. Set aside all restrictions on individual productivity not essential to the safety and health of employees, and remove all featherbedding rules.

10. Give emergency foreign relief in goods, not in dollars, with an American relief agency making the necessary purchases of whatever goods in whatever markets, here or abroad, prove most economical, and identify them as having been provided by the United States.

11. Finance, to the greatest extent feasible, reconstruction loans to foreign countries, as distinct from gifts and grants, through the World Bank and private sources rather than out of taxes collected from the American public.

12. Provide maximum incentive for increased production abroad by requiring foreign nations, as a condition of our aid, to establish sound currencies and to modify and eventually eliminate price control and other controls over the internal production and distribution of commodities.

Prisoners' Strike Over Meals Ends

Committee Meets With Warden After Two-Day Protest

McNeil Island, Wash., Dec. 9 (AP).—The strike of more than 1000 inmates at McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary against food served on prison tables ended at noon today when all prisoners reported for lunch, Warden P. J. Squier reported.

The warden said the prisoners objected to meatless Tuesdays and eggless Thursdays.

"For the first time since the start of the demonstration Sunday afternoon," Squier told the Associated Press, "all of the inmates of the institution ate their meal at noon today.

"Conclusion of the mass passive demonstration against the 'monotonous diet' followed a meeting this morning of three inmates, chosen by fellow convicts, with me.

"Suggestions were offered for the improvement of serving food and as a result all resistance disappeared."

Hefty Theft

New York (U.P.).—Thirteen dumbbells weighing 740 pounds were stolen from a box at Van Cortlandt Park. The dumbbells, used for physical examinations for prospective city employes for more than 40 years, were worth $1000.

Jelleff's to Open Branch Tomorrow In Shirlington, Va.

A new Jelleff's store will open without ceremony at noon tomorrow in the Shirlington, Va., shopping center.

Misses' and women's ready-to-wear apparel and all accessories, except shoes, will be carried. Accessories include millinery, handbags, jewelry and cosmetics.

Construction was started almost a year ago on the modern one-story building. The basement may be used later if the store needs to expand, according to Margaret Gollan, vice president.

Approximately 35 saleswomen will be there to assist customers in selecting their purchases. The same policy will be maintained as in the main store in downtown Washington, and the other three branch stores, two on Connecticut ave. nw. and the third in Bethesda, Md., Miss Gollan said.

Family Rows In Court Over 9 Properties

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (Spl.).—The Court of Appeals here was asked today to rule an "implied" trust of nine Prince Georges County properties and an accounting by their present owners, Lottie and Edward Smith.

The suit was brought by Solomon, Sidney, Jacob, Benjamin H. and Joyce Bass, brothers and sisters of Mrs. Smith, who asked that the properties purchased by the Smiths after their mother's death be termed a trust in which they were to share.

The Smiths, however, contend they are responsible only to equitable distribution of $5846.54 from insurance checks of the late Mr. Bass.

Court Bondsman Accused of Falsifying

A District Court bondsman yesterday was ordered to show cause why his license should not be revoked on grounds he falsified his application.

The bondsman, John W. Carter, 48, of 1233 Girard st. nw., was given until December 16 to explain the application in which he denied ever having been charged by police.

According to the order, issued by Associate Justice David A. Pine, it has been "repreented" that a John W. Carter was arrested four times in 1928 on gaming charges and once in 1935 for violation of the stolen property act.

Under a 1933 law regulating court bondsmen, their applications must show whether they have ever been convicted or charged with an offense involving moral turpitude.

The Carter record shows no convictions.

Carter's application, with character references submitted by Attorney George C. Hayes, a District school board member, and another attorney, Louis Lautier, was approved November 18 by Justice Pine.

Held up pending disposition of the case is Carter's application for a Municipal Court bondsman's license. The application, carrying character references by the same two attorneys, is in the hands of a board of judges.

County Votes $1000 Outdoor Theater Tax

On ardinance providing a $1000 annual license fee for outdoor theaters in Montgomery County was adopted yesterday by the county commissioners.

The ordinance, admittedly aimed at keeping such theaters out of the county, was enacted after a group of citizens protested against a proposed outdoor theater, which, they said, Sidney Lust plans to erect at Congressional Airport on Rockville pike.

The ordinance, effective January 10, was drawn by Attorney James R. Miller, Rockville attorney, representing the protestants, in collaboration with County Attorney F. Barnard Welsh.

The Rev. J. Virgil Lily, of Rockville, who said he spoke for the county ministerial association, described the outdoor theaters as "a demoralizing influence leading to promiscuous relationships." Mrs. Thomas M. Bartram, of the Montgomery League of Women Voters, predicted the theater would "tend to increase juvenile delinquency."

In addition to the stiff $1000 annual license fee, the ordinance also calls for written applications, public hearings on the applications and no showing of movies after 11 p. m.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY" Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Heated Debate

Neighbors Ask Ban On Pigeons

Homing pigeons and whether they constitute a "nuisance" was the subject of a heated debate yesterday before Montgomery County commissioners.

"They are a nuisance, they smell bad and attract rats," charged indignant residents of the 9500 block of Colesville rd., Silver Spring.

The delegation, led by Daniel P. Mularkey, 9512 Colesville rd., asked clarafication of an existing ordinance which prohibits keeping fowl within 100 feet of a dwelling. The commissioners were told that if the present ordinance excludes homing pigeons, an amendment should be passed to include them.

Storm center of hte controversy was Dr. George N. Schultz, a physician, of 9514 Colesville, rd., whose pigeon loft was being protested by some 35 nearby residents. Arthur Hanson, a pigeon fancier of Cresthaven and president of the District of Columbia Pigeon Club, came to Schultz's rescue by saying that "th ecooing of pigeons is really a very sweet sound."

The commissioners took the matter under advisement.

Chest Drive Adds 1.8%

money as we can before the end of this campaign," urged King. "Let's make a spectacular report at the next meeting."

Need for such a spectacular report was underlined in a talk on the meaning of failure by Miss Bowling, chairman of the executive council of the Community Chest of Washington and director of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Association.

"Even if the goal had been reached," she said, "the 125 Community Chest agencies would have had to curtail their services . . . in this the Capital of the richest country in the world."

Fears Infiltration of Alien Ideas

"What failure of this campaign means to the large group of agencies comes down finally to individuals. You cannot visualize how the young worker feels who has to turn away the father of a young family who wants help because there is no more money in the budget. The father goes away downcast and discouraged. Is there any question in our minds that such persons are fertile fields for the infiltration of ideas which have no place in our American ideology?"

"Failure," she said, "means there is less money, less work, less opportunity" in the field of preventive agencies, where an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

"And what," she asked, "will we do with our ill? The money somehow must come, despite increased living costs. Something must be done to stagger the load which the health and hospital group is carrying. Those costs must be met for those who are stricken with illness."

Analogous to Crucifixion

"It's almost crucifixion," she went on, "when you think of taking away milk from children in day nurseries, and cutting down preventive and protective advice for the citizens of the future."

The Community Chest campaign is slated to wind up tomorrow, with a final report meeting at the Annapolis Hotel at 12:15.

Yesterday's reported pledges brought campaign sections to these totals: Business Unit No. 1, 60,608 pledges for $1,117,376, 75.38 per cent of the quota; Business Unit No. 2, 4249 pledges for $69,928.10 for 93.23 per cent of the quota; Government, 191,772 pledges for $1,255,029 for 92.43 per cent of the quota.

Residential, 16,403 pledges for $401,495.64, or 75.1 per cent of the quota; Alexandria, 5573 pledges for $50,613.70, or 87.2 per cent of the quota; Arlington, 6510 pledges for $37,333.25, or 70.4 per cent of the quota; Fairfax, 3000 pledges for $23,377.41, or 54.59 per cent of the quota; Montgomery, 8217 pledges for $90,670.02, or 73.2 per cent of the quota; Prince Georges, 6148 pledges for $37,578, or 85.4 per cent of the quota.

● A BARGAIN NEW YEAR'S EVE may be coming up if niteries accept the challenge of that National Guard Armory party with Vaughn Monroe's Band at only $3 per person, tax included. Mrs. Gene Ford, who's running the shindig, says that even with the Armory set up as a club with tables they're counting on 5000 admissions. The price will include favors. You can buy sandwiches and set-ups as desired, bring your own beverages . . . While top-bracket hotels and clubs will hardly concern themselves about this development, it's sure to start a lot of heavy thinking and figuring at the top price spots.

Eileen Joy
At the Lotus

Julian Altman, too long absent from the after dark scene, will bring his new band to the Pall Mall Room next Monday. It's a Jack Morton unit. He'll continue to lead the luncheon orchestra at the Statler.

SOBS AND YAKS rend the air at Club Cairo. The sniffles are part of Jackie Miles' incredible joke-building, the yaks come from customers who unexpectedly find themselves haw-hawing over fun in crematoriums and electric chairs. Jackie's stuff starts with a "slow burn" that soon assumes the proportions of the Bar Harbor fire. He's not above a good roll in the gutter. With it all, he remains one of the few creative artists bouncing around the bistros.

SORCERY IN IVORIES is hypnotizing Statler audiences twice a night. What Jan August does to a piano is hard to describe, but it's always unexpected, always enchanting. He takes those battered war horses, "Tea for Two," "Old Man River" and the like, weaves them into something new and strange . . . Monica Lewis sings fliply diverting little numbers. Best of the boiling is "Please Take Me Home."

Ann Hoehler, secretary to Senator Taft, took over the mike in the Sazerac Room of the Old New Orleans recently, exhaled a pair of nice soprano solos. Her voice is reminiscent of Margaret Truman's.

HEY, HOPPER! Millinery that would confound both Lily Dache and Hedda Hopper is being exhibited at the Lotus by Ralph Olsen and Eileen Joy. One is formed of a carelessly stuffed skunk. Another features a small tree that might have been uprooted from Franklin Square for all I know. Then there's the "Smoker's Delight," a chapeau formed entirely of packets of ciggies with handy decors of matches.

A BOO FOR BOOGIE. As Rodolfo Cornejo finished Sibelius' "Valse Triste" in Cafe Caprice a raucous voice shouted, "How about some boogie-woogie?" Rodolfo responded tersely, "Sorry, sir. Boogie-woogie is out of this house." Came a wave of applause from Caprice regulars who like music that is music.

Van Heflin and his wife dropped into the Mayflower Lounge to visit their old friend, Orchestra Leader Florian Zabach. They've been visiting Van's brother, Marty, a resident of Washington.

Laundered Coal

Steel Men Rush Giant Plants to Wash Rocks And Refuse From Fuel

Aim to Ease Crippling Shortage of Good Coke Which Slows Iron, Steel Output

It's a Boom for the Builders

By Edward J. Lally
Staff Correspondent of The Wall Street Journal

PITTSBURGH—A rush is on to take coal to the cleaners.

Around the tipples of many a steel company mine in the Appalachian fields, multimillion dollar cleaning plants are rising. These giant new washers, some of them towering above the mine land 100 feet and sprawled over three or four acres, will literally wash out the grime that's helping to gum up America's production machine.

It's a chain reaction: Mechanized mining, expanding greatly, hauls up a lot more rock and other impurities along with coal. When "dirty" coal is cooked, it's converted into poor quality coke. As coke quality goes down, blast furnaces produce less pig iron. With less iron available—and not enough steel scrap on hand to make up the shortage—the hard-pressed mills are turning out less steel. And that means less of many things—from toy to tractors—for U. S. consumers and their needy foreign neighbors.

Need More Laundry Plants

Steel men complain that heavy exports of coking coal to Europe have also drained supplies, but they say the only real remedy to the shortage of good coke is building more laundry facilities for the coal mines.

So throughout the Appalachian fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky where America's coking coals are largely concentrated, construction engineers are rushing work on the mammoth coal cleaners. The half dozen or so concerns that put up most of these big de-griming plants have more work than they know what to do with. Some have had to turn away new business.

As their name hints, the electric-powered coal "preparation plants" they build do a lot more than just wash the coal. They take the black fuel as it comes raw from the mines, classify and crush it, and move it along into the huge washer.

Here the fuel is whirled about in water, or some other washing material, so the coal is supported in the tank while the refuse sinks to the bottom. In more complicated three-part separation plants, the coal is also separated into better-grade and lower-grade coals. Then the best of the spic-and-span fuel moves to the ovens to be cooked into coke while the rest goes to other industrial and commercial uses.

Commercial Mines Wash Too

Almost all major steel producers are putting up such "robot" washers at their mines. Commercial coal producers, the so-called independent mines not owned by steel firms, are also building and using washing plants —"probably three or four times as many as the steel mines," according to an engineer with one big preparation-plant builder. But the metallurgical (steel) coal cleaners run much bigger. Commercial coal laundries handle anywhere from 350 tons to 1,000 tons of coal an hour. The metallurgical plants cough up as much as 2,000 tons or more of cleaned coal every 60 minutes.

Most of the mine laundry projects under way now won't be completed for another year. Some giant de luxe models cost up to $10 million or $12 million, and take 18 months to 24 months to build.

That means another "bad coke" year ahead for steel men. Big and little, they're all in the same predicament, losing production

Business and Finance

EDWARD E. BROWN, president of the Federal Reserve's Advisory Council, renewed the council's fight against Reserve Board Chairman Eccles' plan to curb bank credit by requiring commercial banks to set up special reserves. Mr. Brown suggested instead that the Reserve Board make fuller use of its present credit control powers. He pointed out that the Board can raise the rediscount rate, increase reserve requirements in New York and Chicago and tighten up its open market operations. Mr. Brown contended the Eccles plan might upset the nation's economy by restricting production and distribution.

The Truman administration placed before Congress proposed legislation to give the government almost complete allocation and priority powers until March 31, 1950. The measure would permit the administration to restore meat and gasoline rationing and take over the entire wheat crop. The legislation specifically covered many commodities in short supply, such as iron, steel and grains. But it also contained a broad clause affecting any material or facility which the president may determine is in short supply and contributing to inflation. It was the first concrete outline of specific powers sought under President Truman's request for anti-inflation controls.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers chief, blamed oil shortages in some parts of the nation on a shift from coal to oil for fuel after the miners' strike in late 1946. Mr. Lewis appeared before a Senate Commerce subcommittee investigating fuel supplies and distribution. Howard W. Page of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey testified there is plenty of oil, but a lack of tankers to move it. He recommended the release of idle tankers held by the Maritime Commission and received assurances from the Senate group that the tankers will be "blasted loose."

International Harvester Co. today will boost prices on most of its farm machinery lines. On the average, the action will raise the cost of Harvester's products to its customers by 5%. The new prices will be 2% above those prevailing up to last March 9, when the company reduced its prices.

Rayon yarn and filament prices were increased 10% by E. I. duPont, effective immediately. Other major producers are expected to take similar action. Any general advance probably would go into effect on February deliveries. Rayon yarn prices were increased 6% last February and duPont's new levels represent a 51% rise since late 1946. Despite record production this year, rayon yarn continues in tight supply.

Brass ingot prices were boosted a half cent per pound by a leading producer. This is the first general price change since September 9, when brass ingots were advanced three-quarters to a cent a pound. A few weeks ago, there were some upward price adjustments in certain grades of these ingots.

COMMUNISTS ended French strikes and Russians broke off trade talks with France.

The month-long wave of strikes was canceled when union leaders bowed to a government ultimatum that strikers return to work by today. In turn, the government agreed to a cost-of-living bonus for all workers, as well as a 40% increase in minimum wages.

Cancellation of the Franco-Russian trade talks came after the two nations expelled each other's repatriation missions. France ousted Russia's 12-member group for engaging in "subversive activities," and the Soviet Union answered by ordering the four-man French mission to leave Moscow.

French officials were plainly disheartened by the rupture in trade talks. They had hoped to obtain 1.5 million tons of wheat in exchange for machinery and manufactured goods.

Communist labor leaders in Italy postponed for 24 hours the threat of a general strike in Rome. There were some indications the walkout might not be called at all. New disorders broke out in Sicily, where police used tear gas to scatter communist marchers at Vittoria and Bologna.

Chances of lasting peace have been greatly increased by the failure of communist-led strikes in France, declared Republican presidential candidate Harold Stassen. It marks a turning point in communist influence in the European labor movement, he predicted.

THE HOUSE VOTED to impose price ceilings on stop-gap aid purchases.

The move was designed to prevent further price increases at home as a result of relief buying for needy nations. Adopted by voice vote, the measure forbids purchases in American markets at prices above prevailing levels.

Amendments to ban shipments of fertilizer, oil products, farm machinery and other goods in short domestic supply were defeated in the House. Passage of the stop-gap aid bill, meanwhile, was delayed until today or tomorrow because of heated floor debate over the various amendments.

The House bill asks $530 million relief aid for Italy, France and Austria, plus $60 million for China. The Senate already has approved a $597 million program for the three European nations.

VIOLENCE CONTINUED in Palestine, with seven more killings reported.

Jewish underground spokesmen claimed that 80 to 85 Arabs were killed Monday night in a raid on Tel Aviv, but Palestine police ridiculed the assertion. The Jewish spokesman also said the attackers numbered at least 1,000. The Palestine government, meanwhile, clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the "no man's land" between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa.

At least 232 persons have been killed in the Middle East, including 104 in Palestine, since the United Nations voted to partition the Holy Land ten days ago.

Arab leaders met again at Cairo to discuss plans for "immediate measures" to prevent partition. Reliable sources said the conferees agreed not to send Arab armies into Palestine until Britain withdraws her troops by next August 1. A "volunteer peoples' army" would be set up in Palestine in the meantime, it was said.

Britain may waive her present strict immigration quota for Palestine, the United Press reported. It was hinted that all 16,000 would-be Jewish immigrants now detained on Cyprus would be allowed to enter the Holy Land before Britain lays down her mandate May 15. The present quota calls for only 1,500 to be admitted each month.

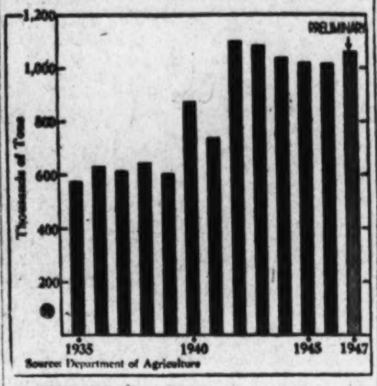
Peanut Production



THIS YEAR'S CROP of peanuts is estimated to reach over a million tons for the sixth consecutive year. Output is expected to be 1,062,600 tons. This year's acreage was the smallest since 1944, but yield per acre was the highest since 1941. A sharply reduced marketing quota of 760,000 tons has been proposed for 1948 by the Department of Agriculture.

Housewives, Laborers Outnumber Tycoons On Atlantic Flights

Survey Scotches Some Ideas; Those With More Time and Money Go by Steamer

By Richard P. Cooke

Talk to a passenger boarding a trans-Atlantic plane and you're more likely to find a housewife than a tycoon.

Transcontinental & Western Air, which in 1947 is carrying close to a third of the 180,000 passengers riding U. S.-flag lines over the Atlantic, has turned up some facts to scotch traditional travel theories. A survey shows that the folk who might have been expected to take a majority of plane seats—corporate executives, Broadway and Hollywood people, salesmen, diplomats and teachers—simply don't.

None of these occupational groups accounted for as much as one-eighth of the sampling. All were outranked by the housewife. Her group mounted up to one-fifth of the total.

Some occupations traditionally classed in the not-so-high income brackets are showing up as mainstays for the over-ocean airliner. Skilled labor accounted for 8%—more than the employers' group. Students ranked nearly as high. Ministers and priests, bartenders, waitresses, military men, doctors, unskilled laborers, tradesmen and newsmen made appreciable contributions among 136 occupations listed.

"It looks as though a lot of the really well-to-do are still going by steamer. They have the leisure as well as the money," says Charles L. Gallo, TWA's director of international traffic. He's just back from a five-week survey of France, North Africa and the Middle East.

He believes "aviation is drawing in a whole new class, people who have only two or three weeks and moderate means for a "dream trip."

Few striking differences are noted between the kind of people on eastbound and westbound planes. More merchants seem to be flying to America than to Europe. More laboring men are flying toward Europe than toward America. Winter traffic is showing surprising stamina compared to the summer rate. People are finding out the upper air is just about as smooth in cold weather as in

Tax Report

A Special Summary and Forecast of Federal and State Tax Developments

TAXPAYERS' FINGERS had best be kept crossed. The 1948 G.O.P. tax reduction law has several hurdles yet to clear.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Knutson expects to drop his new tax-trimming measure in the House hopper next week. But the over-all amount of the cut and some major provisions in his bill are controversial and subject to change.

The plan Knutson now has in mind could reduce federal revenue well over $5 billion, enough to wipe out the surplus in President Truman's tentative budget for the 1949 fiscal year beginning next July 1. The bill is much more complicated than the one Republicans pushed last session. It would:

Raise personal exemptions from $500 to $600 for the taxpayer and each dependent;

Give taxpayers over 65 an extra $500 exemption;

Apply a graduated percentage cut starting at 30% for those with taxable income under $1,000, tapering off to about 17% for most other taxpayers, cutting tip-top income taxes a little under 10%;

Allow married couples to compute their taxes as if each owned half, thus avoid some surtaxes in the middle and upper brackets only;

Allow married couples to bequeath or give half their estates to their spouses without incurring an inheritance or gift tax.

REPUBLICAN HOPES for getting their new tax cut enacted on the double quick are dimming.

Southern Democrats, whose support must be enlisted to override another Truman veto, are hanging back. They were pretty well sold on a $4 billion tax bill but Knutson's $5 billion-plus proposal is too big for them. The conservative Democrats insist on enough surplus, after tax relief, to pay off a chunk of the public debt. In place of the big percentage cut, some key Democrats would prefer lowering excises, especially those that add to the high cost of living, like taxes on transportation and and communications.

Senate Republicans have reservations, too. Taft wants more revision of tax methods. Capehart of Indiana is plugging his plan to permit taxpayers to write off the cost of new capital assets in 5 years, taking 20% each year, instead of the average 4% to 5% taken now.

OUTDOING TRUMAN accounts, in part, for the bigness of the Knutson proposal.

Republicans expect the president to come out with a plan of his own to be touted as a "tax revision," instead of "reduction." They think he may propose a boost in exemptions, splitting incomes, longer carry-forward of losses for businessmen, some cuts in excises. Republicans want to be sure they're offering even more.

Once the president shows his hand, Republicans will seek a quick compromise within their own ranks and with the southern Democrats.

SHIFTING INCOME from this year to next may save taxpayers money if taxes are reduced in 1948.

For this reason it will probably be good business for the average taxpayer to postpone receipts of income when possible and to make sure that all deductible items chargeable to 1947 are paid before the year end.

There is an important exception. Taxpayers are allowed an automatic "optional deduction" of 10% of adjusted gross income or $500, whichever is lower. If they take this option they may take no other deductions, except, of course, their personal and dependents' exemptions. So if your possible deductions for this year total up to less than the $500 optional credit, it may be better to push all postponable deductions into 1948. You may then have other deductions that will give a total exceeding the optional credit.

THE INDIVIDUAL TAXPAYER may transfer taxable income from 1947 to 1948 in several ways.

He can pay up all his taxes, like those on personal property and real estate, and all accrued interest before the end of the year. A farmer can settle bills for feed, fuel and similar items.

If he is a professional man, he can defer sending out bills to let payments fall into next year.

He can do these things, however, only if he is on a cash basis, reporting income and expenses only when received or paid, as most individual taxpayers do. Opportunities for income deferment for those on an accrual basis —reporting income and expenses as they accrue—are limited.

DOCTORS' BILLS may be paid profitably in some cases, in others it will be better to put them over to next year.

The reason: There are special provisions in the tax laws for such medical expenses as doctors' and dentists' bills, hospital and sanitarium expenses and nurses. Only such expenses as exceed 5% of adjusted gross income are deductible, and the deductible allowance is limited to $1,250 for a single person and $2,500 for a married couple. These limits must be taken into consideration in deciding what to do.

Take the case of a $4,000 a year man. He has already established deductibles of $100—charitable contributions. But since he has a $500 doctor bill to meet, he has another possible deduction of $300. That would be the $500 doctor bill minus $200 (5% of his $4,000 income). But that would give him only $400 total deductions, which is exactly the same as his "optional deduction." So he postpones payment of the doctor bill until January. This gives him a $300 deduction to start with, to be added to next year's other deductions.

On the other hand, take a married taxpayer who already has paid medical expenses, exceeding 5% of income, about equal to his allowable $2,500 medical credit. He can get no further benefit from adding to his medical costs this year. Pending doctors' and dentists' bills may be usable next year.

Give-Away Boom

Contest Merchandising Hits Record Level as Competition Tightens

Twenty Nationwide Events Hum at Once; Employes of G.M. Get 5,000 Prizes

Jingles Are Most Popular

By John S. Cooper
Staff Correspondent of The Wall Street Journal

CHICAGO—It is more blessed to give than to receive.

The nation's mightiest merchandisers are finding this ancient maxim has a modern business application worth millions in trade and free advertising. And their "something for nothing" sales promotions are hitting a high crescendo.

When Mrs. Ruth Subbie of Fort Worth, Texas, shows up at the Duz "Truth or Consequences" radio show next Saturday night to reap her reward for unmasking "Miss Hush", it will mark the high point (so far) of the dizziest "contest" gold rush this country has ever seen. Mrs. Subbie will garner: A Buick convertible, an airplane, $2,000 in cash, television set, house-full of furniture, diamond ring, jeweled wrist watch, trip to Hawaii, fur coat and other expensive knick-knacks.

Flowered in the Depression

"Contest" merchandising flowered in the depression '30s. It sagged during the war when there was little to sell. Since then it has come back furiously.

In October and November, biggest months in history, there were more than 20 national contests running at the same time. The rush to give things away was so great people didn't have time to enter all the events. Result—total entries in some contests ran 10% to 20% below returns a year ago.

The contest field is spreading. No longer are its chief practitioners confined to makers of soap, toothpaste, breakfast cereal, newspapers, candy bars, shampoo and other low-priced consumer items.

The night before Mrs. Subbie collects her bonanza, top officials of General Motors will be hosts at a banquet for 5,000 prize-winners of their own. For the best answers to "Why I like my job at General Motors," 5,000 prizes are being given away, including 40 new automobiles, from Cadillacs on down.

Winchell and W.C.T.U.

Walter Winchell has horned into the act with his essay contest "What is a communist?" to raise funds for the Runyon cancer fund. The prize—a $10,000 mink coat. The Women's Christian Temperance Union is sponsoring a similar contest on the liquor evil. Klein's, New York's glorified bargain basement, is putting up $5 merchandise certificates and habitual contestors are even running contests of their own, offering home-made articles like quilts and bedspreads as prizes.

David L. Harrington, vice president of the Reuben H. Donnelley Corp., which has made a profitable sideline of contest judging, says his firm handled 15% more contest mail than ever before in its history this year. Seventy-five contests have poured between 25 million and 30 million entries into Donnelly's three judging centers in Chicago, New York and Los Angeles.

The prospects are, says Mr. Harrington, that next year will be even bigger as more companies seek to familiarize the public with their brand names and keep up in the competitive sales race.

Haven't Seen Anything Yet

"There is every indication that we haven't seen anything as far as contests and premium promotion are concerned," a merchandising official for the Walgreen Co. says. The big drug chain benefits indirectly from contests through increased store traffic when people come in to buy contest merchandise.

The principal purpose of a consumer contest, say merchandisers, is to get immediate action on sales, to break down buyer inertia, the bane of all advertisers. They call it one of the best means ever devised to get customers to sample a product for the first time at their own expense. The alternative, a "give-away" sample program, is many times more costly, and almost impossible on a national basis. Contest managers also talk of the "free ride" they get in advertising and publicity from newspaper editors and radio stations while a contest is on.

A. C. Nielson Co., which makes continual checks of several thousand drug, food, variety and department stores to prepare confidential reports to manufacturers of drug and grocery products, says that sales figures for a particular brand always show a spurt when a contest is held. However, according to Mr. Nielson, sometimes the hyperdermic injection lasts, sometimes it doesn't.

The Pepsodent division of Lever Bros. earlier this year sponsored the most effective contest of all time, Bob Hope's "my favorite brunette is", which attracted over 3,600,000 entries. Pepsodent is a firm believer in contests, and has run one a year since the early '30s. It admits that sales slide off after a contest, and judges the effectiveness of its promotions by whether the new post-contest sales rate tops the pre-contest volume. Pepsodent is understood to

"Dollars in Pursuit"

There are too many dollars chasing available goods and services. What's to be done about it? Rationing, allocations and related devices are suggested; but these things don't increase the supply of goods or cut the dollars. Increased production is needed. And there is a means of decreasing the dollar supply—in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board. For an editorial discussion see "Dollars in Pursuit"—on Page 6.

Yankees' Deal for Pitcher Early Wynn Called Off

The Washington Post Sports
18 Wednesday, December 10, 1947 ***

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

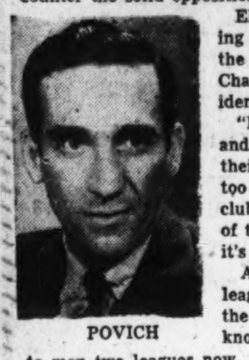
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The projected move to expand the major leagues to 10 clubs, embracing the four big Pacific Coast cities of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle, is going to encounter the solid opposition of Clark Griffith.



POVICH

Elder Statesman Griffith, in fact, is fuming at the whole idea, despite reports it has the blessings of Baseball Commissioner Chandler and the two major league presidents.

"It won't work," said Griffith. "Chandler and Frick and Harridge ought to read up on their baseball history. A 10-club league is too big. It leaves too many second-division clubs around—too many tail-enders. Any of the old-time baseball men could tell 'em it's too much of a struggle."

And the Coast League's bid for major league status will get the brush-off, too, if the majors even deign to vote on it. They know there aren't enough good ballplayers to man two leagues now.

BILL VEECK, the free-dealing president of the Cleveland Indians, who has made the only important trade of the meeting thus far and has a half dozen others brewing, hasn't disclosed how much he is paying Bob Feller for next season.

"Just say we're all working for Feller," said the president of the Indians. "Every time I get through talking salary with Feller, I don't know for sure whether I've signed him to a contract or he's signed me."

The Browns are all through selling, said General Manager Bill De Witt today, after disposing of Infielder Johnny Berardino to the Indians. That brought to eight the total of St. Louis regulars sold by the Browns in their frenzied bid for cash to stall off the bankers.

"What have the Browns got left?" is the reaction to De Witt's pronouncement. For one thing, they have in Bob Dillinger a third baseman who could command $150,000 at the current market, and Pitcher Sam Zoldak, who could bring close to $100,000. The Yankees are reported to want Zoldak badly and five clubs have been bidding for Dillinger. The Browns may not be through selling.

IT WAS A long haul for the gangling rookie shortstop who joined the Nats in 1928, an awkward kid who was all arms and elbows and fussed around with what appeared to be the world's worst batting stance.

But in a couple of years he was the American League's best shortstop, a .340 hitter with power and won a pennant in his first year as manager. He was sold for the highest price in baseball history, and won another pennant in 1946. Today he gained a new distinction. They voted General Manager Joe Cronin a director of the American League.

The report out of Boston that Hank Greenberg would rejoin the Detroit Tigers as a first baseman next season was thoroughly debunked here today by Walter O. Briggs, jr., vice president of the Tigers.

"It's my fault," said Briggs. "I ran into Hank and we were talking friendly-like. Just kidding. I said, 'Come back and play ball for us.' Somebody overheard me, I guess. I ought to keep my big mouth shut."

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE owners, feeling expansive in their meeting today after reviewing the 1947 attendance figures that set a grist of records for major league ball, issued a bulletin to baseball writers, proclaiming:

"New all-time records—10,388,470 paid attendance."

"First time any league ever drew over 10 million paid."

"First time any league drew over million paid in six different cities."

"First time any league drew over million per club, on road."

Whereupon, a confirmed American Leaguer among the writers, commented:

"First time the National League had guts enough to publish their attendance figures."

Brooklyn's 1,807,524 home attendance for last season represents a new top for National League clubs, but it still fell 470,000 short of the American League record of 2,276,000 drawn by the Yankees in 1946.

Unbeaten Teams Meet Tonight

Colonials After 4th Straight Victory Against Virginia

GEORGE WASHINGTON goes after its fourth straight basketball victory tonight against the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

The Colonials, who have stopped Quantico Marines, Kings Point and West Forest, will be meeting a team that they beat twice last year by a total margin of only three points.

The victories last year were by 41-39 and 57-56.

Last Saturday, Johnny Moffatt, McKinley Tech boy, was the big gun against Wake Forest, scoring 15 points. The performance put him close to Capt. Bill Cantwell for high team honors. Cantwell, held to eight points by the Demons, scored 19 against Kings Point and eight against Quantico. His total is 33 for three games; Moffatt's is 27.

Coach Gus Tebell's Virginia quintet has romped home in two tune-up games. The Cavaliers rolled over War Department Headquarters, 63-38, and Old Dominion Club, AAU State champ, 70-52.

However, Tebell says he still doesn't know how good his team is. He should have a good idea after tonight's game and a contest with Duke on Saturday.

Virginia has a veteran starting team with Bill Pandak and Ron Richard, forwards; Joe Noretker, center, and Chuck Noe and Capt. Len Blankin, guards.

Other standouts include Bob Kemper, regular forward at Tennessee in 1944, and three freshmen from Staunton Military Academy. The frosh—Center Joe Butler, Guards Frank Allen and Bob Pickens—played in the Eastern States Glens Falls tournament last season when Staunton was considered one of the strongest prep teams in the country.

For GW tonight, Art Cerra, Maynard Haithcock and Phil McNiff will team with Cantwell and Moffatt.

On Saturday night here at the Armory, the Colonials will try for their second successive Southern Conference victory against Virginia Military Institute.

Iowa Will. Send Some Stickers To. 'Birdlike' Kid Team

Iowa City, Iowa, Dec. 9—(AP). A Philadelphia youngster whose age was not known here wrote to the University of Iowa as the representative of his sandlot football team asking for some of the Hawkeyes' sports insignia.

The letter to the athletic department said:

"Would you please send me some stickers about seven because. We named our club after your school the name is. Iowa Bird we like to play football and the other teams call us the Bird because when another boy block out one of us we fly after the boy with the ball like a bird."

Sports publicity director, Eric Wilson, said the lad was Edward Joseph Madden.

"We filled the request," Wilson explained. "No telling how big Eddie and his buddies might be by the time they are ready to go to college. And Jim Shoaf (Iowa first string tackle) and Em Tunnell (first team halfback) are good examples of Pennsylvania products."

Damascus Trailing 19-2, Finally Wins Out 34-33

Westminster Md. Dec. 10—Damascus High baskebtall team overcame a 17-point, second-quarter deficit to defeat Westminster High, 34-33, here yesterday. It was the winners' second win in three games.

George Curd of Westminster was high scorer with 12 points. Billy King tossed in 11 points to lead the Damascus attack.

Majors Open Door for Expansion, Report Says

By Jack Hand

New York, Dec. 9 (AP).—The National League today reached a decision on the Pacific Coast's major league ambitions but withheld an announcement pending discussion by the American League tomorrow morning.

Although President Ford Frick and league officials refused to disclose their vote, it was reliably reported that a compromise has been reached by which the majors will leave the door open for potential future expansion to include any pair of cities from any section of the country which prove they can support that type of baseball.

If this plan also is adopted by the American League and passed by the joint meeting Thursday, the Coast's bid for immediate provisional acceptance as a third major league would be defeated.

American League owners did not get around to the Coast resolution today, spending their long session discussing technical changes in the major-minor code resulting from the Miami conference of the National Association of Minor Leagues.

Will Harridge, who was reelected president of the American League for another 10-year term, disclosed that the St. Louis Browns had withdrawn their request for unlimited night ball. Under their original plan, any club could schedule as much night action as desired without getting the consent of the visiting team. National League owners turned down this request before they knew it had been withdrawn.

If the majors follow the expected plan the door would be left open for admission of certain cities, such as San Francisco and Los Angeles, after they have brought their parks up to major league standards and satisfied the other members of their own league.

May Be 10-Team League

This might also result in Hollywood and Oakland moving to the big show resulting in 10-team major leagues. Of course, it will be made clear that all initiatives must come from outside the majors.

While the Coast League matter occupied the attention of the big leaguers, National League headquarters released official attendance figures for the first time, showing that 10,388,470 paid to watch its games in 1947. With the American League total approximately 9,486,000, the two leagues drew 19,874,470.

The National League elected Phil Wrigley of Chicago as vice president, succeeding Sam Breadon who sold his St. Louis franchise to Robert Hannegan, former Postmaster General.

Connie Mack, owner and manager of the Philadelphia A's, was named vice president of the American League with representatives of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Boston on the board of directors.

He's 'Nod' Interested In Buying a Horse

London, Dec. 9 (AP).—A. W. Goddard, Hertfordshire trucking contractor, went looking for an auctioneer today with some explaining to do.

Attending last week's Newmarket race horse sales as a spectator, Goddard said he nodded to an acquaintance. Today he received a telegram referring to his purchase of a race horse for 380 guineas ($1516).

"I cannot take the horse," he complained, "unless I keep him or her in the bedroom."

Star of Little All-America In 2 Bowls

By Spike Claassen

New orYk, Dec. 9 (AP).—Eddie Lebaron, 17-year-old quarterback named on the Associated Press annual All-America team today, has two bowl appearances between now and January 1 to prove to skeptics that he is good enough for the honor.

Lebaron, T-formation magician for the College of Pacific, will appear with his mates in the Grape Bowl at Lodi, Calif., on Saturday against Utah State. On January 1 the Westerners will play Wichita of the Missouri Valley Conference in the Raisin Bowl, at Fresno, Calif.

The youngster, rated by A. A. Stagg last year as the fourth best passer he ever had coached, is in the little All-America backfield with Darwin Horn of Pepperdine, Robert Hanlon of Loras College at Dubuque, Iowa, and Harold Bell of Muhlenberg.

In front of this all-star foursome would operate a line that is spearheaded by Dan D'Andrea, 284-pound center from Pacific Lutheran.

The guards are James Nelson of Missouri Valley, who also gets a chance to play in two bowl games, and Arthur Oley of Randolph Macon. Nelson's team plays in the Boys' Ranch Bowl games, at Abilene, Tex., against McMurry College this Saturday and then takes on West Chester Teachers in the Cigar Bowl on January 1 at Tampa, Fla.

Ken Dubard of Wofford, and Felton Whitlow of North Texas, who will play in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz., on New Year's Day, are the tackles while William Hart of Denison and Bill Iannicelli of Franklin and Marshall, are the ends.

FIRST TEAM

E.—William Hart (Denison).
T.—Ken Dubard (Wofford).
G.—James Nelson (Missouri Valley).
C.—Dan D'Andrea (Pac Lutheran).
G.—Arthur Oley (Randolph-Macon).

James Batchelor (East Texas).
Carmen Ragonese (New Hampshire).

Boy Dies After Football Injury

Oklahoma City, Dec. 9 (AP).—Robert Price, 19-year-old Wentworth Military Academy quarterback, died this afternoon of head injuries received Saturday in the second annual Papoose Bowl football game here.

Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Price of Lexington, Mo., never regained consciousness after he collapsed during the game. He underwent a brain operation early yesterday.

Tandberg to Fight Joey Maxim Jan. 9

New York, Dec. 9 (AP).—Olle Tandberg, Swedish heavyweight champion, will meet Joey Maxim of Cleveland, in a 10-round Madison Square Garden bout on Friday, January 9.

Maxim defeated William (Chicken) Thompson of Philadelphia, in Philadelphia in a 10-round bout last night.

Gerber's Resignation Submitted at Navy

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Myron D. Gerber, football back from Arlington, Va., who still has another year to play, has submitted his resignation at the United States Naval Academy, The Washington Post learned last night.

Although his request has to go through official channels, an academy spokesman said it practically is certain to be granted.

Gerber's father, Robert, of 3925 N. 5th st., Arlington, confirmed the report that his son wished to resign.

The elder Gerber, owner of a drug store chain, explained that his son has decided to go into business with him and no longer wishes to make the Navy his career.

"My business is expanding," Gerber explained, "and Myron thinks his future with me will be more promising. He intends to take a course in pharmacy to prepare himself."

The father said Myron hasn't decided which school he will attend.

At Annapolis, Capt. Tom Hamilton, Navy coach, said, "Berber's a fine boy and wish him lots of luck. He played good foobtall for us and we will miss him."

Gerber, 21-year-old second classman, would have been graduated with the 1949 class. With the Midshipmen, he primarily was a defensiv eplayer, but also was considered a fine line plunger.

Gerber, 5 ft., 9-ins. and 190 pounds, started in the Army game last year and saw action in this season's service classic.

He began his scholastic football career at Washington and Lee High in Arlington and he played at Bullis Prep before entering the Naval Academy.

Bowl Tilts Out For Southern?

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—This may be the last year Southern Conference football teams will play in postseason bowl contests.

A proposal to ban postseason bowl games has been offered to members of the Southern Conference for consideration Friday and Saturday at their annual meeting, scheduled for Roanoke, Va.

The league's 16 members also have been offered a proposal to make more explicit the loop's rules on athletic professionalism.

While no official mention has been made as to who submitted the recommendations, the proposals have been received by all of the member schools.

The conference now has a rule—in Article IV, Section 6—which reads, "No postseason game will be permited, except by the consent of the conference." If the league should adopt the new proposal, the article would be altered to read: "No postseason football games will be permitted."

Ken Stribling Faces Lacey

Frank Lacey, the Baltimore middleweight, who has a record of only one setback in more than 40 pro matches, returns to Turner's Arena next Monday night in a 10-rounder against Ken Stribling, District fighter.

Lacey won an unanimous decision from Bee Bee Washington a few weeks ago at the Arena.

A hard puncher with either fist, Lacey has also beaten Frank Sweeney, the Southeast Slugger, who defeated Washington this past Monday night.

Stribling has won eight matches this year, had one draw and dropped his first bout to Johnny Walker several weeks ago after a bruising battle.

Auburn May Release Voyles

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 9 (AP).—Attorney General Albert A. Carmichael said tonight Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn) may legally "buy up" Football Coach Carl Voyles' contract and release the coach.

Carmichael said the contract provided for termination of the agreement "upon mutual consent" and said payment of the money to Voyles for the remaining tenure of his contract would not constitute "a donation of public monies to an individual."

Coach Voyles' contract expires April 15, 1950. He took over as athletic director and head football coach in 1944 after coaching at William and Mary.

The attorney general released a prepared statement in which he said he had been asked for an advisory opinion on the matter by Auburn's Acting President Ralph Draughon.

Rumors that Voyles would be replaced as Coach at Auburn have been circulating widely for some time. Draughon said during the football season that the school's faculty committee on athletics would "evaluate the situation after the close of the season."

CCNY Beats Oregon State

New York, Dec. 9 (AP).—Rallying in the last six minutes, City College came from behind to defeat Oregon State, 58-51, in the opener of a college basketball doubleheader before a crowd of about 17,000 at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Graziano's Army C. O. Has Good Word for Him

The man who commanded an Army disciplinary barracks when Rocky Graziano served time there today joined those who think the world's middleweight champion should be allowed to fight again.

The National Boxing Association in a statement today quoted Col. James P. Marley, retired, as saying:

"Doggone it, no one should dig up a man's past and hurl it at him years later."

Mt. St. Marys Team and Fans Invade American U. Thursday

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

Mt. St. Mary's is coming to town Thursday.

Fans who witnessed the Mason-Dixon Conference basketball tournament at Catholic U. last year should remember the boys from the Mount.

Although it's only a small college in size, it's a giant in spirit. Last year's Mount rooters just about lifted the roof off C. U.'s gym.

Thursday night Mt. St. Mary's meets American University in the A. U. gym, and the team from Emmitsburg, Md. will probably have plenty of support.

The club is practically the same as last year's which gained the Mason-Dixon Conference final round. Little Mike Russo and Bob Zweibal handle the guard posts, with high-scoring Pete Clark and Bob Kripaitis at the forwards. All four were first stringers last season and Russo and Clark made the first All-Conference team.

Mac McCarthy, the center, is the only newcomer to the first five. He is up from last year's "B" squad.

In its first three games this season, the Mount has come out on the short end on each occasion. All three were close battles, including a 53-51 game with powerful Villanova.

With American fielding an improved team, Thursday should see a close contest. And don't be surprised if there is lots of noise. Those Mount rooters sure can yell.

No Injuries—But Baugh Isn't Shaving

A scratched face which forced Sammy Baugh to forego shaving, plus seasonal colds nursed by Bob Nussbaumer, Eddie Saenz and Paul McKee, were the only physical defects of the Washington Redskins yesterday as they worked out for Sunday's season finale against the Boston Yankees at Griffith Stadium.

Meanwhile, the Redskin Band, claiming 11 undefeated seasons, held a secret meeting to decide Santa Claus' mode of entry for the half-time show. In seasons past he's arrived by dog sled, helicopter and horse-drawn sleigh.

Griff Not Satisfied With Offer For Pitcher

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

New York, Dec. 9—The newest turn in the widely predicted Washington-Yankees trade that would send Pitcher Early Wynn to the New York club was a report today that "It's cold."

Owner Clark Griffith of the Nats has never admitted anything beyond the "possibility" stage of the deal, but Yankee officials had been maintaining that "It could happen."

Today, however, a Yankee spokesman said bluntly "It's off."

The latest Yankee offer for Wynn, who is needed to bolster their sagging pitching staff, was reported to be four players—Outfielder Hank Bauer from Kansas City, Pitchers Karl Drews and Ray Starr of the second-string contingent, and Catcher George Little of the Yankee-owned Augusta, Ga., club.

He May Play for Indians

Griffith admitted that Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees had talked trade with him several weeks ago, and before the meeting here he ventured that "there might be a deal," but apparently he is holding out for something more worthy than the Yanks are offering.

The Nats sold Catcher Frank Mancuso to Toledo after All American League clubs waived on him. Mancuso came to Washington from the Browns last year in a swap for Jake Early.

Meanwhile the Cleveland Indians stole the dealing spotlight with their purchase of Second Baseman Johnny Berardino from the Browns "for substantial cash," estimated at more than $50,000, and Outfielder George Metkovich.

It was the latest raid on the Browns' talent, and followed the Browns acquisition of Second Baseman Gerry Priddy from the Nats yesterday.

Walcott Wants 30% to Fight Louis Again

Philadelphia, Dec. 9 (AP).—It is going to cost the Twentieth Century Sporting Club 30 per cent of the gate to get Joe Walcott into the ring again with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

"We'll take 30 per cent and not a point less," said Joe Webster, Walcott's manager, today. The Twentieth Century was reported ready to offer Walcott 20 per cent and Louis 40 per cent.

Felix Bocchicchio, Camden promoter, has exclusive rights to Walcott's services and he will have to be satisfied, too, before Mike Jacobs' New York club can sign Jersey Joe.

Bocchicchio said he will back Webster's demands for 30 per cent, not only out of the gate receipts but from movies, television and radio as well.

"If we don't get it, I'll make a satisfactory offer to Louis myself," Bocchicchio said and added that he would prefer to promote the return match on his own or in partnership with another promoter.

Harry Voiler, Miami Beach, Fla., hotel operator, said he and Bocchicchio were ready to offer Louis $400,000 or 50 per cent of the gate after taxes had been deducted with the fight to be held in any suitable city.

Okamsel Turns in Second Straight Victory at Charles Town

Bill Bennings

AT CHARLES TOWN

DEAR FOLKS:

While other tracks beef, Charles Town ups the purses without being asked. Business is good up here in the mountains and will be as long as the present good weather prevails. So President-General Manager Albert J. Boyle is sharing the wealth. He has added a $1500 race for each Wednesday and a $1200 purse each day. The present line-up calls for a minimum of $8200 in purses daily. By the way, the Wednesday program is a humdinger with the sixth race, the Clemson Purse, worth a trip to the track. Boston Man, the current champ, tackles Lawless Miss and Annie's Dream. Also tossed into the test are Comedy Player, Belle Moose, Beau Wynn and Belpast. The action will be over the about six furlongs, and weights are distributed in such a manner that it appears to be a struggle right down to the wire. Jockey Johnny Tammaro is trying to decide whether to ride this winter at Tampa. John A. Manfuso, vice president of the Maryland division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association leaves for New Orleans this week for a meeting of the national group. Fleetest has been placed on the schooling list and must brush up on starting manners before her next start. See you on the rail.—BILL.

Newsworthy, How Happy Second, 3d

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Mrs. M. E. Murphy's Okamsel, winner of more than $10,000 before coming here, turned in his second straight success over the local track.

The 3-year-old won the Beverley Brown Purse, named for the chairman of the West Virginia Racing Commission, and did so in the interests of the favorite players.

With Jockey George Cardoza taking his second race of the afternoon, Okamsel returned a $2.80 win mutuel and led M. Barshack's Newsworthy to the finish line by a length.

Two additional lengths back came Mrs. Lelia D. Rogers' How Happy to be third in the field of eight going about seven furlongs.

Okamsel was clocked in 1:25 3/5 over a track that was fast. Bright skies prevailed but the weather was colder than yesterday.

Cardoza, riding in the best form of his career, gave a faultless performance on Okamsel. Newsworthy went to the front and opened a good lead with Balbar and How Happy closest. During this period, Cardoza was saving much ground and steadying his mount.

Approaching the stretch, Cardoza brought Okamsel up along the inside to move gradually toward the leader.

Newsworthy, however, had something left.

When Cardoza saw he could not get to the inside of the pacemaker, he brought Okamsel to the outside and the favorite wore down the leader to win going away.

Favorite players, however, did not fare so well at the start of the program.

They installed W. V. Keegan's Tandis a 1-to-10 choice, the shortest price ever recalled here.

The filly was beaten in a photo finish by Mrs. M. M. Dunaway's Rogers Moose, a $20.20 shot. Jockey E. Carrillo, who rode Tandis, made an unsuccessful foul claim against V. Bush who rode Rogers Moose.

Jockey Stanley Austin was suspended for five days for rough riding aboard F. C. Maisel's Chance Fair in the fifth race. The winner was a favorite, E. R. Hansen's Grey-Del at $4.40.

Priory Victor Over Blair, 36-34

Priory School won its third straight basketball game of the season yesterday by downing Montgomery Blair, 36-34 at Priory. It was Blair's first game.

Joe Hayden, with 14 points and George Macdonald who tallied 9, paced the winners, who led 21-11 at halftime, then fought off a last period Blair rally.

Gallaudet Favored to Win Over Washington Tonight

The Gallaudet basketball team will invade Chestertown, Md., tonight when it meets Washington College quintet.

Winner of one of its first three contests, Gallaudet will be favored to rack up victory No. 2 tonight against the inexperienced Shoremen.

In contrast to Gallaudet, which has four first stringers back from last year, Washington has but two.

Capt. Tommy Cuscaden, Dick Wright, Conrad Stedrak and John Schumacher are the veteran Gallaudet starters, with Mark Wait, a reverse last season, filling the fifth spot.

Washington, in contrast to this promising situation, has only Jim Rook and Bill Mulleneaux from the 1946 first team. Walt Romanition, another regular, is still out with an ankle injury suffered during football season.

The other Shoremen starters will come from last year's reserves, Howie Nesbitt, Elvin Lewis and Dick Tattersall.

GALLANT DOC, $10.40, $4.40, $2.80; LAS VEGAS, $7.80, $3.80; KARAKAL, $7.40.

GALLANT DOC was steadied in the early stages, came to the outside with a bold rush to dispose of KARAKAL and was drawing out at the end. LAS VEGAS was heavily restrained early, came to the outside to better position and went to the inside in the stretch to close gamely. KARAKAL was rushed to the front and weakened. GAMBLING ANDY had early speed and stopped.

Stephens City Loses

Stephens City, Va., Dec. 9.—In a postseason game played at Richmond the Stephens City High School football team bowed to West Point High, 18-14.

Charlotte Hall Trips W. L., 26-23

Forward Tony Yanchulis scored 14 points to lead the Charlotte Hall basketball team to a 26-23 victory over Washington and Lee High at the winner's court yesterday.

W. & L. high scorer Jim Utterbach sparked a loser rally in the third period when the Virginians took the lead for the only time.

Warner's 17 Points Pace Anacostia Win

Center Wally Warner racked up 28 points—17 of them in the last half—to lead Anacostia to a 57-48 victory over Baltimore City College quint at the victors' gym yesterday.

Warner's scoring spree enabled the winners to overcome a six-point period deficit. High scorer for Baltimore was Forward Heyison who tossed in 13 points.

THE SECOND series in the Men's Major District Duckpin League will end tonight, with Mann's holding to a slim one-game edge over the fast-moving Burr-Heishmann quintet.

Mann's meets Arcade Pontiac tonight in Mount Rainier. Arcade features the "Gold Dust Twins," Jack Barkley and Leon Fleischer. Barkley, 18-year-old protege of Clarendon Manager Eddie Goldberg, is pacing the senior loop with a 28 plus average, having overcome the previous leader, Julie Singer, of Winchester Packard, with a glistening 410 set last week.

Cletus Pannell's Burr-Heishmann boys will meet Galliher and Huguely at Hi-Skor; Maple-Edge Pins, counting heavily on El Geib, recent winner of the $500 first prize in the Blick Classic in Atlanta, will take on Heurich Brewers at Colonial Village and Winchester will be host to Winns Motors at Greenway.

THERE'LL be an interesting session out at King Pin alleys in the Ladies' District Major League, with the league-leading King Pin outfit facing Hi-Skor.

Although way down in the race, Hi-Skor is salvaging some interest in the competition by the knowledge that Lorraine Gulli, its captain, has the second-highest individual average, a 116.32 as against Evelyn Nickel's (King Pin) 117.19. It'll be a battle for the lead between these two tonight.

With King Pin holding a five-game lead, College Park will seek to improve its chances in a match at home against Mount Rainier. Ice Palace will be at Brookland and Lafayette at Rosslyn.

GREENWAY, still the leader in the Men's Minor League, will be host to Arcadia tonight. Another battle pits Petworth No. 2 against Petworth No. 1, two of Manager Vernon Graves' entries. Other games show Colonial Village at Ice Palace, Spillway at Temple, Clarendon at Queen Pin and Lucky Strike at Alexandria.

The Federal Diary
by Jerry Klutz

AFL Council Urges $800 Raise for All on Permanent U. S. Rolls

PAY RAISES: AFL's powerful Government Employes Council yesterday came out for a flat $800 pay raise for all Federal workers on a permanent basis.

The council also adopted a resolution which urged Congress to promptly pass the Langer-Chavez-Stevenson bill to liberalize the Civil Service retirement system.

The council is made up of 21 unions of the American Federation of Labor that have upward of half a million Federal worker members. It plans an aggressive campaign to obtain approval of the retirement and pay raise bills.

AIR POLICY: The President's Air Policy Committee is all set to recommend a big increase in the Nation's air power. It will propose, it is reported, that the Air Force be given the authority and the money to buy 5000 new planes in 1948, and that it buy not less than that number for each year thereafter. The Air Force has funds to buy less than 900 new planes this fiscal year.

Research and development of new and better planes also is due to be stressed by the committee whose report will go to the President no later than January 1.

$1000: Senator Chavez (D., N. Mex.) has joined with Chairman Langer of the Senate Civil Service Committee in cosponsoring two bills to raise the salaries of most Federal employes a flat $1000 each. Langer said he would introduce the bills today.

A separate bill would raise the salaries of postal employes. The second bill will deal with all other Federal employes. An increase of 50 cents an hour will be proposed for all hourly and daily workers. No salary could be raised above $10,000, and no one who is paid that much or more now would benefit from either bill.

Langer emphasized that both bills would be permanent legislation. "If the cost of living ever goes down," he said, "that will be the time to consider a pay cut for Federal workers."

Chavez is the ranking Democrat on the Civil Service Committee. With bipartisan support, Langer feels his bill will have a much better chance of Senate approval.

LEAVE: Representative Clason (R., Mass.) yesterday introduced a bill to allow Federal workers to accumulate up to 120 days of annual leave. Meantime, the amount of leave that can be carried over to next year will be reduced to 60 days for those employes who had less than that amount on last July 25.

APPROVED: The Senate Civil Service Committee yesterday unanimously approved the nominations of Jesse Donaldson to be Postmaster General and of Paul Aiken to be Second Assistant Postmaster General.

The committee vote on Donaldson came shortly after the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People brought up the issue of race discrimination in the Postoffice Department. However, the group did not oppose Donaldson for the Cabinet post. It did insist that the charges it made be looked into.

Chairman Langer assigned Ralph Burton, an investigator, to look into the charges raised by Clarence Mitchell, association spokesman.

Letters were read from Negro postal groups indorsing Donaldson. Donaldson testified that more Negroes had been promoted in the postal service in the past 10 years than in the previous 30 years.

The nomination of Donaldson, the first career man to be named to the Postmaster Generalship, was praised by a long list of Senators and employe leaders.

NOTES: The National Federation of Federal Employes has chartered its 1000th local, a group of Veterans Administration employes in Oklahoma City . . . The Georgia congressional delegation has indorsed George D. Hamilton, Georgia treasurer, to be a member of the Federal Reserve Board . . . Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.), is sponsoring a bill to raise the income tax exemption of a single person from $500 to $1000, and up to $2000 for married couples. His measure, if approved, would have the effect of exempting most retired Federal workers from income taxes.

AIR FORCE: It has returned to its former policy of grading its civilian jobs on the basis of merit and standards laid down by Civil Service.

In other words, it will no longer grade its civilian jobs by any arbitrary formula as has been the case during the past several months. A limit was placed on the number of civilians in each of the middle and top salary brackets. Any excess in these grades had to be either fired or demoted arbitrarily.

But the Air Force plans to follow a tight classification policy on its civilian jobs. Requests for higher job classifications will be studied closely before action is taken on them.

Jewish Committee Will Meet Tonight

The Washington Chapter of the American Jewish Committee will meet tonight at 8:30 p. m. at the Statler Hotel.

Guest speakers will be Irving M. Engel, chairman of the New oYrk chapter, and David Bernstein, who recently returned from a 7-month mission for the committee in Europe.

Stolen Meat Recovered in Police Chase

Driver Attracts Motorcycle Man By His Speeding; Trapped in Alley

When Motocycle Policeman Ross G. Riker watched an automobile race past him Monday night at Connecticut ave. and Porter st. nw. he muttered:

"There is more to this than meets the eye."

There was—a car full of meat.

Riker chased and finally caught William Henderson, 41, of 6664 Hillandale rd., Bethesda, Md.

In Henderson's car he found:

190 pounds of pork loin,
24 pounds of hot dogs,
40 pounds of chicken,
40 pounds of pork ribs,
3 fresh pork shoulders,
10 pounds of beef buillon,
6 fresh hams,
10 pounds of sirloin steaks,
8 pork puddings,
10 pounds of plate beef and
100 pounds of butter.

Riker said he started to chase Henderson at about 11 p. m. He cornered him at 16th st. and Park rd. nw. after following the car through Rock Creek Park, but when he ordered Henderson to proceed to the station house the driver jumped back in his car and tried again to escape.

At 16th and Lamont sts. nw., police said, Henderson drove into a blind alley. When he saw there was no exit, he leaped from his car and fled into an areaway. That was blind, too. After Riker had collared his man, he looked into the car and discovered the meat cargo, he said.

By a strange coincidence, police said, the meat items found in Henderson's car corresponded to the last T-bone to a supply stolen earlier from the Safeway store at 4333 Connecticut ave. nw.

Detective Sergeants Francis L. Gaver and Grayston W. Chapman located the scene of the robbery after checking the crates in Henderson's car. At the store, they said, they found the rear door jimmied.

Value of the meat was placed at $345.58.

Policeman Surprises Burglars With Loot

A patrolman surprised four burglar suspects toting potato sacks laden with groceries at 4 a. m. yesterday from the Precurement Market, 306 7th st. nw.

Pvt. Irving E. Lawson caught Herbert A. Moorman, 18, 627 I st. sw., with the groceries. Charles W. Breeden, 18, of 493 I st. sw., and William Skinner, 20, of 307 7th st. sw. fled, but were arrested later on description. All three were charged with housebreaking. The fourth suspect was still sought last night. The loot was valued by proprietor Joseph Piccioni at $114. Entrance was gained by breaking a glass transom.

Safecrackers at George's Grill, 3424 14th st. nw., got $275 by hacking the safe's bottom with a hatchet, the owner, George Simon, said.

Joseph J. Bauer, former War Assets Administration economist and amateur photographer, reported theft of two cameras valued at more than $1000, some $160 in cash, a radio and typewriter from his home, 3721 Suitland rd. se. More than $870 was stolen at the home of Harvey Blumenthal, 2651 16th st. nw.

Woman's Purse Picked

Miss Verda Hansford, 2839 27th st. nw., told police $75 was taken from her pocketbook by a thief who left a streetcar transfer in exchange, in the 14th st. sw underpass.

David Mitchell, 45, of 1423 New Jersey ave. nw., reported his overcoat pocket was rifled of two rings worth $30 and $2 in change, while he was walking in the 1200 block of 7th st. nw., by a Negro six feet tall, about 30 years old and weighing about 150 pounds.

About $45 was stolen by a thief who cut through his coat and pants to remove a wallet, Victor Adams, 905 13th st. nw., reported. Adams said the theft occurred while he was asleep in the Trailway bus terminal, 12th st. and New York ave. nw.

Charlies Humber, 38, of 306 Randolph st. nw., reported he was yoked and robbed of his wallet, which contained no money, while walking on Lincoln rd. near Quincy pl. ne. Jewelry valued at $250 was stolen from her home at 1816 Lamont st. nw., Mrs. Stella Caruso told police. An envelope containing $200 was reported by Ruth Sherman as stolen from a bedroom bureau at 7706 13th st. nw.

76 Silver Dollars Stolen

Seventy-six silver dollars and $3 in change were taken by housebreakers who jimmied their way into an apartment at 212 V st. nw., according to George Parr. A carpet worth more than $200 was carted away by a thief from a truck parked in front of the National Carpet Co., 940 D st. sw., Guy E. Schafer reported.

Curtis B. Costello, staying at the Raleigh Hotel, told police three $100 war bonds, a government check for $300 and $63 in cash disappeared with three friends who visited his room.

Automobiles were reported stolen by George E. Dendy, 225 F st. ne.; Ralph A. Smith, 6606 Axter rd., Bethesda, Md., and Helen C. Bemas, 1301 Massachusetts ave. nw.

D.C. to Try Out Traffic School For Violators

Will Cancel All or Part Of Fines for Those Who Pass Written Test

Washington will have a traffic violators' school on a trial basis for six months, the Commissioners ruled yesterday.

They approved a plan for permitting traffic violators to escape payment of all or part of their fines on condition they attend the school.

Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett was directed to set up the traffic school under the Police Department traffic inspector.

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the police traffic division, said the school would not be ready for operation before January 9. Work will begin immediately on the preparation of attendance slips, certificates and other necessary papers, he said.

Passing Grade of 70

Only District residents or persons employed here, referred by Traffic Court, the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operators Permits, or the permit examination section of the Department of Vehicles and Traffic, will be admitted to the school, the Commissioners ruled.

Classes will be held at Municipal Center in the Detective Bureau squad room, he announced. They will stress traffic rules and regulations and include a final written examination. Students will have to obtain a grade of 70 to pass. Results of the tests will be entered in the violator's traffic record.

Traffic Court judges will decide on the basis of the offense what fines will be wholly or partly remitted if the violotor goes to school.

Nathan M. Lubar, member of the Traffic Advisory Board's Enforcement Committee—which originally proposed the school—said similar schools had proved effective in 35 other cities, including Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Only 2 per cent of the "students" attended the schools more than once in those cities, he pointed out, indicating the traffic training courses were 98 per cent effective.

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp said, "We've seen an awful lot of accident reports down here, many of which indicate that lack of knowledge of regulations may be responsible. If the school can cut accidents, it will be a fine thing."

12 New Members Named to Fairfax GOP Committee

Fairfax Republicans, at this meeting at the county courthouse Monday night, named 12 new members to the county executive committee.

The party plan authorizes five members from each of the county's six magisterial districts. Before the Monday meeting, he committee consisted of six members, Alex Haight, A. K. Barta, Carl A. Marshall, George R. Bready, Walter Clem and Roy Hollis.

The newly named members are: Centerville, Elmer H. Krehbiel; Dranesville, B. W. Middleton, Charles A. Sager, Paul E. Rhinehart, jr.; Falls Church, J. F. Clem, Col. John M. Davies, Clark Crossman, Earl F. Seese; Mount Vernon, Carl W. Becker; Providence, Mont Smith, Noah L. Dove, Tyrell Krum, committee chairman.

Krum said another mass meeting will probably be held in January to complete the committee's membership.

Police Hero To Drive Car For Barrett

An acting police lieutenant will replace Pvt. Philip M. Shade as chauffeur and personal aide for Major Robert J. Barrett, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police.

Rouse

Barrett yesterday announced the appointment to new rank and duty of former Detective Sergeant Clyde O. Rouse, 46, of 1633 R st. se., replacing his present chauffeur-aide. Shade is being transferred to the property clerk's office.

Both Rouse and Shade are on restricted duty because of traffic accident injuries suffered in line of duty.

Lieut. Rouse was seriously hurt on November 1, 1946, attempting to arrest a suspected car thief. With his partner, the late Detective Harry E. Hamilton, he rode the runningboard of an automobile driven by Charles W. Scott, 24, in a mad dash down New York ave. ne. The auto crashed into a trailer truck, fatally injuring Hamilton and Scott.

Rouse, long hospitalized, returned to light duty last month in the office of Lieut. Thomas L. Sullivan, who is in charge of precinct detectives.

Shade, who suffered an injured leg in a traffic mishap three years ago, will continue to receive his present salary of $3,398.11.

Major Barrett said yesterday that Rouse's promotion, which maintains his present salary of $4,210.70 a year, was made to permit his wearing a uniform in service on the major's staff. Detective sergeants are not uniformed personnel.

"Rouse has done a very good job and that's why I want him in my office," said Barrett.

Freight 'Sits' on Auto, Two Escape Unhurt

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—A Baltimore and Ohio freight train literally sat down on an automobile tonight, demolishing it, but two men escaped unhurt.

Arch Holley, 31, freed himself from his automobile after the four-car train backed into it at a crossing, but crew members had to help release Pearl Romine, 47.

The train came to a stop with the automobile upside down, and one freight car astride it but still on the tracks.

Phone Levy Hit at C. & P. Rate Hearing

1½% Charge Made For Services Not Rendered, District Counsel Contends

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. charges for services to Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., which it owns, were challenged yesterday in a hearing on a C. & P. rate boost.

In the morning session of an all-day hearing before the District Public Utilities Commission, an A. T. & T. official testified that the services for which C. & P. was billed $422,274 for the 12 months ended June 30, cost $456,381 to produce.

This contention was questioned by Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Lloyd Harrison, who declared that several of the items listed did not apply to the local utility.

The A. T. & T. official, Harry C. Gretz, assistant comptroller, said his organization billed each of its 22 licensee firms at the rate of 1½ per cent of gross receipts annually for such services as research, handling securities, personnel advice, advertising and legal aid.

Called More Efficient

He declared this arrangement centralizing experts, funds and facilities in these matters for use by subordinate firms, such as C. & P., is more efficient and economical than for each firm to set up similar departments and duplicate operations.

To prove that the 1½ per cent rate was not exhorbitant, Gretz said he had made a detailed study of the services supplied to the local firm allocating a portion of the total amount spent by A. T. & T. according to the probable use made by C. & P.

This study prepared by Gretz indicated that his firm made almost 3 per cent on the services before Federal income taxes, but lost .16 per cent after taxes were deducted. Under questioning, Gretz said that since the income from licenses was "only a small part of A. T. & T. income," revenue from other sources, such as securities, made up the shortage.

Harrison challenged the study supporting the service bill to C. & P., charging that many services listed were not actually drawn upon.

1½% Not Related to Cost

He first concentrated on the 1½ per cent figure, evoking admissions from Gretz that it was not related to the cost or value of rendering the service, but was a figure set by agreement between the firms as a convenient way of determining cost of service.

Harrison in his cross-examination made the point that an increase in C. & P. rates would bring additional profit to A. T. & T. since more income would mean a larger amount would be paid to the latter under the 1½-per-cent clause.

In analyzing Gretz's study, Harrison pointed out that although C. & P. was credited with $112,532 of the Bell Telephone Laboratories operation costs, the local firm did not necessarily profit from such outlay unless it chose to accept developments prepared there.

He challenged a $26,647 item for servicing securities, charging that the local firm often goes from year to year without issuing any stock. Gretz replied that the servicing of A. T. & T. securities, from which cash is derived for a central loan fund available to licensees, was legitimately an expense for C. & P. since it furnished the funds for C. & P. construction and expansion.

$2,018,000 Boost Sought

Harrison also questioned the apportioning of funds for various New York State and city taxes to C.&P. Gretz declared that the taxes were essential to the operation of A.T.&T. and therefore the local firm should absorb some part of them.

The vice president and general manager of C. & P., J. B. Morrison, testified briefly in the afternoon. He said the firm was asking a minimum jump of $2,018,000 in rates in order to expedite the case and that it was not the firm's "present intention to come back and ask for more money."

He said, "we'll do everything we can to make this fit the bill."

The firm's general commercial manager, John M. Howard, submitted a tab lecomparing present and proposed rates. The basic single party line will jump from $4.20 to $4.75 and the two-party unlimited line from $3 to $4, under the proposed schedule.

Roscoe F. Walter, a Rockville attorney, asked to oppose the increase, but the PUC denied his request on the grounds that he had not proven a substantial interest in the rate change.

Another potential witness, Mrs. Rae Ginsburg of 2413 14th st. ne. also was not called. She left a statement with the press on behalf of the Consumer Committee of the Women's Auxiality of the United Public Workers of America, CIO, opposing the rate hike.

The case will be continued today at 10 a. m. in Room 203, District Building.

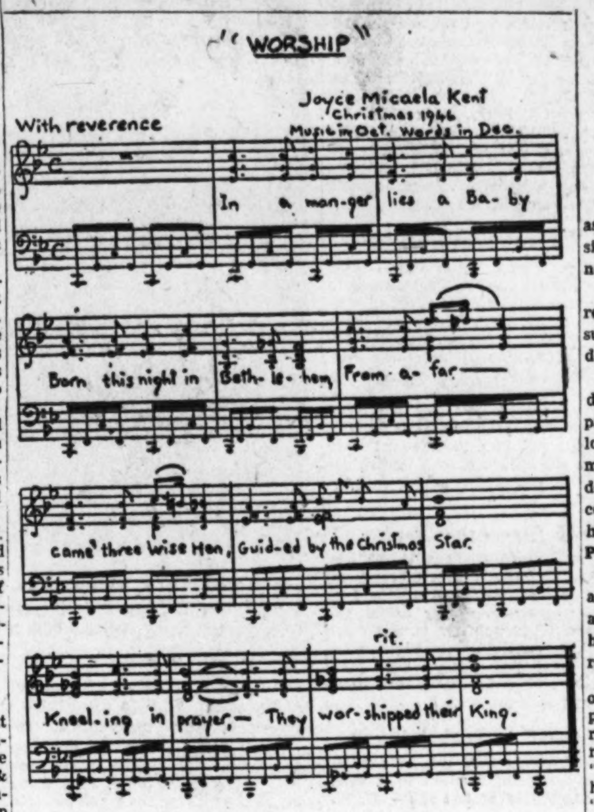
CTC Expects to Request Transit Fare Hike Soon



WORK OF BETHESDA GIRL—Joyce M. Kent's Christmas carol, which will be published in a nationally known magazine and sung over the air

Official Says Firm Now Trying Ways to Effect Cheaper Operations,

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Capital Transit Co. expects to ask the Public Utilities Commission for a fare increase within the near future.

Transit officials say they have reached this conclusion as the result of rising costs of operation and declining passenger revenues.

E. C. Giddings, CTC vice president, said yesterday that company officials estimate they are losing $5000 a day at present. A major factor is that out of every dollar of revenue received by the company, 65 cents goes for wages, he said.

Peak Points Checked

Even before the recent award by an arbitration board of a 15 cents an hour increase to workers, CTC had taken steps to boost flagging revenues.

A staff engineer and a field staff of 50 men have been checking the peak points on streetcar and bus routes, to find out whether these routes are giving a better than "fair standard of service." CTC has tried, wherever possible, to "cut off the fat" in this operation, Giddings said.

This has meant that if, during a given 15-minute "block" period, five buses on a single route are scheduled, and the traffic checkers find that passengers are not utilizing the service in sufficient quantities to justify five buses, one will be removed, and its operator placed elsewhere.

Some Already Changed

Most of this "cutting off the fat" has come on routes in off-peak hours. Already, new schedules have gone into effect for the Sousa Bridge route serving south Washington, the Cabin John, U Street and Tenleytown routes. Giddings predicts that within the next six months, service on every transit route in the city will be changed, either decreased, if transportation is not being fully used, or increased where there is added population pressure and public transportation use.

Giddings estimates that there has been a 10 per cent decline in passenger use of local transportation facilities during the past year.

Another factor in the transportation picture is that CTC is now 100 men shy of the number it needs for operation on a five-day week, as ordered by the arbitration board award. This means that although at the present time, CTC has been able to institute a schedule of one five-day week out of each four worked, it still is paying substantial sums in overtime pay to its men.

With reduction of schedules to a "fair standard of service" as prescribed by PUC standards, Capital Transit Co. hopes gradually to be able to reduce its men to a 40-hour week on an efficient work basis, without reduction in staff, but with better use of personnel.

Surplus Declines

Although 320,191,916 passengers used the facilities during the first 10 months of this year, compared with 343,202,700 during the same period of 1946, car miles traveled increased 0.7 per cent, and bus miles, 3.2 per cent, Giddings pointed out.

At the end of 1945, Capital Transit showed an earned surplus of $6,249,650.41, but by the end of last year, this had been cut to $4,309,384.99. Latest arbitration board award, which is retroactive to July 1, is estimated to cost $2,500,000 a year, and $700,000 in back pay alone, Giddings said.

Within the next two or three months, Giddings said yesterday, Capital Transit will know what its own "picture" is, and then will request the rate adjustment of the local Public Utilities Commission.

Bethesda Girl Wins Honors With Carol

One of the proudest girls in Greater Washington yesterday was 12-year-old Joyce M. Kent, 301 Cumberland dr., Bethesda, who learned a Christmas carol she wrote will be published by Collier's magazine and broadcast by Fred Waring.

Collier's will publish the song in its December 27 issue, she was informed, and Fred Waring will play it on his program December 17.

Joyce, a seventh grade pupil at Sidwell Friends School, 3901 Wisconsin ave., said she composed the and the words last December 24 music when she was 10 years old when she was 11.

The same day she composed the words, she was offered the chance to sing her carol over Station WOL. She did and thinks that is how it came to national attention.

The lone verse (Joyce said she could have composed more verses "if I had known it would be so popular") goes like this:

In a manger lies a ba-by,
Born this night in Beth-le-hem,
From a-far came three wise men,
Guided by the Christmas Star,
Kneeling in prayer, they worshipped their king.

The Christmas compositions of four other children over the country will be published and played along with Joyce's song entitled "Worship."

Joyce plays the harp, the ukulele and the piano, and dances. Asked about she would like to do when she grows up, Joyce replied: "Well, I could be a composer, or a doctor, or a dancer or a photographer. But my favorite is dancing.'

She is th edaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton E. Kent. Her father is export manager for a national business machine firm.

Wife Charges Husband Had Her Confined

A Washington woman yesterday told District Court that her husband, a former Army major, once had her forcibly committed to the psycopathic ward at Gallinger Hospital. She was found to be sane and released 12 days later, she said.

The charges were made by Mrs. Kathryn Jillson, comely 37-year-old brunette, during a hearing on her complaint for divorce from George Jacob Jillson, 39, on grounds of cruelty.

At the same time Mrs. Jillson denied charges by her husband in a cross-complaint that she had been intimate with a naval officer who occupied an apartment in the same building at 1841 R st. nw.

"Have you ever committed adultery with Lieut. Comdr. George Cantzlaar?" Attorney Jean Boardman asked.

"No," replied Mrs. Jillson replied emphatically.

The witness testified that her husband often had threatened her with arrest or commitment to a mental institution.

Finally, she said, on January 20, 1945, after a consultation with a doctor at their apartment, Jillson called police to have her removed to Gallinger.

She said the police entered without a warrant and when she protested, she asserted she was forcibly hauled into a car and taken to the hospital. En route, she charged, one of the officers struck her in the neck rendering her momentarily unconscious.

She declared that at a sanity hearing held after she had spent 12 days in the hospital, she was found to be sane.

Mrs. Jillson told the court that once when she questioned her husband about a girl whom she said had been staying with him for four days and nights, he told her the young women had merely stopped in while her coat was at the drycleaners. This was during a period of separation.

In addition to a divorce, Mrs. Jillson is seeking custody of a son, 4, and a year-old-daughter.

Rollers on Stroll for Shots as Chumps Clutter Yule Crowds

By John London
Post Reporter

Word is looping through the pads in town that the heat is really on.

The rollers are on the stroll right out there with the blocks and dips.

So the shots are getting ice in their boots.

Translated for chumps, that means the robbery squad (the rollers) down at headquarters has launched a delousing campaign to jug the shots—pickpockets—before they sting you and me in the Christmas rush.

Seven Already Bagged

Two con dicks, Detective Sergts. George Cooper and Otto Fuss, already have bagged seven pickpockets.

Such experts make a take of $300 to $500 a week, police figure, operating as sketched below.

Before blasting a new town, a shot sounds out the score at a known pad, or hangout. Fellow griffs (thieves) hip him as to who the con dicks are, whether they are really out on the stroll.

Casing a tip, or locality, the shot angles for crowds and, naturally, easy scratch.

Two Operating Procedures

When operating in pairs, the block man jostles the victim—usually respectfully requesting the chump to stop crowding him—while the wire or dip who does the actual lifting snares the poke, wallet or purse, after fanning the chump's pockets.

But a good solo wire knows where the poke is. He operates near a cashier's office, a Peoria (post office) or damper (bank), watching the potential victim stash his scratch.

And he knows important pay days like a railroad man knows schedules.

Solo wires need only shade—which may be coat, box or newspaper, to cover the right hand pressed against the chump while the left hand deftly reports for work.

Some shots specialize, either working solely from the hip or exclusively working to beat the babes.

But all shots get the biggest bang from working over a bull in harness—within sight of a cop who can't make them—or, in other words, get a line on them.

Women in the Business

Women in the business are not uncommon, but usually double as prostitutes in Washington.

A woman block—bumping a citizen while pretending to stoop in a streetcar to see a street sign—is a good gimmick.

Among the more common variations on the usual dodge are the spitters, who profusely apologize for bad spitting aim. They score while brushing off your clothes.

Hello Mabel artists, who bump a victim in a crowd while helloing, waving and conversing with an imaginary, long lost friend at the far end of the crowd.

Grand shake down wires, who are most effective at fairs. A "fool" lanes (plots) the play, pumping a country bumpkin's hand while reminiscing about Aunt Hepzibah. Meanwhile the wire makes his sting.

But the wire a cop almost never makes is the operator who works in tails, often paired off with a grooved-up moll, at fancy functions. Victims are important persons shy of police investigation at the cost of publicity.

All of which may help some loaded chump forestall a shot.

But after years of warning the public, most con cops will say with Detective Sergt. Reuben R. Nichols, an ace roach in the larceny by trick field:

"You can hip him all day, but you can't protect a chump and his money. But we sure try."

Area News in Brief

D. C. Acts to Lessen Rail Yard Smoke

Railroads and the Washington Terminal Co. will be prosecuted for smoke law violations here beginning January 1, the Commissioners decided yesterday.

Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young said the new policy was adopted by the Commissioners at his request.

Citizens of northeast Washington charged at a public hearing October 24 that smoke-law violations by railroads and the Washington Terminal Co. were causing a nuisance in their area.

Young said the present nonprosecution policy was adopted by the Commissioners during the war when the railroads were "up against it."

A survey made shortly after the October 24 hearing showed only four violations in 354 observations of trains moving or standing on tracks or at the Washington Terminal Co. warehouse, Young said. He said this represented "a great improvement" over a similar survey made about six weeks before the hearing, when violations were found in 7 to 8 per cent of the observations.

To Aid X-Ray Survey

The District Graduate Nurses' Association yesterday pledged all-out support for the Washington X-ray survey to be launched January 12, Miss Marie Wallace, president, announced yesterday.

The group will ask each of its 2000 members to volunteer services to supplement the work of Health Department and other nurses in making the District-wide chest survey.

Held in Knifepoint Holdup

Walter C. Rugin, 31, no fixed address, was held for the grand jury yesterday in Alexandria Police Court on a charge of armed robbery after, police said, he admitted theft of a taxi and $2 at point of a knife.

Alexandria police arrested Rugin yesterday at 1 a. m., 10 minutes after Washington Cab Driver Raymond P. White reported theft of his cab on Windsor ave. in Alexandria.

Waitresses Admit Charge

Juvenile Judge Fay Bentley yesterday set December 16 as date for sentencing of two waitresses who entered a no contest plea on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The women, Nellie G. Smith, 34, and Mae Rosebud Martin, 46, both of 606 Fifth st. nw., were arrested November 20 by the Metropolitan Police Juvenile Squad. According to police, the two women were using a 12-year-old boy to solicit prostitution.

The women face a maximum penalty of one year in jail or $200 fine or both.

Sanitation Branch in N.E.

The Northeast Branch of the Bureau of Public Health Engineering has been opened at the Brookland School at 10th and Monroe sts. ne., William H. Cary, jr., director, announced yesterday.

The office will investigate sanitation problems, prevention of nuisances, pest and rodent control and make routine inspections of structures in the area. Ralph B. O'Brien is supervisor, and will be aided by five inspectors.

Autoist Appeals to Thieves

Lewis Frazer of 4102 S. 32d st., Fairlington, Va., swears his car is the only one of its kind in the country and he can't understand how thieves, who took it from in front of his home Sunday night, have got away so successfully. . . .

A 1941 Dodge, the body is light gunmetal gray, the hood, front fenders and left rear fender dark gunmetal. There is no chrome and "odd-looking" horns replace the removed grills, he explained. Despite its peculiarities, Frazer would like it back.

Took Car for Police Ball

James R. Miley, 21, S. 3655 Four Mile Run dr., Arlington, was held for the grand jury yesterday in Alexandria police court, charged with stealing a car that Miley claimed he had borrowed to attend the Arlington policemen's ball.

Miley was picked up Monday night at the corner of Prince and Fairfax sts., driving a car reported stolen earlier in the evening by Kenton E. Price, 1412 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge, saying he borrowed the car from a third party so he could go to the annual dance of the Alexandria police held at the Nightingale Club on Route 1.

Basin Group to Meet

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin will hold its regular quarterly meeting tomorrow and Friday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Scrolls will be presented to past chairmen of the commission at a ceremony tomorrow at 11 a. m., following an executive session. The group will inspect the District sewage treatment plant at Blue Plains in the afternoon, and will have a dinner meeting at 7 p. m.

Heads USO-YWCA Club

..Miss Vera Periman, director of the USO club in Lawton, Okla., since 1943, was apointed director of the Bethesda USO-YWCA club at Wisconsin ave. yesterday. ....

The club, now operated jointly by the two organizations, will be taken over completely by the YWCA on December 31, Mrs. William Spencer Bowen, chairman of the YWCA's USO division, said.

Old Dominion Ball

The Society of Virginia of the District of Columbia will open its 1947-1948 season with "The Old Dominion Ball" at 10 p. m. tomorrow at the Shoreham Hotel.

Justice Robert H. Jackson will speak briefly and present the following Virginians with the society's certificates of distinction": Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner, Stephen T. Early, Sidney F. Taliaferro, William C. Hull, Col. Christopher B. Garnett, I. Chance Buchanan, H. Graham Morison, Thomas S. Settle, Robert N. Anderson, and Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr.

G. U. School in Hospital

Georgetown University Graduate School held its first classes in its new quarters last night at 35th and N sts. nw. Ending a "share the classroom existence," 465 students of the school moved into first-floor rooms in the former Georgetown Hospital Building.

The school now has six large classrooms, four seminar rooms, a lounge each for the student body and the faculty, and individual faculty rooms for private conferences.

Hack Inspector Clerk

Pvt. Francis C. Fenwick, 30, has taken over the duties of clerk in the hack inspector's office, the first Negro policeman ever to be assigned to duty in that office. Fenwick is on light duty because he was shot three times last May while trying to arrest two suspected auto looters.

$14,105 in Seal Drive

Arlington's 1947 sale of Christmas seals had brought in a total of $14,105 as of last night, R. W. Baker, campaign chairman, announced. The Arlington drive quota is $35,700.

Work of the seal campaign committee and of the Arlington Tuberculosis Association yesterday received praise from Dr. R. G. Beachley, county health officer.

Hyattsville Fire Chief

William D. Anderson, 29, Hyattsville city employe, has been elected chief of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department, it was announced yesterday. Anderson has been a member of the department 11 years and is one of the youngest chiefs in the county. He succeeds Chief John L. Sullivan, who has served two years.

Judge John J. Fainter, who has been a volunteer fireman for half a century and for half of that time treasurer of the department, was reelected treasurer.

Others elected were: Assistant chief, Frank DiVincenzo; captain, Charles DiVincenzo; lieutenant, Benjamin F. Sanders; superintendent of machinery, Lawrence Watson, sr.; fire marshal, Earle S. Darrelle and secretary, Joseph Quinn.

Bid Consumers Write

Members of the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection today will launch a drive, asking greater Washington citizens to send postcards to Congressmen, urging action on price control with roll-back of prices and some rationing.

Mrs. Sarah Newman, president of WCCP, said about 350 volunteers from affiliates also have pledged their efforts in asking 25 friends or neighbors to send postcards.

A photograph-finishing company was fined $125 in Municipal Court yesterday on five charges of violating the female eight-hour-day law and one violation of the miniimum wage law.

Martin Schulman, assistant treasurer of Hicks' Photo-Finishers, Inc., 1420 Wisconsin ave. nw., pleaded guilty before Judge Aubrey Fennell to working women over eight hours a day and keeping inadequate time records.

Assistant Corporation Counsel R. C. Chalfonte recommended the fine. He told the court the company had no previous record of violations.

Postoffice Extends Hours

The Silver Spring postoffice, beginning Friday and continuing through December 23, will be open for parcel post and stamp sales from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on weekdays.

Register, bond and money order windows, Postmaster William Bowman said yesterday, will give regular service from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. on weekdays.

On Sundays, December 14 and 21, he added, the postoffice will be open from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. for parcel post and stamp sales to cope with the Christmas rush.

Daylight Saving Campaigners Off To Early Start

The Junior Board of Commerce has begun an early campaign to convince Congress that Washington ought to have daylight saving time in 1948 and every summer thereafter.

Letters have been sent to about 100 civic organizations in an effort to collect pro-daylight saving resolutions for presentation to Congress.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., Md.) has indicated he will push legislation in January making daylight time for the District a permanent thing. This year, daylight saving time was put into effect by an act enabling the Commissioners to do so after public hearings.

The junior board's daylight saving time committee already had received favorable reply from the Professional Women's Club of the District, which voted its support at a meeting Monday night.

Virginia Holstein Sets Record for Living Milk Producers; Gives More Than 16 Tons in 3-a-Day Milkings in Year

The Washington Post

CHAMPION MILK PRODUCER—Charles R. Hope (right) of Purcellville, Va., shows off his prize cow, Pinelee Posch Millie Girl, greatest living Holstein milk producer in the United States. "Millie's" nearly 33,000-pound milk output would be more than 16 tons of milk in the last year

By Donald Olesen
Post Reporter

A 7-year-old Virginia Holstein cow yesterday broke the record for the greatest living Holstein milk producer in the United States, milked three times daily, with a 365-day total of 32,764.6 pounds.

The cow, Pinelee Posch Millie Girl, is owned by Charles R. Hope and his son, Ronald A. Hope, on their dairy farm near Purcellville, Va.

More than 60 dairymen from all parts of Virginia were on hand at the Hope farm yesterday to see two other records topped: the Southern States Holstein record for milk and butterfat production, and the second highest all-time Holstein milk total, milked three times daily.

The all-time national Holstein milk-porducing record of 34,000 pounds still stands, but "Millie" did nose out the second all-time high total of 32,191 pounds.

With a butterfat production of 114.3 pounds, she easily bested, the previous high of 1087 pounds for the Southern States area (south of the Potomac River.)

"Millie's" nearly 33,000-pound milk output woul dtranslate into more than 16 tons of milk in the last year.

The cow, who weighs 1607 pounds, was sired by Fultona Sir Posch Creator. Her dam Applegrove Butter Grove Millie. She is one of 39 cows, mostly Holsteins, owned by the Hope Dairy Farm.

Following her third milking last night, "Millie" became one of the four Holstein cows in the United States in all time to produce more than 32,000 pounds on three milkings daily.

Charles R. Hope said she hit her high-point in daily milk production last January 16, when she turned out 128.4 pounds of milk within 24 hours.

Board Studies Ontario Road Liquor Permit

The application of Mensh's Super Market, 2324 Ontario rd. nw., for a retailer's class B liquor license was taken under advisement by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday.

The application, filed jointly by Louis Mensh, 69, and his two sons, Marcus, 41, and Simon, 39, was protested by the Meridian Hill Civic Association and the Meridian Hill Baptist Church. A decision is expected late today or sometime tomorrow, the ABC office said yesterday.

Rogers E. Lacy

Longview, Tex., Dec. 9 (U.P.).—Rogers E. Lacy, 63, who built a fabulous fortune in East Texas oil, oil, died late today of a heart attack.

He was one of the richest men in Texas. In a recent affidavit Lacy stated he had earned in excess of one million dollars per year the past four years.

In 1930, he owned 26 acres of Gregg County "sweet potato" land which he offered for sale at $300.

Nobody would buy the land. He sought then to borrow the $300, offering the land as collateral. His loan request was refused.

A year later came the oil that changed East Texas overnight. Lacy got his first well on the sweet potato farm.

Isadore Hellman

Isadore Hellman, 58-year-old clothing merchant of 1263 Van Buren st. nw., died at Garfield Hospital at 1:15 p. m. yesterday following a one-month illness. He was hospitalized Friday.

Funeral services will be held at the Danzansky funeral home at 2 p. m. today and burial will be in the Workmen's Circle Cemetery at Benning.

Mr. Hellman had lived in Washington 15 years.

He is survived by his wife, Eva, two sons, Charles Louis Hellman of Takoma Park, Md., and Eugene Joseph of 1215 Missouri ave. nw.; a daughter, Mrs. Morris Kravitz, 100 M st. se.; six grandchildren and a brother of Chicago.

750 Will Sing Christmas Carols At Cathedral

A 750-voice chorus will participate in a Christmas carol service tomorrow at 2:45 p. m. at the Washington Cathedral.

The singers will include pupils of the National Cathedral School for Girls, St. Albans School for Boys, and members of the Cathedral Boys' Choir.

Nancy Peebles, of the girls' school, will recite the opening prayers; Richard Alfred Norris, jr., of St. Albans, will read the Christmas story from St. Luke's Gospel, and the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of the Washington Episcopal Diocese, will give the benediction.

The service—to be broadcast over WINX—at 3 p. m. has been arranged by Paul Callaway, cathedral organist-choirmaster; Justin Williams, music director at the girls' school, and Dexter Davison, music master at St. Albans.

PUC Allows Pepco to End Refund Fund

Potomac Electric Power Co. may discontinue putting aside money earmarked for eventual refund to consumers, the Public Utilities Commission ruled yesterday.

The PUC decision, effective October 1, will enable the company to withdraw from the reserve fund approximately $190,000 set aside for consumer refunds during October and November, PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan revealed.

But PUC denied Pepco's request to use as regular income $673,178 put in the refund reserve between March 1 and September 30.

Granting permission to release funds set aside prior to Pepco's application for use of the reserve would "be a retroactive adjustment of rates, and contrary to the intent of the sliding scale arrangement," PUC ruled.

Need Found For Adjustment

Pepco filed its petition for relief on October 17. Hence, PUC ruled, money deposited in the refund reserve prior to September 30 coul dnot be used by the company.

PUC said testimony at public hearings in November "indicates that the company's earnings at their present level necessitate an adjustment of the rate schedules."

Pepco officials urged at the hearings that if they could treat the reserve fund as revenue, they would not need to ask for a rate increase early next year to cover rising costs.

PUC's order said "the commission alos feels that further rate adjustments can be avoided by permitting the company to retain as earnings, commencing October 1, 1947, the full amount billed to its customers."

Sliding-Scale Order Due

Final disposition of the $673,178 already in the refund reserve will be outlined in a forthcoming order relating to modification of Pepco's "sliding scale" rate-setting machinery, Chairman Flanagan said.

PUC now is considering a "midified sliding-scale plan" proposed by V. A. McElfresh, PUC executive accountant and auditor, to end the need of periodic changes in Pepco rates.

McElfresh proposed a reserve fund from which consumers would get refunds from excess company profits, or the company could draw funds to cover deficits. He would set up the new reserve with the $673,178 now in the present refund reserve and approximatly $312,230 excess Pepco earnings for 1945 and 1946.

Flanagan declined to estimate when PUC would issue its order covering the sliding-scale modifications, but said he hoped it would be "soon."

Attorney Reelected Luray Fire President

Luray, Va., Dec. 9.—J. Everett Will, attorney, has been named president of the Luray Fire Department for the fifth consecutive year.

Division at Annapolis Navy Reserve Recruits

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—Lieut. Comdr. L. F. Welanetz, chairman of the Navy's organized reserve committee for Annapolis, disclosed today a reserve division would be set up as soon as 110 more men were recruited. Lieut. F. R. Gessner is interviewing recruits at the Capital-Gazette offices.

W. Va. Miner Reprieved Again On Execution Eve

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—Mark McCauley, 36-year-old Davis, W. Va., strip miner scheduled to be hanged tomorrow night for the slaying of a State Police sergeant, received his second reprieve today.

Gov. Clarence Meadows said examinations made at his request by two psychiatrists indicate the convicted slayer has undergone a "marked mental and physical change" since being confined in the State prison at Moundsville and "there is a grave question whether he has any sense of reason at all."

One of the greatest manhunts ever organized in West Virginia hunted McCauley down in September of 1946 when he escaped into the rugged hills along the Potomac River between West Virginia and Maryland after slaying Sergt. Joseph P. Horne and Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter. They had him arrested for stealing a truck.

4 Va. Counties To Map Planning Commission Law

Representatives from Alexandria and Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William Counties will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in Alexandria to draft an ordinance creating a regional planning commission for northern Virginia.

The ordinance will then be submitted for final approval to governing bodies of all participating communities. The four communities already have given tentative approval to the regional commission by appointing members to tonight's meeting.

The suggestion to create such a body was made by Raymond V. Long, director of the Virginia State Planning Board, last month in Alexandria at a meeting of planning officials. The meeting will be held in the George Mason Hotel.

Mike Marcus Moss

San Francisco, Dec. 9 (AP).—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Mike Marcus Moss, fabulous Louisiana figure and one-time associate of the late Gov. Huey P. Long.

Moss, who declared he gave Long his start, died last night in hotel. For the last four years, he has been working as a cook.

Frank W. Hill, Of Early Md. Family, Dies

Frank W. Hill, 81, a member of one of Southern Maryland's oldest families, and owner of the Bleak Hill estate near Upper Marlboro, died early yesterday at his Washington residence, 2029 Hillyer pl. nw.

Mr. Hill, who had inherited Bleak Hill, a 400-acre tract on the Patuxent River, from an ancester, Clement Hill, had spent the past 20 years living in the District and managing the estate through frequent trips to Upper Marlboro.

Clement Hill came to Maryland with Lord Baltimore, founder of the Maryland colony. He was granted a 2000-acre plantation by the British Crown and later built the manor which stands today.

Mr. Hill was educated in local Upper Marlboro schools and was graduated from Georgetown University.

Requiem mass will be sung at 11 a. m. tomorrow at St. Matthew's Cathedral. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery, Upper Marlboro.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Clagett Hill, of the Hillyer pl. address, a son, Francis W. Hill, jr., of 401 Highland dr., Kenwood, Md., three daughters, Miss Christabel E. Hill and Mrs. Henrietta Hill Arthur, both of the Hillyer pl. address, and Mrs. Mary Hill Roberts, of Landover, Md., and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Harris Rites Today In Orangeburg

Funeral services for Mrs. Ned Brunson Harris, the first woman ever to head a metropolitan news bureau here and former assistant treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, will be held today in Orangeburg, S. C.

Mrs. Harris died Monday in a Charlotte (N. C.) hospital after a long illness. Services will be at the home of a brother, W. W. Brunson, with burial also in Orangeburg, her birthplace.

A versatile woman of whom it was frequently said that "she thinks like a man," Mrs. Harris held a variety of important positions in more than a quarter-century in Washington.

After nine years in a Chattanooga, Tenn., law office, she came to Washington in 1918 to work in the office of Senator Kenneth McKellar. She was the first woman to be named assistant treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, serving from 1920 to 1925 under the chairmanship of Cordell Hull. Then until 1939, she was a news correspondent here, putting to good use her wide familiarity with national politics. She headed the Washington bureau of the Minneapolis Star and later the Minneapolis Journal. Active in both the Woman's National Press Club and the American Newspaper Women's Club, she was vice president of the former and president of the latter.

A broken leg suffered on a streetcar in 1939 forced Mrs. Harris into temporary retirement. She later joined the District OPA as public information director, conducting a vigorous program through the press and radio.

She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Richard Fulp, Charlotte, and Mrs. B. S. Gerety, San Antonio, Tex., and another brother, H. H. Brunson, Mayseville, S. C.

Cardinal Petit

Rouen, France, (Wednesday), Dec. 10 (U.P.).—Pierre Cardinal Petit of Juleville, Archbishop of Rouen and Primate of Norway, died today after several days' illness.

Harvey H. Ball

Leesburg, Va., Dec. 9.—Harvey H. Ball, 63, owner of the Goose Creek Tavern near here, died this morning at the Loudoun County Hospital after a two weeks' illness.

He was born in Junlea, W. Va., the son of the late William E. and Mary Ball. As a young boy he moved to Ashburn, not far from Leesburg, with his parents. He had lived in the vicinity for 40 years, and in recent years had resided at the tavern.

Mr. Ball lived in South America for five years, and in Africa for two years, where he was employed by an oil well drilling company. Thirteen years ago he entered a partnership in buying the Goose Creek Tavern, midway between Leesburg and Ashburn, and three years ago he became the sole owner.

He was a member of the Ashburn Masonic Lodge and the Leesburg Rotary Club.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Thursday at the Colonial Funeral Home, Leesburg, and will be conducted by the Rev. G. Peyton Craighill, pastor of the Christ Episcopal Church, Millwood. Burial will be in the Leesburg Union Cemetery.

Mr. Ball is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Green Ball, two sisters, Miss Roberta Ball, Washington, and Mrs. R. H. Hickman, Harrisburg, Pa., and a brother, Edward Ball of Kentucky.

Henry Clay Penn

Orange, Va., Dec. 9.—Henry Clay Penn, 68, guard at the State penitentiary at Richmond for 33 years prior to his retirement last July, died yesterday at his home at Oak Park.

A native of Bedford County, Va., he was the son of the late Paul Silas Penn and Hanna Rachel Penn.

Masonic funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Nebo Lutheran Church, Rochelle, Va. The Linbanks Masonic Lodge, Madison, Va., of which he was a member, will conduct the services. Burial will be in the Nebo Lutheran Church Cemetery.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Weaver Penn, a son, Henry Clay Penn, jr., both of Oak Park, and a brother, John T. Penn of Big Island, Va.

Annapolis Drama

Curing the hiccoughs, Noel Coward style, is illustrated above by Mrs. Leonard A. Franz and Lieut. Charles V. Gardiner rehearsing their roles for the Coward comedy, "Hay Fever," to be given tonight and tomorrow night at the U. S. Naval Academy auditorium in Annapolis. The Drama Group of the Academy Women's Club will give the play

It looks as if she means it when Mrs. William C. Bryan orders Comdr. William J. Giles, jr., to "let go of my hand." It's part of the act they will play in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" tonight and tomorrow night at the U. S. Naval Academy. The Drama Gorup of the Academy Women's Club, sponsoring the play, will use proceeds to aid the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund

Army 'Briefs' Women Leaders

Representatives of more than 30 national women's organizations yesterday attended an all-day "briefing" by high-ranking Army officers on the national security program based on the report of the President's Advisory Commission.

The women represented the Advisory Council to the Women's Interests Unit of the Army Department's public information division. Meeting in the Pentagon, they heard an informal, off-the-record talk by the Secretary of the Army, Kenneth C. Royall, and were addressed by Lieut. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Deputy Chief of Staff; Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, Army chief of information; Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper, jr.; Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, Army surgeon general; Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general, Army Ground Forces; Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau, and Col. Mary A. Hallaren, director of the Women's Army Corps.

Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, chief of the public information division, presided and spoke at the luncheon held in the generals' dining room. Miss Margaret Banister, chief of the Women's Interests Unit, presided at both sessions of the conference and led a seminar following the speaking program.

Triangle Play to Show Here

Princeton Day in Washington is to be Tuesday, December 23, when the Triangle Club with a cast of 60 arrives to stage its annual musical comedy at the Lisner Auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

"All Rights Reserved," the club's 1947 show, might well apply to the group, for from the time they arrive in the morning until all hours at night they are to be entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eden Norris are giving their traditional luncheon and cocktail party for the men in the cast, staff members and other local Princeton men. Next on the schedule is the stag dinner which the Princeton Club of Washington, Judge J. Edgar Murdock, president, is giving at the University Club.

Following the performance the comedians will attend the ball which Mr. and Mrs. William W. Rapley are giving at Sulgrave Club for their debutante daughter, Miss Mary S. Rapley. She is chairman of the debutante committee of the Princeton Triangle Club and has as her committee members a group of charmers, Miss Beatrice Blair, Miss Carol Bradley, Miss Jacqueline Bouvier, Miss Dudley Nicholson, Miss Nancy Burdick, Miss Laura Winslow, Miss Louise Delano Houghteling, Miss Juliette Gill, Miss Gerry Wellborn and Miss Betsy Mary DeSibour.

Miss Ruff Engaged

Europe Needs Billions in Aid, Senator Hatch Tells Club Group

By Genevieve Reynolds

Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico declared yesterday that the United States must spend billions of dollars to give the strongest possible aid to Europe and to create a strong Voice of America program to counteract Communistic lies against this country.

Addressing an afternoon meeting of the Washington branch, Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace, he said, "Our voice is weakest in the countries where we receive the most abuse. Nowhere do we have adequate libraries, motion picture and broadcasting facilities."

The Senator went to Europe to investigate the Voice of America Program. "I wish I could tell you our voice was strong and vibrant—a John the Baptist crying in the Wilderness—but it is weak," he explained.

Pointing out that wherever he went—in Poland, Hungary, France and the Scandinavian countries he found that the foes of this country pounced on lynchings, Hollywood divorces and racial incidents played up by the free press in this country. "These incidents published by the American free press are seized upon, and held up as a true portrayal of life here." Then he quickly explained that he was in favor of a free press as we have in this country.

Sensational Stories Credited

To illustrate the situation of the Voice of America, he told about the questions a "bright, smart, intelligent newspaperwoman in one of the Scandinavian countries put to him and several of his colleagues." Here are samples, according to Senator Hatch:

Representative Mundt was asked: "Tell us about the rising anti-Jewish sentiment in the United States." When told there wasn't such a tide to his knowledge, the reporter became bored and walked away.

Next she approached Senator Barkley with "Why don't you let the Negroes vote in Kentucky? How many lynchings occur annually in your State?"

Senator Barkley's reply that Negroes are allowed to vote and that no lynchings had occurred in Kentucky during his nearly 70 years, the reporter again lost interest.

Describing conditions in the countries he visited he observed, "Poland, to my mind, is the most tragic of the European countries. I saw the worst devastation in Warsaw. Not only was there terrible destruction of buildings, but of human lives. Thousands and thousands of Poles were killed first by the Nazis and later by the Communists.

"When the Polish underground came up to fight the Germans," he continued, "a big Russian army sat across a narrow river and deliberately allowed 250,000 Poles to be massacred. The country now is completely dominated by the Soviet Union and freedom does not exist there today."

Praises Courage

In the Netherlands he discovered that the economics of the country are not good . . . that colonies once a source of revenue are now an expense . . . that the people live on a very meagre, austere, rationed diet but that they are very courageous.

Also paying high tribute to the British for their great courage, Senator Hatch said that when he was there the people no longer could have gasoline for any sort of pleasure driving.

He pointed out that Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia are not entirely but almost enclosed by the Iron Curtain. "I was told that 85 per cent of the people oppose the dictatorial, tyrannical police state in those countries" he said, "and I believe them. But they are helpless to throw off the yoke imposed by the police state minority."

Warning that Russia intended to control Europe if not the world with its totalitarian police state methods, Senator Hatch said that the Soviets could create anarchy and chaos in Europe if help is not given.

Mrs. Lillian Mowrer, chairman of the local WACLP, introduced the speaker and announced that the committee had decided to extend its membership drive to February. Then she outlined the purpose of the committee and related its role to support congressional legislation for peace through the United Nations.

Designer Arrives To Show Fashions

Laura Jean Allen, petite, brunette designer of teen-age fashions, arrived in Washington yesterday on a personal appearance tour which is taking her as far south as Atlanta, Ga.

An artist and illustrator, as well as a fashion designer, Miss Allen is widely known to the junior miss set for her sketches in Seventeen and other magazines. Her newest pace-setters are compacts called "Rex Teens," now on sale at Lansburgh's.

Smart Talk Gets Bandied At 'Sweethearts', the Hill And Down Mexico Way

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE OPENING of "Sweethearts" at the National Theater Monday night was dramatized with all the gratifying excitement of the Presidential presence. To add to the furor, General Eisenhower showed up, too. Long before curtain time police and Secret Service men lined the street. Ticket holders were halted, kept from entering the theater. A large crowd gathered in the lobby, overflowed onto the pavement. Among the involuntary standees was a handsome, lavishly dressed, foreign-looking woman. Behind her stood one of Washington's statelier dowagers. The foreign-looking lady became increasingly impatient. The dowager stood motionless, waiting for the President's arrival.

Finally, the f. l. burst out, "Why can't we get to our seats? I don't see why we should be kept waiting—after all, they're only people!"

The dowager could stand it no longer, her manners snapped under the strain, she faced around, "Would you rather it was Molotov?" she asked coldly and distinctly.

Mind Reading on the Hill

THESE DAYS it is fun listening in down on the Hill. To shopping-minded women, price-restriction testimony has almost the same fascination as listening to Benny Myers. The other day witnesses were talking glibly about minimizing the use of power unless voluntary measures broke down. Amateur listeners became increasingly confused as the testimony progressed. Finally Representative John Kunkel of Pennsylvania voiced their thoughts clearly as though he had been mind-reading: "I'm beginning to understand President Truman's anti-inflation program," he said. "He plans to control the price of everything the people buy—but nothing the people sell!"

John Kunkel

DELEGATES are trickling back from the UNESCO conference in Mexico City. It was a stimulating meeting, a get-together of 37 nations, talking almost simultaneously in three languages at an altitude of 7600 feet. Some real accomplishments were effected and some smart talk was bandied, especially between Britain's delegate-author J. B. Priestley and our former Assistant Secretary of State Bill Benton.

The best Priestley bon mot was, "The expert avoids all minor errors on the way to the grand fallacy." To which Benton replied, "Typical of Britain's attitude on experts!"

Priestley's schemes for getting us all together culturally include an International Ideas Bureau. Often nations fail to present facets of their culture in a favorable light—take much-abused Hollywood, for instance. The bureau would be headed by a high-powered, well-paid group whose business would be to translate various national cultural aspects understandably among the nations and, of course, in so doing promote UNESCO. Priestley's other idea is to establish a group of World Citizens' artists, outstanding personages of every category. Their appointment would be like an Order of Merit, a super-super National Academy such as France has. They would travel on international passports and only a dozen or so would be chosen from even the largest countries. On the lighter side, the delegates, once they had recovered from the strain of altitude, were agreeably entertained. High spots were a party given by Mexico's Polish Embassy for 300-pound-plus Diego Rivera and the marriage of Arthur A. Compton, the State Department's observer for UNESCO in Paris. Arthur, who's the son of Arthur H. Compton, president of St. Louis' Washington University, and the nephew of three college presidents, married Nathalie Felser, another UNESCOite. Coming back with the delegates was Manuel Vallarte, Mexico's atomic power expert who's in Washington to confer with our atom whiz, Vannevar Bush.

Mrs. McEnerney and Daughter, Mrs. Cusock, Entertain

A MOTHER-DAUGHTER party was given by Mrs. Charles H. McEnerney and Mrs. Alan P. Cusick 2d, yesterday at 1526 New Hampshire ave. Over 200 dropped by between 4 and 6 o'clock to greet Mrs. Cusick, who is home from Newport, R. I., on her annual visit with her parents.

Christmas decorations carried out in white and red featured a white Christmas tree trimmed with candy canes, and there was a welcoming fire in the fireplace. Mrs. McEnerney wore a black lace dress over white satin, and her daughter was costumed in a ballerina frock of iridescent taffeta.

Mr. McEnerney's mother, Mrs. Philip E. McEnerney, and Mrs. McEnerney's mother, Mrs. David K. Cushwa, were among those who took turns presiding at the tea table.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Man Tells Wife He Loves Another Woman, Then Asks Her to Be Philosophic and Stay Married For Children's Sake; She's Moody, Miserable

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Six months ago my husband informed me that he had fallen in love with another woman and no longer loved me. He said, however, that he wanted us to stay together for the sake of our two wonderful children.

I made up my mind at the time that I hadn't been all he expected of a wife and that I could regain his love by displaying affection always, by giving more thought to my appearance and taking my household chores more seriously.

He has been sorry about the situation and wonderful to me, all of which makes me love him so dearly that I can't stand it when he says the last six months haven't altered his feelings for the girl or me. He is 43, she is 28 and I am 36.

Wife Turns Faint At Sight of Rival

HE REALIZES that marriage to her is impossible, but he is really only happy when talking to her. I know that, and when I meet her on the street (which I try to avoid) my whole body turns faint.

Sometimes I think I should leave him for his own happiness, but he doesn't want the family broken up. He says we can live a normal life in these circumstances and I am trying to; but about once a week I am in a depressed mood when he gets home, which angers him.

I realize these horrible sieges of melancholy aren't helping my case, but I can't be out of the house when he gets in, as I have to feed the children at that hour. I want the children to be happy and feel secure in a normal household, but on days when these moods appear I can't do anything right.

If I keep on trying, do you think I can yet achieve a normal life with him, knowing he loves another woman? I suppose there are many other wives in the same boat, and I would like your opinion as to whether such a mess can turn out all right. Please answer soon. T. R.

Wife's Actions Belie Feelings

DEAR T. R.: Your husband is a spoiled darling who wants carte blanche to have his cake and eat it, too, with nobody registering pain at his selfishness. Doubtless you haven't been all that he expected of a wife, but certainly he's no paragon helpmeet either.

About your moods: You are developing a situational neurosis as a result of wrestling unsuccessfully to repress outraged resentment of his bald effrontery, while also trying to best his inamorata on the score of honeyed sex appeal: i. e., bait for the infantile male.

The truth is, he doesn't merit your anguished idolatry; and furthermore it isn't necessary to court his allegiance, such as it is, by straining to please him. In playing your outraged feelings false, you aren't reinforcing marriage ties one whit—although this has been your aim, of course.

Wife's Position Isn't Threatened

HE DOESN'T love the other woman. His emotions, being infantile, are geared to "wanting,"—the reverse of cherishing: which is bona fide love-in-action. He is infatuated with her, yes, as he once was with you; but psychologically he isn't "free" to discard you and make her his wife, because for a complexity of self-gratifying reasons he wants you too.

He hasn't the strength to give you up. You mean something to him: something as prosaic as bread or air or his right arm, perhaps; but at any rate, something he isn't prepared to live without. And that's why he prates of keeping the home together for the children's sake and insists that you should be able to go along "normally" in the triangle situation.

Thus in my opinion it doesn't make sense to wring your hands or break your heart over his defection, much less reel in fear of the other woman, who hasn't a chance of ousting you. If you tried to get rid of him, he would resist to the last ditch—so stop worrying about her or the state of his feelings.

Snub the bootless dalliance by refusing to discuss it. Keep him at arm's length with impeccable courtesy and poised aloofness for so long as he professes "no love" of you. Cultivate social attractiveness and vital personality by being a cordial friend, good neighbor and hostess, fine housekeeper and mother, actively interested in community life as time permits—and the crisis will fade, leaving you winner. M. H.

HAMS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Baked and Glazed

KING OF HAMS, now ready for your table! Scored and glazed with pineapple and brown sugar, fragrant of clove—juicy, tender, delicious. From a REAL Pennsylvania-Dutch farm comes the country-cured ham you dream about, specially cured with imported sherry, smoked over slow-burning hickory, then BAKED and GLAZED with a skill that delights the epicure. Heat before serving if you wish. But no cooking, please! Weighing 12 to 20 lbs., $1.50 lb.

BACON —CANADIAN STYLE

Your breakfast table asks nothing finer than this very lean fine-grained bacon cut from the loin, Canadian style. And that, you know, means plenty of meat, no waste. Dry-cured and hickory-smoked right on our farm. A superlative delicacy. The strip, 4 to 6 lbs., $1.50 lb.

SAUSAGE SMOKED HICKORY

And from the same farm kitchens; exceptional, all-pork sausage, firm and meaty, with real old-time country flavor. Hickory-smoked, of course. In 4-lb. packets at $3.80 each.

SMOKED TURKEY

Ready to serve, hot or cold. Plump young birds, cured by modern methods, then smoked to mouth-watering perfection in the filtered fragrance of hickory embers. Delighfully different, delicate flavor. Beneath the golden exterior, breast meat is PEARLY WHITE, dark meat DEEP PINK. Served at New York's Waldorf-Astoria, Washington's Statler, many other fine hotels and exclusive clubs. Weight 10 to 20 lbs., $1.50 lb.

Memory Lane Is Filled With Capital's Pictures

By Bessie Hackett

WASHINGTON is a fascinating "memory lane" for Mrs. Martha Ewing, who is revisiting the Capital for the first time in many years.

Most thrilling sight to her is the huge new neon sign on F st. reading "Harris & Ewing" and the chromium and plate glass windows of the photographic studio she helped found in that same location more than 40 years ago. For she remembers the shapeless piece of canvas on which was scrawled, early in 1905, "California Photographers—Will Open Here Soon."

"Washington was a darling little town in those days," Mrs. Ewing recalls tenderly. "A doctor's cottage with a white picket fence stood on the corner of F and 14th sts. Everyone was talking about the New Willard which had just opened . . . the colorful Theodore Roosevelt was President . . . and one met such lovely ladies strolling down F st. There was Martha Pearsall, known as the "heliotrope belle." . . the beautiful Mathilde Townsend, now Mrs. Sumned Wells . . . Alice Roosevelt and the Countess Cassini."

Tall, energetic, Mrs. Ewing, who has been living in California since 1915, is visiting her old partner, George W. Harris, and his daughters, Mrs. Tom Phillips, of Arlington, and Mrs. Joseph Jordan, who is here from Duluth with her littel son, Harris.

Although she calls California home, the former Martha Kunze was born in Yankton, S. Dak. The family moved several years later to Des Moines, Iowa, and it was while visiting a married sister in her home town that teen-age

Harris & Ewing

MRS. MARTHA EWING
. . . here from California

Martha met the photographer-husband of a friend.

"I guess he was the world's worst photographer," she admits. "But that place of his just fascinated me. He let me come and help with odd jobs around the studio.

Photography Fascinates

The Kunzes suffered reverses, moved to Los Angeles, and all the children had to go to work. Martha naturally gravitated toward the photograph studios which were just coming into their own. She did a little of everything . . . tinting. . . finishing . . . making appointments . . . all for the munificent sum of $8 a week. And she met and married Chesney Ewing, a talented watercolor artist, who died a few years later.

While employed by the Bushnell Studios, she worked as a team with a young photographer named George Harris. They opened new branches together, he taking the pictures and she as a receptionist. When Mr. Bushnell died, Mrs. Ewing, now well known in the photography business, went to New York for Theodore Marceau, who was opening a new theatrical studio on Broadway.

Fortune also took Harris to New York and one day he asked his former teammate: "Why don't we go into business for ourselves?"

"We counted our savings, shook the piggy banks, and decided we could just do it," says Mrs. Ewing. Meeting at the St. Louis Fair (they were crossing the continent in opposite directions again) they picked the location for their independent studio.

Menu Decides

"We were having lunch," relates Mrs. Ewing. "Harrie picked up the menu, tore it in half, and handed one piece to me. 'Write your choice of three cities,' he instructed, 'and I'll do the same.' We both chose Washington first . . . so Washington it was."

The new firm of Harris & Ewing opened on February 17, 1905. Still an active employe is the color artist, Rossie (Mrs. Lucile Ross McCall), who was a member of the staff that first day.

"Our office was very shiny and elegant," describes Mrs. Ewing, "all red and black and gold . . . but we had no samples to hang on the walls."

So Martha Ewing called up some of Washington's noted political figures and celebrated beauties and invited them in for sittings. It wasn't long after these pictures appeared on display that others started calling for appointments. Photography offers wonderful training in psychology, believes Mrs. Ewing.

"You really get to know people," she remarks, "because photography deals in people's vanity.

"I'll never forget Helen Taft's debut," she sighs. "I was helping to get together a layout for the society page of The Washington Post. All the debutantes that season insisted on being on the same page with the President's daughter. Some even threatened to cancel their photograph orders. Of course, there wasn't room for everyone.

"And I'll never forget President Taft's inauguration," continued the handsome, gray-haired woman, one would never suspect of being 77 years old. "What a day! Cold and snowing . . . and all the newspapers in a hurry for their pictures. One little reporter from New York thought he'd beat everyone else. He chartered an engine and it stood on the track all day puffing away . . . and we just let it puff. We had to treat all our customers alike. We finished our pictures painstakingly and handed them out to everyone at the same time."

Strangely, however, despite Mrs. Ewing's love for photography she has never become a "button pusher" herself.

"As Harrie always used to say, 'I take the pictures and Ewing takes the money,'" she chuckles.

When the firm was 10 years old, Mrs. Ewing sold out her interest and returned to California. She bought a home, Sunset Hill, at Pebble Beach on the 17-mile drive, and her greatest interest now is raising flowers, especially begonias, which she exhibits in the Monterey County Fair.

Polish Artist's Work Exhibited

Diplomatic and official society have been invited to the opening of the exhibitions of paintings this evening at 6:30 in the Copley Lounge of Georgetown University, by the Polish artist, Boleslaw Jan Czedekowski. The collecture of 31 portraits, many of American officers, will be on view for a month, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily and Sundays through January 10.

The former Polish Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski and Charles Henry Smith of Alexandria, Va., are sponsoring the exhibit.

Conspicuous among the portraits will be the one done of the late Gen. George S. Patton, whose Third Army rescued the artist at Salzburg, Austria, during the final stages of the war. A favorite portrait of the general's widow, it was loaned by her for the exhibit. Other American officers whom Mr. Czedekowski painted were Lieut. Gen. Joseph P. McNarney, Lieut. Gen. Lucien K. Truscott, Gen. George W. Smyth and Maj. Ralph Pearson of Falls Church, Va. They will be on exhibition also.

Mr. Czedekowski fled from his home in Warsaw at the time of the Nazi invasion and took refuge in Vienna. He became a firm friend of General Patton and when the doughty Third Army commander established an art school for his GIs, the artist taught in it for four months. He now resides in Falls Church, Va.

Before the war, the artist exhibited portraits in Vienna, Warsaw, Paris and London. Some of his portraits are now in the Fogg Art Gallery of Harvard University, the Glasgow Art Gallery and the Zacheta of Warsaw.

Canadian Films Shown

Artists and art patrons of Washington attended a showing of Canadian films last evening at the home of the Canadian Counselor and Mrs. Magann. The films were in color and produced by the National Film Board of Canada to further information on Canadian art.

In Bridal Procession

Miss Doris Mae Stuli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Stull of Fairfax, Va., became the bride of Herbert Edward Kell at an informal ceremony in the parsonage of Wesley Methodist Church in Chevy Chase, Md., November 30.

The Rev. J. Stanley Lowell officiated and Mr. Stull gave his daughter in marriage. The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Leon Sproles, and Mr. Sproles was best man. After their wedding trip to New York Mr. and Mrs. Kell will reside in Washington.

Lape—Brumbaugh

Miss Anna Lora Brumbaugh was married to Charles Kenneth Lape of Johnstown, Pa., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Brumbaugh in Glenn Dale, Md., the afternoon of Thanksgiving, November 27. Her paternal grandfather officiated.

The bride wore a ballerina suit of gray gabardine with black accessories and carried a white Bible with an orchid and shower of ribbons.

The 40 guests were entertained at a reception following the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom left afterward for Juniata College in Huntingdon, Pa., where both are students.

Byrnes—Chavoen

The marriage of Miss Dolores Isabel Chavoen of this city and Noel Kenneth Byrnes of Arlington, Va., took place November 15 in the rectory of St. Francis Xavier's Church.

The bride wore a green suit with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Melvin R. Chewning, matron of honor, wore a wine suit with black accessories and white carnations. Mr. Chewning served as best man.

Following a wedding trip to New York Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes will reside in Washington.

Why Not Give Away That Old Overcoat?

This is the time of the year to give away all useless articles of household equipment and clothing and make someone's winter a bit easier. Give the unused overcoat to a needy person instead of letting it hang all this winter in your closet. Sonny's outgrown underwear might fit one of his less fortunate classmates. Weed out the closets and store closets of the house and see if you cannot do a great deal of good with things that have just stayed in their places for several years, doing nothing for anybody.

Your Questions on Homemaking

I wonder if any of your readers would be interested in 50 pieces of stamped brown and white English ware, Melbourne pattern, made by Challiner, England? They are: 11 cups, 12 saucers, 12 square sauce dishes, 12 round plates (8-inch), 2 octogonal plates (10-inch), and 1 milk jug (6 inches high). All are in perfect condition. M. K.

How about it, readers? Anyone interested in having this Melbourne china?

Can you tell me if there is any store in or around Washington that sells cuspidors? A. V.

There's a hotel equipment company in Washington that sells them, both the china and brass kind. You can obtain further information by telephoning District 8717.

Could you tell me how to go about tinting picture frames which are now a natural wood tone? Is there a special method or do you use plain water colors, oils, or pastels? G. S.

The frames can be tinted with oil paint, diluted with turpentine. If they're now unfinished, it will only be necessary to go over them with a rag and a bit of turpentine to clean them before applying the paint. If they have a shellac or varnish finish, it will be necessary to remove this with a paint and varnish remover before tinting.

Is there some place in Washington that teaches furniture upholstering or a book which tells you how to recondition old overstuffed furniture? L. W. S.

There are apparently no upholstering courses being given in Washington at the present time. However, the District of Columbia public schools plan to start a night class of this type some time in February. Plans for the class haven't yet been completed, but I suggest that in January you telephone National 6000 and ask for Central High School. Mr. Knight there can tell you exactly when and where the course will be given.

A number of good booklets and pamphlets on this subject are available at the District Public Libraries. One is "Beauty Treatments for the Home," by Kay Hardy. If you visit the main library, go to the technology branch, where material of this kind is available. The branch libraries also have such books on their shelves.

Some corduroy overalls which might have been stored in the basement for about 18 months are now quite mildewed. I have not washed them yet or tried anything to remove the mildew as I am afraid I'll do the wrong thing. Will you tell me the best procedure for cleaning the overalls? M. J W.

If the overalls are washable, you may be able to remove the mildew by washing them in soap and water, rinsing well, and drying in the sun. If stain still remains, spots can be moistened with lemon juice and salt and spread in the sun to bleach. Rinse afterward and dry. (Use this treatment with care on colored clothes.)

Another safe bleach for use on washable clothes is sodium perborate. Sponge mildew spots with solution made with 1 tablespoon sodium perborate to a pint of lukewarm water, or sprinkle the powder directly on the stain. Let stand minute or two, then rinse well. If overalls are of colored material, first test the bleach on a sample of the cloth or a seam or hem of the garment.

My husband and I recently received a crate of dried fruits—dates, figs, apricots and citron—from his mother in California. It is impossible for us to eat all of them at once. How can I keep them without spoiling for future use? S. J. S.

Unless your kitchen or pantry is unusually hot, you should be able to keep the dried fruit on a cabinet shelf without danger of spoilage. If there's a chance that insects may get into them, put the fruit in glass screw-top jars. Of course, if you wish, you can put the fruit in jars in the refrigerator, but it really shouldn't be necessary.

LITTLE Nikia Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark, takes one more admiring look at the fascinating lamp in her nursery before tripping off to bed. The faun figurine is one of a pair of decorative lamp bases of mythical design created by Barbara Baldwin, New York sculptress, whose work is creating much current interest. Fine art sculpture is put to both decorative and practical use in this beautiful pair of lamps, which are named "Earth" and "Water"

"Gee whiz, all the other women I know think a drive in the moonlight is romantic!"

Capital Is Inspiration For Designer

When Senora Ana L. de Cruz set out from her native San Juan, Puerto Rico, to study fashion, her destination was uncertain.

Hollywood's styles, she decided, were too theatrical; New York's too commercial; those of impoverished Paris too limited.

So, the Senora decided on our own city of Washington. Now, after several months of study she is returning to her native island, convinced that she was right—that Washington is the fashion center of the world.

"Washington should, and I think it unconsciously does, have more to offer the student of dress design than any other city," the young visitor said.

Two chief attractions here for her are the abundance of art galleries and museums at which to study classic lines, color combinations and fabric designs of the old masters; and the number of well dressed women in the diplomatic corps who usually display the best of their own countries' fashions.

The Senora has spent all her spare hours visiting local art centers. Her favorites are the National Museum, the National Gallery, the Arts and Industries Building, Smithsonian Institution and Freer and Corcoran galleries, Artists' Cooperative, the Library of Congress, the Pan American Union and Dumbarton Oaks.

In pursuit of formal education she completed a dress designing course at Livingstone Academy and an advanced course at the Magda School of Dress Design where she studied under Magda Johnson.

Senora de Cruz discovered a number of excellent ideas at the art galleries which she plans to use in future designs. In a Van Dyck portrait of a little princess, she noted an exquisite tapestry border which will be duplicated as a gold belt on a white dress. An unusual jacket worn by Martha Washington's son in a painting by Savage, will become part of a modern suit. From the portrait of the Marquisa de Portejos by Goya, she received inspiration for a wedding dress and also the color combination for a bride's trousseau. A new sleeve idea was discovered in the steel folds of armor on an oil of St. Michael.

"Washington itself offers creative inspiration," according to Senora de Cruz. "Nowhere in the world are there such eloquent building, especially the art galleries. Unlike so many in Paris, Rome, New York or Chicago, the galleries here are set like gems in the center of large landscapes of green grass, with mountings of evergreens."

Beer Rinse Is Recipe for Prize Tresses

By Peggy Preston

GLADYS DAVIS, the pretty redhead who was selected as the girl with the "Most Beautiful Hair" in Washington, has a home beauty aid which she recommends to those who want glossy tresses.

Use a beer rinse, she says. Her formula is as follows: one bottle of beer to two bottles of water. First give your hair two soapings, rinse well with clear water. Then pour on the beer rinse.

"And be sure not to wash it out or you'll lose the beneficial effects," cautions Miss Davis.

The above ritual for hair care is performed by Miss Davis every five days. She washes her hair after dinner and by the time she is ready for bed it is dry. Then comes the bobby pin routine. "I use about 100 of them," sighs Gladys. But if you want a well cared for crop of hair, you have to work for it, in her opinion.

MISS GLADYS DAVIS

Vies With 700

Gladys won her title in competition against 700 local girls who entered the contest run by Bill Herson of station WRC. Her prizes include a weekend trip to New York with accommodations at the Waldorf; a day of beauty treatments at the House of Scandia; a visit to NBC network radio and television programs; lunch at the Park Avenue Restaurant. On her return to Washington she will be given a course in modeling at a local school.

"I think it would be nice to spend New Year's Eve in New York," muses the winning beauty who entered the contest "just to find out what it was all about" and was surprised when she took first honors.

Vital statistics on Miss Davis: Age, 25; height, 5 feet, 6½ inches; weight, 126 pounds, eyes, brown; hair, medium auburn; complexion, fair. A native of Barbourville, Ky., she came to Washington during the war, had remained to become a clerk in the Department of the Army. She shares an apartment in Alexandria with another G-girl and likes Washington and her job so well that she has no ambition to leave either. Not even for a modeling job for which she possesses the necessary charms. "My life suits me fine the way it is," says Gladys.

First Clinic For Arthritis Opened Here

Georgetown University Hospital has opened Washington's first arthritis clinic in a far-reaching effort to understand more about the disease and devise better ways to treat it.

Dr. Frank Horvath, head of the hospital's out-patient department, said yesterday the new clinic had seen its first patients last Thursday. It will be open from 8:30 a. m. tomorrow and every succeeding Thursday.

The clinic, on the second floor of the new hospital at 3800 Reservoir rd. nw., is more than a laboratory in which specialists can observe many cases of the disease complex, Dr. Horvath said. It will make available to a large number of indigent patients the diagnosis and therapy they cannot afford. Also, they will have the services of arthritis specialists intent on finding new and better therapeutic techniques.

Arthritis—literally, an inflammation of the joints—has a relatively high incidence, is painful and often deforming and runs a long course in most types, affecting persons in old age mostly. Nonetheless, little is known of the origin of the two commonest types, and present methods of treatment are too often ineffective.

Like the 40-odd other clinics at the hospital, the arthritis clinic was set up under the general direction of Dr. Horvath anad Dr. Harold Jeghers, chief of medicine. Operating it will be Dr. Darrell Crain, specialist in arthritis, Dr. J. Lawn Thompson, an internist working on the disease, and Dr. Milton Cobey, orthopedic consultant.

Board Awards Takoma Park School Job

A $205,540 contract for construction of a 10-room first unit of Flower Avenue Elementary School in Takoma Park was awarded yesterday by the Montgomery Board of Education to Opho Mays, Silver Spring builder, the low bidder.

Other contracts awarded: R. H. Best Co., Inc., for construction of one classroom, toilets and washroom facilities at Montrose Elementary School, at $20,679; Kamp & Heck Co., for modernizing Bethesda Elementary School cafeteria, $7749, and Opho Mays, a temporary gymnasium unit at Lincoln High School, Rockville, $77,399.

The board accepted the resignations of Miss Mildred Bradford, East Silver Spring; Mrs. Jean T. Staggers, Rockville; Morton V. Churchill, Sherwood, and Mrs. Elmyra P. Burdette, Gaithersburg. It appointed Mrs. Ruth Ansberry, Bethesda; Mrs. Marguerite Gingrich, a clerk, Somerset; Miss Marie Doran, Potomac; Mrs. Dorothy G. Lippincott, Glenmont; Mrs. Hilda Cunningham, East Silver Spring; Paul H. Eggers, Sherwood, and Graham A. Hopper, Silver Spring Intermediate.

Parley Urges Fight on Fear Of Atom Bomb

Baltimore, Dec. 9 (AP).—Delegates to the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers were urged today to combat universal fear of the atom bomb by helping "children understand it."

Dr. E. T. McSwain, professor of education at Northwestern University, said that while the implications of atomic energy are terrifying "there is a power superior to it and that is mental and moral power."

In a discussion of family relationships, Dr. McSwain warned the 300 delegates against imposing "their minds" on children. "That is the tragedy of the world," he said. "Too many people are imposing their own minds on young maturing minds."

At the afternoon session, Miss Mary Titus of Huntington, W. Va., past president of the Classroom Teachers Association of the National Education Association, urged the spending of more money for public education.

More money will have to be of school appropriations of other spent even to equal the amount nations, including Russia, she said. than our present allotments and "We could spend three per cent more than our present allotsments and not exceed bankrupt England. . . . We would have to spend more than seven per cent to surpass Russia," she added.

Miss Titus also urged further pay increases for teachers.

Entire Hunt Club Thunders Into Top-Secret Area

Westcott, England, Dec. 9 (U.P.).—The entire Bicester Hunt Club—fox, hounds, horses and all—succeeded last Friday in piercing the "airtight" defense ring surrounding Wescott's top-secret rocket research plant, red-faced security officials admitted today.

While leading British rocket scientists were hard at work in the supposedly spy-proof area, the hounds ran the fox to earth in a rocket pit on the project.

The pink-coated huntsmen rode up, shouting "Yoicks!" and "view halloo!" but plant authorities, muttering "slackers" refused to surrender the fox's brush.

Meeting of Veterans To Hear Farm Officials

Dr. Morris Wheating, director of information, National Council of Farm Cooperatives, and William Blaisdell, president of the board of Eastern Cooperatives, Inc., will be guest speakers at a meeting of Chapter No. 1, American Veterans Committee, at 8 o'clock tonight in the South Agriculture Building auditorium.

Ice Rinks Urged as Experiment in Play Areas

An experiment to see whether ice skating rinks can be established at six District recreation areas was recommended yesterday by the District Recreation Board.

The board, adopting a report by Robert W. Andrews, assistant Recreation Department superintendent, recommended the experiment be tried first at the Randall and Raymond recreation areas. If successful, the project may be extended to the Jefferson, Howard tennis courts, Congress Heights and Langdon areas.

Civic, patriotic and other organizations were asked by the board to assist in planting of trees in recreation areas as mementos to war heroes and national and community leaders. Listing 11 types it considers desirable, the board estimated cost at $20 to $30 each.

The board announced President Truman will personally light the National Community Christmas Tree and give his greeting to the Nation at 5 o'clock on Christmas eve. It will be the twenty-fifth observance of the National Community Tree. The celebration is under the joint sponsorship of the Recreation Board, National Capital Parks, American Forestry Association, Electric Institute of Washington and Board of Trade.

Dirksen Asks for Full Report On Strike at Browne Jr. High

House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) announced last night he is asking the District Commissioners and school officials for a full report on the parent-pupil strike at the Negro Browne Junior High School.

At the same time, Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, announced that she had conferred with a spokesman of striking parents in a closed conference covering objections to sending their children to two former white elementary schools, used as annexes to the Browne building.

Dirksen said he plans no action until he is informed what the facts are. He said his request for reports would go to District Commissioner John Russell Young, Mrs. Doyle and Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning.

He made the announcement after conferring in his office with Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro Council, who earlier had discussed the school strike with House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.).

Mrs. Doyle turned down a request made by Gardner Bishop, spokesman for the parents, that Board of Education members meet with striking parents and hear their objections to the use of the two annexes, Blow School, 19th and Benning rd. ne., and Webb School, 15th and Rosedale sts. ne.

Parents had ample opportunity to express their views at a public hearing and at open meetings of the board's committee on buildings and grounds, Mrs. Doyle said.

The Board of Education president accepted an invitation from Bishop to attend a mass meeting of parents at 8 p. m. tomorrow at Jones Memorial Church, 42d st. and Benning rd. ne.

Mrs. Doyle said that she will discuss informally with parents their objections and see what can be worked out for the best advantage of the students.

Mrs. Doyle asked Bishop to compile a list of repairs that parents think are needed at the two annex buildings. She pledged aid in seeing that these repairs are made at once.

Dr. Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent of Schools in charge of Negro schools, who was called into the conference, outlined plans for improving the two annex buildings.

These include repair of blackboards and the moving in of science equipment.

Dirksen said that in his conference with Brown he invited the Negro Council director to contribute in writing a full statement of his views of the strike and what he wants done.

Gen. Cox to Address Pepco Post of Legion

Gen. Albert L. Cox, commander of the District National Guard, will be guest speaker at a meeting of Pepco Post No. 43, American Legion, at 8 o'clock tonight in the Pepco auditorium, 10th and E sts. nw.

The following officers will be installed: Erroll Dunbar, commander; Jerome P. Lynch, first vice commander; L. Russell Chase, second vice commander; Lawrence A. Sullivan, third vice commander; E. E. Kennard, adjutant; W. F. Stansbury, finance officer; G. L. Myers, chaplain; D. W. Burgess, historian; S. C. Boyd, sergeant at arms, and S. R. Payne, judge advocate.

Guard Charged With Police Impersonation

A guard at the Bethesda Naval Hospital who flashed his badge on a former lieutenant in the Maryland State Police, stopping him on a highway, yesterday was charged with impersonating an officer.

The guard, identified by Bethesda police as Deedie A. Boatwright, 47, of Frederick, Md., was released under $200 bond pending a hearing in Bethesda Police Court January 5.

The former police lieutenant, James R. Miller, now a Rockville attorney, told Bethesda police he was forced off the road by Boatwright, who identified himself as "Sergeant Boatwright of State Police" and informed him: "I'm running you in." Miller swore out the warrant against Boatwright.

One on the Aisle—

The Trumans Laugh

Bobby Clark Is Plain Wonderful

By Richard L. Coe

(Reprinted from yesterday's final edition.)

PRESIDENT AND MRS. TRUMAN headed the happiest audience the National has seen in months last night to welcome Bobby Clark in "Sweethearts."

It was a riotous performance, a grand audience and you might as well march yourself down to the National boxoffice. If it means mortgaging the old homestead, the heck with the old homestead.

For Bobby Clark is certainly one of our really great comics. His humor is logic carried to the final degree. His sense of outraged dignity is wonderful to see. In a series of fantastic disguises which get progressively more insane, Bobby will make you shout with rare and wonderful laughter.

From the moment he comes on he leers affectionately at the audience. At one point he drags in a horseless cart, rushes up to the footlights and asks: "Did a horse just run up this aisle?" His humor is endlessly resourceful, spontaneously timed and refreshingly earthy.

To their credit, Producers Paula Stone and Michael Sloane are doing "Sweethearts" the way the old operettas should be done. Clark has his way of kidding the Victor Herbert-Harry B. Smith warhorse that is kindly and comic. "Pardon me for talking to myself," he remarks, "but it's an old operetta custom." And when the story gets muddled the way those things about mythical kingdoms do, Bobby sneers "Never was a thin plot so complicated." It's a minor point but typical, that the choice of the word thin is so right.

It is the plot one has to thank for making the Clark disguises possible. In the first act you'll find him dolled up as a laundry woman, with a passion for starch, that is the funniest scene we've watched in the theater for years. If this one doesn't make you laugh, you might as well hole up for good.

Because the plot concerns laundrying, don't be mislead into the belief that "Sweethearts'" humor is washed with soap. The Clark wit is distinctly bawdy, but it has the warm, earthy quality of lusty humor, not the shamefaced tastelessness of the Broadway hillbillies. This facile honesty is certainly one of the great aspects of Clark's comedy. He has found the invisible line between a smirk and a belly-laugh.

Apart from the Clark funniements (for to detail all of them would spoil your own joy of discovery), there are other bright folk in "Sweethearts."

June Knight is the lass we're thinking of—the same vitality-chucked June who introduced "Begin the Beguine" in Cole Porter's "Jubilee." June has some of that tough fiber that makes you think of Ethel Merman and in her only number to herself, "I Might Be Your Once-in-a-While," she exhibits that song-and-dance versatility of which our musical comedy stage now has so little. Here is a girl who can sing, dance, look terrific, as the phrase puts it, and what's more, know how to use it.

Then there's the elegantly lady-like Marjorie Gateson, whom you've admired in so many films. As the lady who curiously succumbs to Clark's changing humors, she's exactly what she should be. Too bad the Herbert score hasn't a number all for her.

Your favorite melodies, the title song, "Land of My Romance," are pleasantly enough sung and one can't help noting the contrast between these principals and chorus and those of the sleezy revivals which of late have plagued the National stage. There's a charming soprano of nice range from the heroine, Ann Andre and a good, sound voice in Robert Shackleton's Lieut Karl. Alan Ross looks the prince he is supposed to be and Anthony Kemble Cooper has developed a comic sense you might not have suspected from his straight dramatic appearances.

But it's really Bobby Clark's "Sweethearts." His songs, dances and pointed patter—including some neatly timely observations—assure the National two weeks of the rarest thing in our sorry world today—honest laughter.

"SWEETHEARTS." Paula Stone and Michael Sloane present the Victor Herbert operetta. Original book by Harry B. Smith and Fred De Gresac revised by John Cecil Holm; lyrics by Robert B. Smith. Staged by John Kennedy. Musical arrangements by Russell Bennett. Ensembles by Catherine Littlefield. Scenery by Peter Wolf. Choreography by Theodore Adolphus. Musical Director, Arthur A. Norris. At the National.

Mistinguett Forgets Words of Her Song

London, Dec. 9 (NYHI.).—Mistinguett, well-known French singer who puts her age at 63, broke down and forget her lines several times last night while singing her famous old song, "Mon Homme" (My Man).

Twice the Parisian star forgot the words of the song she has sung for 30 years and twice she left the stage of the London Casino in tears. She remembered the words on her third attempt and received an ovation. She told her audience: "Before, I loved you. Now I adore you."

MOTHER GOOSE-CAPETS: Here are Mary Sleichter and Don Pearson in one of those bright, shiny routines in the zestful "Ice-Capades," which holds the ice at Uline's Arena through next Sunday evening. Mary and Don are part of "Mother Goose Omelet"

"Mister" Carter at Capitol

Where There's Life There's Hope, of Course

While the week brings several changes in bills, only two new pictures will be making their downtown bows this week—both at Loew's E st. houses.

"Pirates of Monterey" takes over the Capitol screen beginning Thursday, with Jack Carter, formerly with "Call Me Mister," headlining the stage bill. Maria Montez, Rod Cameron and Philip Reed are the leading players in the Technicolor film.

"Where There's Life" arrives the same morning at the Palace, with Bob Hope introducing a new leading lady t ohis comic goings-on, Swedens Signe Hasso. William Bendix is the third co-star.

Both Warners' downtown houses, the Warner and the Metropolitan, will be showing reissues. "Jezebel" arrives Thursday morning at the Warner with Bette Davis in the role which won her the Academy Award. Fay Bainter, who also received Academy recognition for her work in the picture, Donald Crisp, Henry O'Neil and Spring Byington are the other principals.

Brace of Comedies.

Comedy holds the Metropolitan screen with Loretta Young and Ray Milland in "The Doctor Takes a Wife," opening Thursday.

For "Torment's" third week at the Little, a companion feature si being added, 'Storm in a Teacup,' the blithe Scottish comedy about a dog and a politician's ineptness. Vivien Leigh, Rex Harrison and Sara Allgood top the cast of this veteran favorite.

The Louis-Walcott fight pictures have strengthened Danny Kaye's pull at Keith's, where "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" goes into a third week. "Song of Love," the Schumann-Brahms-Liszt biography with Katharine Hepburn, Paul Henreid and Robert Walker, returns to F st. at the Columbia, and "Green for Danger," the British melodrama, remains at the Hippodrome.

"Menagerie" Back

University players are much in the spotlight.

The Howard Players last night opened a four-night run in Tennessee Williams' well-loved play, "The Glass Menagerie," in the campus theater. Reservations may be made at DUpont 6100.

George Washington University Players offer their first production Friday and Saturday nights in Lisner Auditorium with Carlo Goldoni's comedy of eighteenth century Italy, "The Fan." Edward Mangum, formerly director of the Mount Vernon Players, is directing the student company. For reservations call NAtional 5055.

Harvard University's Hasty Pudding Club arrives for a one-night stand Sunday, December 21, at Lisner Auditorium, in its 100th annual production, "Here's the Pitch." Tickets at Kitt's.

Princeton's equally famous Triangle Club will play a visit to the same hall Tuesday, December 23, with its 56th annual musical, "All Hights Reserved." Tickets from John A. Nevius, 1639 19th st. nw., or NAtional 4608.

The youngsters are to the fore, too, with the opening Friday night at Roosevelt High School of "Peter Pan." The Barrie play is being done by the Children's Theater of Washington, sponsored by the D. C. Recreation Department. Tickets for the all-children play at the Snow Concert Bureau, 1108 G st., or REpublic 4433.

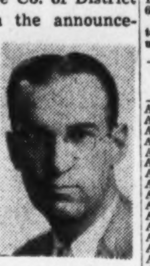
C. M. Boteler Elected Head Of Mutual Fire

By S. Oliver Goodman

A 76-year-old tradition was maintained by directors of the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of District of Columbia with the announcement yesterday that Charles M. Boteler has been elected president.



C. M. Boteler

Since 1871 a Boteler has served in an executive capacity with the firm. Charles' father, L. Pierce Boteler, recently retired as president after 51 years service. Charles' grandfather, J. Wesley Boteler, served in executive capacities for about 26 years.

The new president is a native of Washington, attended Eastern High School and George Washington University. He has been engaged in the fire and casualty insurance business here since 1919. He is also executive vice president of the Mutual Insurance Agency, Inc.

At the same time it was announced that William C. Noell has been elected executive vice president of Mutual Fire. Noell, a graduate of Virginia Military Institute, is a native of Lynchburg, Va. He was associated with the Southeastern Underwriters Association for eight years and during World War II served as a lieutenant colonel in the Chemical Warfare Service. He will assume his new duties here on January 1.

Mutual Fire, chartered in 1855, has assets in excess of $325,000 and surplus of more than $324,000. It is located in the 1300 block of H st. nw.

NET UP SHARPLY. Mergenthaler Linotype Co., listed on the Washington Stock Exchange, yesterday reported net income of $1,305,613 for fiscal year ended September 30, equal to $5.54 a common share. This compares with $414,303, or $1.76 a share, in preious fiscal year, when a tax carryback credit of $2,150,000 was made. President J. T. Mackey reported net sales of $16,992,930 for latest year, a new peacetime record.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Dec. 9 (AP).—Wheat futures prices climbed upward early at the Board of Trade today, then faltered and then picked up steam again. Corn and oats were strong early, with corn up about 5 cents, but prices of the feed grains reacted somewhat in late dealings.

Rather persistent wheat buying was attributed to mills, pushing the nearby December contract up as much as 5½ cents. The mill demand was believed to reflect sales of flour to the Government, which reentered the market yesterday.

Feed grains were spurred early by the cold weather over the main belt, which was expected to retard movement to market further, and also by strong cash prices.

Profit-taking sales caused reactions in all pits. Demand also slackened somewhat following news from Washington that the Administration had proposed legislation which would permit the Government to purchase the entire wheat crop. Trade authorities said, however, they believed the bill had little chance of passage.

Wheat closed 2 to 5¼ cents higher than the previous finish, December 3.09¾@3.10; corn was up 1 to 3¼, December 2.57¼@2.57¾, and oats were ¼ to 1⅜ higher, December 1.24⅞@1.25; soybeans were up 3 to 5 cents, March 3.85.

In the cash market a car of No. 2 extra heavy white oats sold at 1.36, within a cent of the record high established recently.

Stocks Renew Rally in Brisk Trading Day

New York, Dec. 9 (AP).—Recovery trends prevailed in today's stock market with volume topping the million-share level for the second time since November 19.

From the start professional short covering and reinvestment demand tended to offset year-end tax selling. Buying still was predicated on the idea that the recent slide to average lows since last June called for a substantial technical comeback. Rails again were benefited by fare boosts and hopes for freight rate increases. An oversubscription of a special 34,000-share offering of Montgomery Ward was helpful.

WHAT STOCKS DID:	Tues.	Mon.
Advances	514	539
Declines	292	252
Unchanged	212	198
Total issues	1018	989

Selected rails and industrials exhibited strength throughout although many leaders failed to do much on the upside and the lowers were plentiful at the close. Transfers of 1,070,000 shares compared with 960,000 Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .3 of a point at 63.3 where it had retrieved a sizable part of last Friday's slump.

Touching highs for 1947 were Nickel Plate Railway which finished up 3 points at 41; Follansbee Steel, 1¾ at 34⅞; Western Maryland, ⅞ at 9¼; Plymouth Oil, ¾ at 29, and Houston Oil, ⅞ at 27⅛.

TWA Places Order for 12 New Airliners

Purchase of 12 new Constellations at an estimated cost of 15 million dollars was announced yesterday by Lamotte T. Cohu, president of Trans World Airline.

Delivery of the planes will begin in February and the entire fleet will be in service in June. The planes are described as luxurious sleeper-types, manufactured by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. They will go into service on TWA's international routes from Washington and New York to Bombay, India.

As these new Constellations are put into service overseas, TWA's new Constellations now flying abroad will be put into domestic service, Cohu said. This will give TWA 22 Constellations for domestic service and 12 new sleeper ships for its international route.

The new-type overseas planes will enable TWA to bridge the 3500-mile span between New York and Paris without the necessity of refueling at Gander, Newfoundland or Shannon, Ireland. The planes will have a take-off weight of 102,000 pounds, and carry maximum loads of freight and passengers 3600 miles nonstop.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 9 (AP).—Cotton futures advanced sharply into new seasonal high ground today under the impetus of broad trade and outside buying which in turn stimulated considerable short covering. Final prices were $1.05 to $3.10 a bale higher.

Failure of the market to decline measurably on Monday on the higher Government cotton crop forecast, growing tightness in spot cotton supplies, with the major part of the crop ginned, and pending sizable export demand, contributed to the heavy buying of futures.

The French purchasing commission intimated it will soon be in the market after a lapse of many weeks. It advised shippers regarding terms of its next purchases and declared such cotton shall not be shipped or paid for before Congress passes the interim foreign aid bill. If the measure is not passed in time, the agency said, it will pay certain carrying charges on the sales.

20-Year Span Allowed Banks On Debt Losses

The Internal Revenue Bureau ruled yesterday banks may average their bad debt losses over a 20-year period in estimating tax-deductable reserves to be set aside against future loan losses.

Prior to yesterday's ruling, which applies to taxes on this year's income, banks have been allowed to average such losses only for a five-year period. Thus such reserves set aside were limited by the comparatively light losses of the prosperous war years.

The 20-year span goes back even beyond the depression of the 1930s, thus enabling banks now to figure in losses incurred in that era in their average estimate.

Banks which have been operating less than 20 years will be allowed to count on the average experiences of older banks, "preferably in the same locality," which are deemed "similar" to them.

The new ruling was described by officials as a sort of depreciation allowance for banks on their main stock in trade—loans—after the fashion of plant depreciation allowances to other businesses.

The American Bankers Association has been advocating the 20-year loss average method, declaring many little or "country" banks were closed during the depression primarily bcause they had been unable to set aside sufficient reserves.

VIRGINIA

HOMELESS For CHRISTMAS ???

No Necessity For It
Here Is Your Opportunity !!!!

NEARBY VIRGINIA

It is vacant now and if you qualify you can move in immediately on a down payment pending title. The home being offered is certainly a Christmas gift and there must be a Santa Claus when you can buy property like this in today's market at the price of

$15,950

It is a large semitype bungalow built in an era when homes were built to last. There are 3 bedrooms and bath on the 1st floor, the living room, dining room and kitchen are much larger than the average house today—then there are additional 2 bedrooms and bath upstairs (5 bedrooms, 2 baths in all). An ideal home for a large family. Yes, and a refrigerator and stove go with it; in addition it has oil hot-water heat, full basement, very large front porch, garage, driveway and a lot 50x200. There are many features about this grand home that are impossible to adequately describe in an advertisement. It will appeal to folks who want a substantial and comfortable home to live in. It is located in a fine neighborhood with large shopping center, bus line, schools, churches, etc., and only a few minutes to Pentagon, Navy Building and downtown Washington. Must be seen to appreciate.

Shown only on definite appointment.

Widow Tells Jury Husband Was Beaten Up

Elkton, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—The widow of 31-year-old Milton H. Jones testified today her husband had been "beaten to a pulp" when she saw him on the July night he died after being arrested for drunken driving.

The widow was called by the State in the case of State Trooper John Harbaugh and Wicomico County Jailer Jack W. Turner, who are being tried here on a charge of manslaughter. The case was transferred here from Wicomico County.

Mrs. Jones' testimony immediately preceded medical evidence offered by Dr. Robert R. Starr that the death of the Salisbury truck line operator and automobile dealer could have been caused by blows which brought on a massive brain hemorrhage.

The State has attempted to show that Jones was struck several blows after his arrest and while he was being taken to the jail on the top floor of the Wicomico County Court House. Dr. Starr, a deputy medical examiner, assisted in an autopsy preformed at Salisbury.

Va. Mental Hospitals List 1061 Job Vacancies

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—Dr. Joseph E. Barrett, State commissioner of hospitals and mental hygiene, said today that out of a total quota of 2710 employes for six mental hospitals in Virginia as of October 31 only 1649 were on the payroll, leaving 1061 vacancies.

Dr. Barrett said the employment situation at the mental institutions had shown no marked improvement despite pay adjustments which were made recently.

A Bust for St. Lo . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

THE MAJOR IN BRONZE—Sculptor William C. Westcott of New York looks over his bronze bust of Maj. Thomas D. Howie of Charleston, S. C., who died as the heroic "Major of St. Lo" when his troops broke through the outer defenses of the Normandy city in 1944. The bust will be presented to the City of St. Lo by the Staunton (Va.) Military Academy, where Major Howie coached football. It will be placed in the town square which is to be renamed "Place Majeur Thomas D. Howie"

House Action Is Delayed on Exemptions

Definite indication was given yesterday that Congress does not expect to impose Federal taxes on religious, educational or charitable organizations in any legislation slated for passage in the January session.

Those organizations, together with farm cooperatives, are exempt from Federal levies under existing revenue law.

The indication of the reluctance of Congress to tackle the controversial subject of taxing existing tax-exempt organizations came when the House Ways and Means Committee agreed yesterday to postpone hearings in the case of New York's Trinity Church until mid-January. Several other church and educational organizations also said they would prefer to present their case next year.

The committee is now looking into the various activities of church, educational and charitable organizations to determine whether their profit-making activities as landlords or business entities should not be taxed.

Representatives of two church organizations appeared before the committee yesterday, contending that all income they received was used for church purposes. They were Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches in America, and Charles S. Longacre, representing the Conference of the Seventh Day Adventists.

Soldier Guilty In Offense on 5-Yr.-Old Girl

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—Pvt. Alfred Goings, 28-year-old duty soldier at Fort George G. Meade, was convicted today of having carnal knowledge of a five-year-old girl on the outskirts of Fort Meade the night of September 14.

Maximum penalty for the crime is death, but Judge William J. McWilliams, who heard the trial without a jury in Anne Arundel County Court, postponed sentence until Thursday.

Goings, who said he came from Antlers, Okla., pleaded innocent and insanity at the time of the offense.

Frederick Groups To Bid for Estate At Gapland Arch

Frederick, Md., Dec. 9.—The 102-acre estate of the late George Alfred Townsend surround the War Correspondents Memorial Arch at Gapland, may eventually become a part of the State Park Service, it was learned today. The Maryland-Virginia Eldership of the Church of God, owner of the property, has advertised the estate for sale and will accept bids on it until December 31.

It was revealed here today that officials of the Frederick County Historical Society and the Frederick Chamber of Commerce will attempt to purchase the acreage and hold it until such time as the State Department of Forests and Parks has funds to buy it.

The War Correspondents Memorial Arch is not included in the Gapland estate, being under the jurisdiction of the National Parks Service.

Healthy Baby Born To Polio Victim

Baltimore, Dec. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Campion Rush, whose arms and legs have been paralyzed since a poliomyelitis attack August 9, gave birth to an 8-pound daughter at Maryland General Hospital today.

Doctors said the baby is healthy and normal. She is the Rushes' second.

China Reds Try To Fight Way Out of Trap

Nanking, Dec. 9 (AP).—Severe fighting was reported raging today in central China, where the Communist raiders of Gen. Liu Po-cheng were trying to slash out of a huge government net at Liulin, 115 miles north of the government base at Hankow.

A government communique asserted 2000 Communists were killed or wounded in the fighting at Liulin, where Liu's forces tried to break out west across the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

Balked here, Liu's first division turned south and crossed the railroad but the communique said other government units were in defense positions to block the attempt.

(Liu's plight would appear to be grim, with government troops in front and in the rear, with the Yellow River blocking retreat north and the Yangtze cutting off the south.

(But Liu, a daring tactician, has got out of tighter scrapes.)

New Communist attacks were reported in the seaboard provinces both north and south of Shanghai.

Gov. Lane Plans Visit To Crisfield Friday

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 A.—Governor Lane disclosed today he would visit Crisfield Friday if weather permitted following the reception to be given for him Thursday night at Princess Anne.

Mrs. Lane and their daughter Dorothy will make the trip to Princess Anne, and later return to Annapolis by car. The Governor plans to fly back from Crisfield.

Frederick County Tax Likely to Stay at $1.34

Frederick, Md., Dec. 9.—The Board of County Commissioners, scanning budget figures, said today that indications point to retention of the present tax rate of $1.34 for next year. As soon as they can determine the available surplus to be carried over into 1948, the commissioners said they would set the tax rate.

Snake Got Bumps

Bridgeboro, Ga. (U.P.). — Mrs. Georgia Booker said she thought her rocking chair on the front porch seemed "a little bumpy." The next morning she found that the rockers had crushed a 6-foot rattlesnake to death.

Vote Approves Slot Machines In St. Marys

By William H. Smith
Post Reporter

Leonardtown, Md., Dec. 9—Slot machines were legalized in St. Marys County today by a margin of nearly two to one, unofficial returns of a special county-wide referendum showed late tonight.

The referendum was technically on the question of whether the slot machines should be taxed but, as pointed out by both proponents and opponents, approval was tantamount to legalization of the machines.

Complet eunofficial returns from the nine voting districts gave 2245 in favor of the slot machine tax to 1254 against.

Only One District Opposed

One of the county's nine districts, only the tiny community of St. George's Island cast a majority opposed to the slot machines.

The official returns, which are not expected to vary more than a few votes from tonight's totals, will not be known until Thursday, when they are certified to a board of canvassers by the election officials.

Today's vote empowered the three county commissioners to designate the type of coin-operated machine which can be operated legally in the county and at the same time, to impose license fees up to $50 for each machine and to assess a 5 per cent gross receipts against them.

State Also to Share

In addition to these taxes, the State will collect one-half of 1 per cent on the total receipts.

The legalized slot machines, bitterly opposed by the St. Marys County Civic Association, will net the county about $100,000 a year in added revenues, officials estimated. Since the commissioners still must adopt a resolution authorizing them, it probably will be January 1 before any are placed in operation.

The vote by district was: Saint Imigoe's 365 for, 118 against; Valley Lee, 162 for, 140 against; Leonardtown, 465 for, 271 against; Chaptico, 169 for, 61 against; Mechanicsville, 273 for, 115 against; Hillville, 252 for, 152 against; Milestown, 318 for, 138 against; Bay, 219 for, 168 against, and St. George's Island, 24 for, 90 against.

Proposed Taxes Protested at Fredericksburg

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 9.—Some 50 merchants and professional met last night in public hearing with the city council to protest proposed new city taxes on business operations.

They termed as "unfair, unjust and discriminatory" proposals to tax their gross incomes $1 on every $100, and urged that if such taxation must be imposed the rate be cut "at least in half." Currently, businesses are taxed on net incomes but the new schedules were devised to raise additional revenue for the city.

The matter was referred to the finance committee, which is expected to report out its recommendations to a special meeting of council later this month.

Clark to Address Fishing Group

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, will be the chief speaker tomorrow at a session of the Maryland Commercial Fisherman's Association at the State House.

Governor Lane will address the group extemporaneously.

The main business up for discussion will be changing the name of the organization to the Maryland Commercial Waterman's Association in view of the recent expansion of the group to include crabbers and oystermen. The change would be made by adopting a by-law already approved by the association's board of directors.

Annapolis Head Confirmed

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., Naval Academy superintendent, has been confirmed by the Senate permanently in his rank which he had held as a temporary designation.

SAY ALOHA TO HAWAII—Admiral Louis E. Denfeld and Mrs. Denfeld arrive in San Francisco from Hawaii. They are en route to Washington and upon arriving here, Denfeld will take up his new duties as chief of naval operations. He was named to succeed Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz November 14

Guardsman Faces Trial as Drill Truant

West New York, N. J., Dec. 9 (AP). A former combat soldier who signed up for peacetime training in the National Guard was released by police today in custody of a municipal veterans' counsel after his arrest on a military warrant charging him with failure to attend weekly drill sessions.

The former GI, John Meinke, was arrested by city detectives last night on a warrant signed by Lieut. Robert Wilson of the 215th Armored Infantry Battalion, New Jersey National Guard. Wilson, whose headquarters is at Paterson, said the arrest was made under the State Militia Law of 1947.

The lieutenant said he issued the warrant only after sending two "cordial" letters asking Meinke to attend drill, then having a company commander call on him and finally sending a "strict warning" letter. Wilson said he received no response to the letters.

Meinke, who held the rank of staff sergeant in the National Guard, had served two years of combat in the European theater. Lieutenant Wilson said the National Guard now planned to court-martial Meinke under a law, which, he said, allows the guard to court-martial a civilian member of the guard.

Meinke's wife told police that her husband was unable to appear at drills because of his job as a weigher at the plant.

Driver Charged In Auto Death of Ridgley Druggist

Ridgley, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—A manslaughter charge has been filed against Carroll F. Bright, 43-year-old employe of the Denton, Md., postoffice, in the accidental death Monday night of this community's only druggist.

John B. Davis, 75, was struck by Bright's car as he was returning to his store after dinner.

State police arrested Bright after investigation. A manslaughter charge is filed automatically in most such cases.

Bright was released in $1000 bond after Magistrate William J. Rickards set a hearing for next Monday. The defendant has worked in the Denton postoffice for more than 20 years. He had been visiting his wife's parents here.

Davis came here from Centreville in 1890 to enter the drug business and since then has been one of the most familiar figures in the community.

Virginia Capitol Policeman, 84, Injured by Car

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—Capt. Jack P. Pettis, 84-year-old dean of the State Capitol police, was struck by an automobile and cut and bruised in Capitol Square today.

Pettis walked behind a car driven by Mrs. Frances Spencer, Governor Tuck's secretary, to direct another vehicle into a parking space just as Mrs. Spence was backing her car away from the curb, police said. Her slowly moving automobile knocked him to the pavement.

Medical College of Virginia emergency room attendants said they did not believe he was seriously injured.

Bandits Get $96 At Roadside Diner

Winchester, Va., Dec. 9 (Spl.).—Three armed bandits early today held up and robbed the operator and one customer of an all-night roadside diner, on Route 50, Clarke County, southeast of here. They escaped with $78 from the cash till and $18 surrendered by the customer, John Parsons of this city.

Night Operator Paul Kagey of Boyce, Va., made hasty repairs to a pay telephone the bandits had ripped from the wall, and telephoned the alarm here. In the meantime, Parsons, driver for Comico Products Corp., Alexandria, drove to Warrenton and reported to police there.

Conservation, Peanut Plan Voting Light

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—The Agriculture Adjustment Administration office here tonight began tabulation of the votes of Virginia farmers for delegates to county conservation conventions and in a referendum on a Federal control program of peanut crops. First reports indicated the vote was light.

Those chosen as delegates and alternates in today's voting will meet in county units between now and Friday to set up committees which will deal with agricultural programs. The control program calls for quotas to be set up on 1948, 1949 and 1950 crops of peanuts and must be approved by at least two thirds of the growers in 15 States.

Under this program, each grower is given a marketing quota and an acreage allotment which he is free to plant for peanuts to be harvested. It also calls for support prices of 90 per cent parity.

The control program was recommended by Secretary Anderson in July after it became apparent the country was headed for a peanut surplus. Anderson has since indicated control may be lifted on the 1948 crop because of foreign demands for vegetable oil processed from peanuts.

Quotas were removed from peanut raising four years ago and since then acreage has increased from 140,000 to about 160,000.

Towson, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—Frederick C. McCormack, heir to a headache remedy fortune who was found dead of a self-inflicted bullet wound in New York last week, left the residual part of his estate to Disiree Windisch-Graetz of New York, filing of his will disclosed today.

Hilary W. Gans, attorney for McCormack, described the New York woman as "a friend" and said an anticipated $100,000 worth of claims against the estate probably would leave her with but a small share.

Six Changes Proposed in Va. Fire Laws

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—Six comprehensive changes in State laws governing fire protection in public buildings were recommended today by the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council.

In a unanimous report to the governor and the general assembly, the VALC also recommended that the State Corporation Commission be authorized to establish minimum rules to reduce fire hazards on a State-wide basis.

The council suggested that all existing State laws having to do with fire protection in public buildings be repealed.

In place of these statutes the council asked new laws to provide for a chief fire marshal and assistants under the SCC; to empower the SCC to prepare rules and regulations for minimum fire protection; to establish a fire hazards control board of "specifically qualified persons" to advise the SCC on its code; to enable localities to adopt fire prevention codes by reference; to appropriate money from a special fund of the SCC to finance the program; and to make it a misdemeanor, subject to trial in established courts of record, for any person to violate a fire control regulation promulgated by the SCC.

"One of the greatest weaknesses" the council found in existing law covering fire hazards is that no State-wide minimum standard is fixed.

The council recalled the Jefferson Hotel fire here in 1944 and pointed out that Virginia has not always been immune from disastrous fires and expressed the opinion that proper fire control does not end with enactment of a local building code.

"We should not await the occurrence of another disaster in this State before initiating a proper program," the VALC declared.

Maryland Offers Employers New Income Tax Form

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—The income tax division of the comptroller's office favors making things easier for State employers in reporting payments to employes.

Two new forms, which correspond to reporting forms for the Federal Government, have been prepared for employers to give the State information regarding employes' incomes.

One form — 509 — lists the employe's name, Social Security number, total salary, marital status and the name of the employer. The other—509-A—shows payments of firms of interest, annuity income, rents (excluding ground rents) other income, ground rents and dividends.

Both these forms must be sent to the income tax division—February 15, annually.

Most of the larger firms print their own forms for reporting such information, but employers who need them should request them in time for submission to the State on or before February 15.

The forms are for use of employers only and while they put the employes on notice that wages are subject to income tax, they may not be used as individual's return forms as in the case of the Federal Government forms.

Charter Granted Stettinius Fund At Charlottesville

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission granted a charter today to the Stettinius Fund Incorporated, of Charlesville, a non-stock, non-profit corporation with Edward R. Stettinius, jr., of Rapidan, rector of the University of Virginia and former United States Secretary of State, as head of its board of trustees.

The corporation has been organized "to promote, foster, encourage and further educational, philanthropic, charitable, religious, humanitarian, scientific, and literary enterprises of all kinds, both in the State of Virginia and in any other part of the world."

The corporation may hold as much as 100,000 acres of land.

A board of trustees of from three to nine members will manage the fund's affairs. The board will consist at the outset of Mr. Stettinius, T. M. Boyd of the department of law at the University of Virginia, who also is president of the corporation, and Dr. Henrq B. Mulholland of the University of Virginia, who also will serve as secretary treasurer.

Princess Anne College Job To Be Delayed

Baltimore, Dec. 9 (AP).—The Board of Public Works delayed approval today of new construction at Princess Anne College pending a report from the legislative council which is studying a recommendation of the Marbury Commission that the Negro school be abolished.

The 1947 Legislature approved bond issues for construction of a boys' dormitory and science and classroom building costing $347,000.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, told the board there was urgent need for immediate action on the project, since bids have been submitted more than 30 days ago and it was doubtful if the contractors could be held much longer.

Senate President Joseph R. Byrnes advised Governor Lane and other board members that the full council would inspect the Eastern Shore school December 17.

The board also authorized use of a portion of an allocation for a new psychopathic unit at University Hospital for purchase of additional property in Baltimore. The board also:

Approved an initial $60,000 for a new horticultural substation and poultry broiler plant to be operated by the University of Maryland at Salisbury.

Approved replacement of the chlorinator at the sewage treatment plant at St. Mary's Female Seminary at a cost not to exceed $5000.

Approved $34,000 for improvements at State tuberculosis sanitariums, with $7000 to the State Sanitarium, $21,000 for the unit at Henryton, and $6000 for Mount Wilson.

Increase Foreseen In Scholarships For War Orphans

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (AP).—The State Department of Education today predicted a steady increase in the number of "war orphan scholarships" granted by the State.

The prediction was based on a report from the General Assembly's commission on veterans affairs which last week recommended a bill to double the amount of each scholarship.

Children of Virginia's war dead, or of totally disabled veterans, now may receive $200 a year toward the cost of their college education.

R. N. Anderson, director of vocational education, said he believed the next few years "unquestionably will bring an increase in applications for these scholarships."

The war orphan scholarships were set up by the General Assembly in 1932.

One Killed, One Hurt When Ditch Caves in

Towson, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—One workman was killed and another critically injured today when a drainage ditch caved in and crushed them against a concrete wall.

Ernest D. Jones, 35, was buried by the cave-in. Edward Hill, 54, was buried up to his neck and received treatment for possibly fractured ribs, back and internal injuries.

Md. Employes to Have Two Long Weekends

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—Governor Lane announced today that State employes would be given two long weekends at Christmas and New Year's.

State offices will be closed starting Christmas Day through December 28 and New Year's Day through January 4.

New Dog Shelter Opens Complete With Fire Plugs

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9 (AP).—A modern, canine "heaven," complete with cement fire hydrants, air-conditioning and ambulance service, is now available for Anne Arundel County curs.

Built at a cost of $40,000, contributed by one person, the new dog shelter is one of the most elaborate in the country.

The hotel, with its segregation pens and large exercise yards, also includes an adoption home for placement of dogs of good breed. Others are put to sleep, if not claimed in four days, by modernly cooled lethal gas to eliminate all pain.

TODAY'S RADIO HIGHLIGHTS

"WANTED—A BABY," the second in the WOL-Mutual documentary dramas dealing with children, will be presented tonight at 9:30. Explaining the need for lengthy, involved procedures in adoption cases, the drama tells the story of dismaying results which occur when people take the matter into their own hands.

Another in the WRC "The Lost Sheep" series on juvenile delinquency is scheduled for tonight at 11:30. The story of a "sensitive personality unable to stand psychic injury" is dramatized in a script by Jeff Baker. The facts are taken from the files of Dr. Ben Karpman of St. Elizabeths, a pioneer in the field of criminal psychosis.

The page boys of the Senate and House of Representatives will be interviewed on "Vox Pop" tonight at 8:30 over WMAL. Ranging in age from 14 to 17, these youngsters who get a daily lesson in current history will describe their jobs and the legislators for whom they work.

Other highlights:

"That's My Idea" dramatizes modern processes of invention. WTOP—5 p. m.

Aluminum Houses near Alexandria are discussed on network show by Arthur Gaeth. WOL—7:30 p. m.

Steiner's "Symphony Moderne," Gould's "Rumbolero" and Albeniz's "Midsummer Night's Serenade" are played by the United States Army Band. WASH-FM—8 p. m.

"We Who Are About to Die," is dramatized on "Theater of Famous Radio Players." WINX and WINX-FM—8 p. m.

Esther Williams gives Archie swimming lessons. WRC—9 p. m.

Walter O'Keefe and Bing Crosby reminisce about their leaner days when they had landladies and wolves at their door. WMAL—10 p. m.

Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame backfield star, receives Heisman Memorial Trophy in special ceremonies. WOL—10:15 p. m.

Luther Evans, Librarian of Congress, discusses accomplishments of the UNESCO conference. WTOP—11:15 p. m.

'Bundlesome Woman' Replies; Bill Loses Again

"This is in defense of those bundlesome women on streetcars," writes Mrs. R. L. G. of 13th st. se. "I'd like to point out several things that you men may have overlooked:

"1. We don't like to carry bundles any more than you like to be jabbed by them—but try to get the stores to deliver anything smaller than a cookstove.

"2. We wouldn't be carrying the bundles if we could get our men folks to do our shopping for us. But that's practically impossible.

"3. If you'd move to the rear of the car where you belong, we wouldn't have to knock you over trying to get past."

One of these days I'm going to win one of these arguments—but apparently this isn't the day.

ADD SIGNS

Robert M. Burklin of 4801 Bradley blvd., Chevy Chase, Md., spotted these signs while returning from Baltimore the other day:

"Rooms For Two Persons With Bath—$4.50," and "Accommodations For Three Persons With Radio—$5.50."

Says Bob: "We had a radio in the car, and maybe that would have qualified us for the second place. But we'd never have gotten into the first place because we left the tub at home."

Mrs. Robert H. Martin of 3016 Dumbarton ave. nw. contributes two more for our collection.

Outside a Michigan gasoline station she saw:

"Gdsoline and Mushrooms."

And up in the Cape Cod region a roadside stand advertised:

"Boneless Bananas."

PET PEEVE

"Why is it," asks Shirley A. Lee of 1100 Oakdale dr., Hyattsville, Md., "that every time I get all dolled up and board a streetcar or bus I get off looking like 2 cents?

"I now have two nice big grease spots on the back of my good coat, and they'll probably never come off."

I dunno, Shirley. I guess it's like the rain that invariably falls on a newly washed car, the phone that rings just as you've stepped into the tub, or the unexpected visitors who decide to drop in just when you've finally made good on your ambition to retire early some evening.

BY THE WAY—

Anybody who is thinking about sending a food package overseas and would like to know the names of needy European families can get some help by calling Randolph 0872.

NEW MORALITY

Some folks' idea of stealing
To me is rather queer.
They say, sans guilty feeling,
"I'll take a souvenir."

DAVID KANDEL,
Park Lane Apts.

TOKEN ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

If I'm often late in acknowledging receipt of streetcar tokens for Children's Hospital from all you nice people, it's because there are so many of you nice people in The Washington Post family.

Today's thanks go to Dorothy of the Congress Hotel, Neva B. Schultz of 753 Emerson rd., Hyattsville, Md.; Mrs. N. Eichner of 3756 W st. nw.; Mrs. J. A. Pierpoint of Hamilton, Va.; Mrs. C. A. Watkins of Claremore Farm, Ashton, Md.; Mrs. E. H. Baldwin of 1937 2d st. ne. (whose daughter found the tokens in a piggy bank which had just been opened), and Edetha Burge of 1315 Pollard st., Arlington, Va.

Previously, unacknowledged contributions were received from Mrs. Ralph L. Clark of 1502 N. Utah st., Arlington, Va.; S. E. Stevens of TWA, Mrs. J. Heywood Bell, jr., of 4820 Bradley blvd., Chevy Chase, Md.; the folks at 3714 N. Randolph st., Arlington, Va.; Robert Pattison of 1237 10th st. nw.; Herbert E. Mangels of 307 Lexington dr., Silver Spring, Md.; George R. Valleroz of 1214 G st. nw. (who finds tokens on the floor at Murphy's from time to time); Winifred Powell of 815 Varnum st. nw., and countless other friends of the hospital who didn't identify themselves.

To all of you—a sincere "thank you" from the children.

PIED TYPE DEPT.

Mrs. C. E. Moody, jr., of 1315 Mount Vernon blvd., Alexandria, Va., found this passage in one of our esteemed afternoon contemporaries:

" . . . died of a heart attack, following dinner at the home of a fiend."

This is the same paper which on Monday, in an article headed "Words to Watch," told its readers:

Homogenize, verb, to disperse the globules of cream unifromly throughout milk."

Is it okay to stop watching those words now, gentlemen?

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Greece's vote against the partition of Palestine and in opposition to the United States Government has puzzled the friends of that nation. They cannot understand why Greece, once overrun by the Nazis, should have voted pursuant to the desire of the Grand Mufti, a Nazi ally. This is what happened: The Arab League learned that at the next U. N. General Assembly Greece will introduce a resolution to brand Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria as aggressors against Greece. Russia will oppose it . . . The Arabs promised Greece to support its resolution with a bloc of 10 Arab votes in return for Greece's vote against partition.

Because Government regulations forbid the transporting of freight free of charge, the shipping charge on sending the Friendship Train food to Europe is being paid by the American Government. The refund will be made when the liners' charters come up for renewal.

Jules Glaenzer, the party-giver, will be the subject of a Saturday Evening Post piece by Maurice Zolotow.

Harry Sperber used to shortwave the broadcasts of New York championship fights to Germany—until the Nazis came to power. When war came Sperber entered the United States Army and served as a translator at the Nuremberg trials. Friday night he shortwaved the Louis-Walcott fight broadcast to Germany.

In most wartime pictures there are touching scenes showing reunions among old friends meeting in distant places. But that isn't the way it happened to Van Heflin, the screen star, and Whitney Bourne, the actress and former wife of Ambassador Stanton Griffis. When Heflin's outfit disembarked at Liverpool, they were greeted by Red Cross girls serving coffee and doughnuts. One of them was Whitney Bourne. They exchanged quick hellos, and rapidly swapped some "What's he doing now?" and "Whatever became of her?" news about their friends. But he was holding up the line. They spoke for less than two minutes, then a quick goodby—and haven't seen each other since.

Last year Molly Dawson, a British war worker, delayed the sailing of the SS Washington while she loaded the loot she won on the "Winner Take All" radio program. The winnings included a diamond ring and antique necklace. The British customs men demanded 150 per cent duty, and Miss Dawson regretfully returned the loot to "Winner Take All." Last week the producers of the show sold the jewelry and sent her a check for the proceeds.

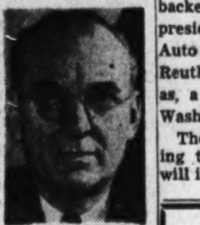
Freshmen Senators Disagree

By Drew Pearson

It's unwritten tradition that freshmen Senators shall be seen and not heard. The present crop, however, is getting more and more restless under Taft leadership, and is clamoring for a bigger voice in party councils. As a result, first-termers went into a recent huddle around the dinner table at the Metropolitan Club.



SEN. THYE

After a three-hour, nip-and tuck session, they agreed to meet together one evening each week, and present their views afterward to older Senators at the Republican Policy Committee.

Actually it has been the custom for Senate newcomers to lunch together once a week, but this has been more social than business. The new plan to take a full evening and settle down to a serious exchange of ideas was urged by Connecticut's enterprising Senator Ray Baldwin.

"We must work out our ideas together, and present them to the leadership," he declared. This would not cause a cleavage between the freshmen and old-timers, he argued, since a fair cross-section of Senate opinion is represented among the freshmen Republicans.

This was soon demonstrated when Minnesota's frank Senator Ed Thye, former Governor and poultry farmer, compared the Republican Party to a man with one end of a rope around his neck and the other tied to a horse. This is no time, he warned, to swat the horse on the rump.

Thye referred to the dilemma in which the President's price program left the Republicans. The best politics, he suggested, would be to give Truman the powers he asks and let him hang himself. New York's forceful Irving Ives, a former dean of Cornell University, agreed that this might be the best strategy after all.

Another Poultry Farmer

But mild-mannered Senator John Williams of Delaware, a grain merchant and turkey raiser, objected with more than usual vigor.

"I would rather take a beating in 1948 and stand up for what I think is right," he shook his head, "than sit back and play politics."

Sandy-haired Senator Ralph Flanders, a Vermont manufacturer, warned that a meat crisis is inevitable early next year unless drastic measures are taken.

Garrulous Senator Arthur Watkins of Utah hammered again at his pet idea that the Government should buy up the Nation's wheat crop. He got little encouragement from colleagues.

Massachusetts' impeccable Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., urged his colleagues to support a long-range program of aid to Europe.

"All I ask," he pleaded, "is that you keep open minds until we work out a bill for foreign aid."

James Kem of Missouri doubted the Senate's ability to work out a practical, long-range aid program.

"It shouldn't be a one-way street," Lodge agreed. "In return we should take scarce materials and air bases."

European Wealth in USA

Congratulations to young GOP Congressman Walter Norblad of Oregon for one of the soundest proposals in helping Europe to help itself! Most newspapers missed it, but Norblad has introduced a resolution calling upon the Commerce and Treasury Departments to make public all property in this country owned by foreign citizens and to identify the individuals who hold the property.

Of an estimated 27 billion dollars worth of bank deposits, gold, stocks, bonds and other investments held by foreigners in the United States, about 50 per cent—more than 13 billion dollars worth—is in the names of citizens who would receive help through the European recovery program.

Norblad isn't asking that the United States seize these holdings—but he does think it would be a good idea for the governments which want help from us to see what they can do about getting some value from these holdings. He proposes that the few lucky European citizens who have wealth in this country share with the American taxpayers the burden of helping the mass of Europe's people get back on their feet.

Merry-Go-Round

Florida's six Congressmen, who promoted Everglades National Park, are sore because they were left off the dedication program. Instead, Senators Claude Pepper and Spessard Holland shared the spotlight with President Truman.

CIO President Phil Murray, who backed Walter Reuther for the presidency of the powerful United Auto Workers Union, has given Reuther's No. 1 enemy, R. J. Thomas, a job in CIO headquarters in Washington.

The man responsible for spreading the false rumors that Russia will invade the Middle East is Cecil Haurani, head of the Arab office in Washington.

Utah's Senator Arthur Watkins, who tried to block the appointment of fellow Utahn Abe Murdock to the National Labor Relations Board last spring, will come up swinging again despite the fact that the labor committee unanimously approved Murdock for confirmation. Watkins asked Chairman Robert Taft for permission to speak against the man he defeated in the 1946 senatorial race. Taft told the Utah Republican he could take all the time he wanted.
